

DESPERATE BATTLES ON

PATROLMAN M'MANMON SHOT AT BY PRISONER

Assailant a Youth From Somersworth, N. H.—Held in $5000 for Attempt to Murder Patrolman

Charged with an attempt to murder Officer McManmon, Avilla Baron, hailing from Somersworth, N. H., was sent to jail in default of $5000 bail for his appearance next Tuesday.

Patrolman Peter P. McManmon, who watches in the early morning in the vicinity of Merrimack square, had a miraculous escape from death early this morning when an 18-year-old boy, whom he was arresting for alleged larceny, fired three shots at him from a 32 calibre revolver directly in front of the main entrance to the police station. The policeman was not seriously injured and after a struggle succeeded in taking the gun from his assailant, who was later booked as Avilla Baron of Somersworth, N. H., and charged with assault with intent to kill a police officer.

The first bullet fired pierced the officer's trousers, the second went wild and the third grazed his left cheekbone, scraping off the skin and leaving marks of the powder. As the officer and prisoner were grappling at the time of the shooting, the patrolman was quite fortunate in not being killed or seriously injured.

The shooting occurred about 1 o'clock, following a chase through Central and Middlesex streets. About 12:30 o'clock Patrolman McManmon saw a young man driving a suspicious looking horse and buggy through Merrimack square, coming from the direction of Centralville. The horse was a spirited looking animal but the harness and buggy were dilapidated and attracted the officer's attention.

Though the driver was proceeding at a fairly good speed, Patrolman McManmon rushed into the street and ordered him to halt. Instead the boy whipped up his horse and disappeared through Prescott street and started up Central at a record breaking clip. William Forsythe, a chauffeur for the French Auto service, happened to be in the square at the time and he volunteered the use of his machine to assist in apprehending the driver of the mysterious buggy.

The fugitive made good headway and was not overtaken until he had passed the Middlesex street grade crossing. At that spot, Mr. Forsythe swung his car in front of the horse which stopped immediately. The young man was not able to answer questions in a way that satisfied the policeman and the latter took a seat beside him in the buggy and started for the station. The journey as far as the entrance to the station was without any special incident but when Patrolman McManmon leaped to one side of the wagon to ascertain that he was stopping directly in front of the stone steps, the boy made a mysterious move and put his hand under the seat. Becoming suspicious, the officer turned quickly and grabbed the prisoner by the wrist, but hardly had he done so when he heard the crack of a revolver and felt a bullet piercing through his trousers. He got a firmer hold of his assailant's arm but another shot was fired in front of his throat. As the officer was about to wrench the gun from the lad's hands a third shot grazed the side of his left cheek. The prisoner was then overpowered and Capt. Thomas R. Atkinson rushed from the station and assisted in bringing him inside.

Although but 18 years of age, young Baron is quite tall and wiry. He said he had been woodchopping at Somersworth, N. H., but refused to give any information about his team. Patrolman McManmon returned to his beat and patrolled until roll call this morning.

Baron Arraigned in Court

Avilla Baron was arraigned in police court before Judge Enright this afternoon and pleaded not guilty to a conspiracy in charging him with assault with intent to murder Patrolman Peter P. McManmon. He was held in $5000 surety until next Tuesday and upon not being able to furnish bail was committed to jail.

Baron paid little attention to the court proceedings and seemed more interested in gazing at the large number of spectators in the room. The prisoner wore a pair of sneakers, overalls, a dark shirt and an old blue coat. Meanwhile his antecedents will be looked up.

RUSSIAN FORCES FIGHTING HARD

Military Activity Continues to Center in Galicia—Fierce Struggle Along the Dniester—French Make Progress

Military activity continues to center in Galicia. The Russians are fighting hard in the territory there that remained to them after the Teutonic drive to Lemberg and beyond, either to save that territory to themselves or to give their retreating armies a chance to retire in good order.

Desperate battles, according to the official reports are continuing along the Dniester, where the Russians claim to have retained the advantage, despite their admission that Austro-German forces have pushed their way across the river in two places.

In both cases the crossing forces were pushed back, and are clinging precariously to the left bank of the stream, the Russians asserted. In the Kosmerjino district the Grand Duke Nicholas forces are on the offensive and claim to have carried a strongly fortified height by assault.

Italians Push On Activity along the front where Austrian and Italian armies are facing each other is still chiefly in the nature of artillery engagements, with occasional interludes of infantry activity. The Italians claim, however, to be gradually advancing along the Isonzo and have repulsed Austrian attacks at several points.

French Advance
The latest French reports claim progress for that army on the ridges to the east of Metzeral in the Vosges and this only to slight degree. Nothing has been heard from the Dardanelles.

YALE'S VARSITY SECOND WINS TWO MILE RACE

Blue Crew Wins Over Harvard by One Third of a Length—Big Crowd in New Haven

REGATTA COURSE, NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25—Yale won the second varsity eight race by one-third of a length over her rival, Harvard, in a snappy two-mile contest over the Thames course today.

The Yale men led the pace from start to finish and though Harvard made a game rally in the last quarter of a mile, the Crimson crew could not overcome Yale's lead.

Yale caught the water first and with a faster stroke opened up a lead of a length, at the half-mile mark. The two crews rowed a clean stroke and there was little splashing. Harvard increased her stroke and came up on nearly even terms with Yale. Yale shook off the challenger and at the mile had a lead of nearly a length. Near the finish Harvard came strong and cut down Yale's advantage, foot by foot. Yale, however, shot over the finish line with one-third of a shell's length to spare.

The official time of the second varsity eight contest was:
Yale, 10:40.
Harvard, 10:43.

TRUTH ABOUT THE WAR

London Times Admits German Successes Everywhere—Demands People be Told the Truth

LONDON, June 25, 4:05 a. m.—A demand that the nation be told the truth about the war is voiced by the Times in an editorial. The paper declares there is no immediate prospect of being able to compel the Germans to withdraw within their own frontiers and that it will take months to provide the British forces with the big guns, high explosives and machine guns, that are necessary.

"The country has got to set its teeth," says the Times, "disregard confusing bulletins and face the probability of a prolonged and unprogressive campaign in the west, while Gen. von Mackensen's successful march probably has postponed a resumption of the Russian offensive for several months, until they also are provided with guns and shells."

"To put it briefly, the allies on both fronts are being held with no prospect of an early change. Moreover, the outlook in the Dardanelles, of which the less said the better, long ago ceased to offer prospects of a swift and easy diversion in the middle east."

SIX WERE KILLED
Trains in Head-on Collision on Bridge 100 Feet High

THURMONT, Md., June 25—Six persons, four of them Baltimoreans, were killed and a dozen more or less seriously injured, when the Blue Mountain express and the fast mail of the Western-Maryland railroad crashed together on a bridge, one hundred feet high, over Owens creek, a few miles west of here last night. The passengers killed were:

Mrs. W. Edwin Chipchase and Walter N. Chipchase, her son, 27 years of age, of Baltimore.

The other fatalities were among the trainmen.

The Blue Mountain express, west bound, known as train No. 11, was late. If on time, it would have passed the fast mail, No. 10, east bound, not far from the point at which the wreck occurred. The change in the schedule, in the course of which a mix-up in the orders given the conductors of the two trains is said to have occurred, resulted in bringing the two trains together, both running at high speed, on the bridge, which spans a mountain ravine.

The two engines were almost completely telescoped. The baggage car of the Blue Mountain express, in which Chipchase and his mother, who was an invalid, was riding, lying in a reclining chair, was torn from its trucks and thrown to the bottom of the ravine. The Pullman parlor car, veered perilously near the edge of the bridge but did not leave the rails.

Among the flowers were: Pillow inscribed "Wife," husband, sprays, B. & M. employees of Winsted, Mr. and Mrs. Connors and Mrs. Felch, and wreath, J. A. Lombard. The bearers were Messrs. John E. Wall, John M. Sullivan, William Connors and William Connors, Jr. The body was brought to this city and burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Timothy Callahan of St. Patrick's church recited the committal prayers. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Peter H. Sav-

Don't Burn Hairs Off
Dissolve Then

Burning hairs off with pastes and powders is as bad as having them off—it only strengthens the roots and they come in thicker than ever. The only safe and sure way to get rid of unsightly hairs is to dissolve them. Then you destroy the roots entirely. To do this, get an ounce of simple solution from your druggist; apply with finger tips, keeping the hairs moist, in a few minutes they will be dissolved and disappear entirely. Wash with warm water and you will find the skin soft and smooth as velvet.

100 LIVES LOST

Collapse of River Pier at Kazen, 400 Miles From Moscow

PETROGRAD, June 25, via London, 1:17 p. m.—A despatch received here from Kazen in European Russia, some 160 miles east of Moscow, sets forth that upwards of 100 lives have been lost in the collapse of a river pier at one of the local pleasure gardens.

The last steamer returning to the city was to leave the island at midnight. A crowd of holiday makers, men, women and children were forcing their way in the darkness to the boat over the flimsy pier. The structure collapsed under their weight and virtually everybody was thrown into the water. The crew of the steamer did their best at rescue, but only a few persons were saved.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

ENTERTAINING A GUEST

"Some very delicate obligations are involved when inviting a friend to partake of your home's hospitality," said Marie. "The hostess must see to it that there are writing materials in the friend's room, stamps excepted. She must consult with her guest concerning the acceptance of any invitations to other homes. When callers come the guest must be asked to go down in the drawing room as a matter of course. The visiting friend must be included in every visit to other friends. At all times and in all places the moral attitude of the hostess must be one of complete confidence and generosity."

"The Persian saying: 'My house, my heart and my friends are yours,' is the proper sentiment to display toward a person one has invited to stay under one's roof. The very spirit of hospitality precludes any spirit of the little tyrannies, the sense of power gives to a small nature. But the guest must also look to her own bearing. It is inconsiderate of her to receive any friend without letting her hostess understand that the visitor calls upon her as well. It is indelicate and stupid of her to monopolize the telephone and when there is a proposal for the machine or concert, it would be both kind and proper for her to suggest paying sometimes for the seats. But of course in the case of small amusements and such trifling expenses as carriages, it is the hostess who pays."

"The good hostess neglects no guest in favor of another and the good guest is very careful in all matters of her own behavior, helping out all the dragging moments with pleasant talk and striving forever to put the hostess and herself in a more comfortable frame of mind. The guest must not make any breaks in presuming too much, but if she does politeness does not permit the hostess to snub her even with a look."

"So here is the situation in brief: If you are the hostess you must give all that is yours to the guest, and if you are guest you must only take as much of these good things as it is decent to take. Indeed your coming situation calls for a sound heart and head rather than any little politenesses of convention."

HAPPY WEDDING

Lawyer Frank Goldman
Married to Rose L.
Sydeman

One of the most brilliant weddings seen in this city for a long time was that of Mr. Frank Goldman, the well known young attorney of The Sun building, and Miss Rose L. Sydeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Sydeman, 163 Liberty street, who were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents at 6 p. m. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Elias Wolfson in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the popular young couple, and the guests at the home and the wedding reception that followed included some of the most prominent people of Lowell's professional, business and social life. Distinguished visitors from out-of-town and classmates of the bride from Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

The home of the bride's parents had been transformed for the occasion into a bower of summery greenery. Ropes of laurel festooned the doors and gave a festive touch to the various rooms. The marriage took place under a great canopy of palms, through which could be caught glimpses of brilliant cut flowers. As the bridal party entered, Byron's full orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and appropriate music was played softly through the impressive ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of ivory duchesse satin, trimmed with real lace and pearls and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Stella M. Sydeman, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of embroidered cream net and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Miss Bertha Roorsteen of Lawrence, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a pink accented dress and carried pink sweet peas. Mr. Max Goldman, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was given away by her father, and the bridal group included Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldman, Mrs. Myer Sydeman and Mr. and Mrs. Sydeman of Boston.

The ushers at the house and at the reception which was held immediately afterwards at the Highland club were: Messrs. Charles Eli, of Boston, Frederick S. Harvey of Lowell, Morris Harris of Lowell, Francis M. Qua of Lowell, William H. Sydeman of Forest Hills, Joseph P. Quinn of Lowell, Jos. Sydeman of New York and William R. Sydeman of Lowell.

Following the reception at the Highland club a wedding dinner was served to about 150 guests by Caterer Levine of Boston. The banquet hall was decorated with palms and cut flowers, and stirring musical selections were played at intervals. FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

FREE—A Pair of Pants—FREE

WITH SUIT OR OVERCOAT ORDER, ON FOURTEEN STYLES OF WORSTED SUITINGS WITH WHICH I FIND MYSELF OVERSTOCKED.

Many men are inclined to think at my prices, the goods I sell must be inferior in quality. That this belief is unfounded and unwarranted can be easily proved by investigation. The varied nature of my trade—mechanics, business men, brokers, lawyers and doctors—coming to me year after year. Ninety per cent. of my business is with old customers, that is nine men out of every ten who trade with me are men who have traded with me before—men who know just what they are going to receive in the way of cloth, tailoring, trimmings and fittings.

Long dealings with the average man never fail to prove that the average man only wants a fair run for his money. It is another thing, however, to convince the average man that he ought to give you a chance to prove that you will give him the fair run he demands.

Mr. Reader, you are an average man. When I tell you 90 per cent. of my trade is with men who have bought from me before, is it not pretty good better that if you trade with me once and you are satisfied, you will also come back to me again?

I have the goods and I have them at your price. I have the cutting talent and I can afford the price of cutting talent. I have the organization and the business to keep up that organization. I have everything at stake to give you a big run for the money and I have the desire to give you a big run as well as the ability.

Drop in my store today or tomorrow and let me show you at low prices even better material than you are wearing that cost you big money. Let me show you my workshop, my organization, garments being made, some ready for first try, others ready for the pressman, and hundreds of finished garments waiting for the owner to call for them, and for FRIDAY AND SATURDAY I will give you a pair of FREE PANTS with Suit order in any of these special numbers.

FUTURE OF PALESTINE

WILL BE DISCUSSED AT MEETINGS OF NATIONAL ZIONIST ORGANIZATIONS IN BOSTON

BOSTON, June 25.—The future of Palestine, with particular reference to the effect of the war upon the movement for restoring the land to Jewish control, will be discussed at meetings of ten national Zionist organizations here extending over a week. Headquarters for the registration of delegates were opened today and the program will start with religious services and a reception tonight.

Tomorrow will be given over to religious observances and on Sunday there will be a joint opening session of all the conventions. The various bodies will hold separate meetings on the succeeding days. A mass meeting Sunday evening and a banquet Monday evening will be open to the public.

PARISIAN SAGE

If you value the appearance of your hair you should treat your scalp as often and well as you brush your teeth and rub into the scalp pores twice daily a little Parisian Sage. This treatment is not a mere "hair tonic." It is bottled nourishment for the hair roots and it is simply wonderful what an improvement its use for even a week will make in the appearance of anyone's hair. It never injures, is delightfully cool and pleasant to the scalp and takes out the dull, lifeless look in the hair, making it soft, fluffy, glossy and beautiful. Two or three applications remove every trace of dandruff, and daily use will prevent its return. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

The principal convention is that of the Federation of American Zionists, representing all the American Zionist organizations. In the call for the convention Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the federation, said:

"This convention will be the most important annual conference ever held by American Zionists. Zionism in Europe has been seriously affected by the war. Our comrades are unable to bear their portion of the burden of Zionist work. We must assume the extraordinary responsibilities thrust upon us. To meet the new problems that have arisen and our larger obligations, unusual sacrifices will be demanded of us."

Among those expected to address the various meetings are Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, Dr. Schnurman Levin, Nathan Straus and Dr. Meyer Berlin, all of New York, and Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago.

AT ST. LOUIS' SCHOOL

GRADUATED—LARGE ATTENDANCE

Eight girls and four boys, pupils of St. Louis' parochial school, received their school and diocesan diplomas at the graduation exercises which were held in the school hall last evening. The affair was attended by over 400 men and women, parents and friends of the children, as well as a number of distinguished guests from this city and out-of-town, including Mayor and Mrs. D. J. Murphy, Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, Rt. Rev. Bishop Henri da Silva, D. D., Rev. J.

G. Labossiere, pastor; Rev. L. C. Bedard and Rev. E. J. Vincent of St. Louis', Rev. Rosario Richard of Shirley, Rev. J. M. Roy and Rev. C. A. Baillargeon, both of Nicolet, Que., Rev. J. D. Binette of Salem and others.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, while the stage was a mass of potted plants and flowers. The evening's program consisted of an entertainment given by the pupils under the able direction of the Sisters of the Assumption, who are in charge of the institution.

The program opened with an address of welcome read by Miss Eva Despres, this being followed by a salutatory address in English by Master Arthur Pepin. The third number consisted of a chorus selection with Miss L. Bernier as soloist and Misses C. Bouthillier and I. Lebrun as accompanists. Presentation of flowers with appropriate addresses was next in order.

An operetta entitled "Les Enfants de St. Louis" was well given by Andre Faisy, George Toupin, W. Lajeunesse, A. Pepin, R. Dion, G. Molsan, P. Bertrand and W. Dalghe. The accompanists were Miss Ruth Desrosiers and Master Leo Pire. Another pleasing operetta was rendered by the following: Miss L. Lalonde, Miss D. Thibault, Miss C. Lebrun, Miss L. Laroche, Miss A. Gagnon, Miss M. L. Garpey, Miss B. Houle, Miss A. Barette, Miss M. Renaud, Miss P. Baribeau, Miss L. Picard. The accompanist was Miss L. Channagane. A chorus selection, "Beautiful Moonlight" was given by the school with Miss L. Picard at the piano.

During the evening pleasing selections were given by Cornellier's orchestra and remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere and Mayor Murphy. The presentation of diplomas was presided over by Rev. Fr. Labossiere, who was assisted by the mayor. Miss Annette Blais read a French address in behalf of the graduates and Paul Bertrand gave the valedictory address. The graduates were as follows: Misses Eva Despres, Alida Gagnon, Marie Louise Garpey, Blanche Houle, Adrienne Barette, Marie Renaud, Annette Blais and Loretta Lalonde, Masters Paul Bertrand, Arthur Pepin, Roland Dion and Wilfrid Dalghe.

NOTRE DAME ACADEMY

REUNION OF GRADUATES OF THREE ACADEMIES AT TYNGSBORO

yesterday, where the annual alumnae outing was held. The weather was perfect for the day's festivities, and the enjoyable program made the event one to be long remembered. More than 100 graduates from Lowell were in attendance.

The gathering arrived at the grounds about 10 o'clock in the morning and shortly after a delightful menu was served. The afternoon was given over almost entirely to sports, one of the features being a ball game, in which a team composed of Lowell girls were returned victorious after nine innings of hard play. The Lowell team was made up of Miss Mollie O'Sullivan, pitcher; Miss Genevieve Brett, catcher; Miss Lillian O'Brien, first base; Miss Beasie Coughlin, second base; Miss Helen Smith, third base; Miss Helen Hennessy, shortstop, and Elizabeth Hennessy, fielders. Miss Elizabeth Hennessy won the 30-yard dash, while Mrs. McCarthy of this city came in second. The fat women's race was captured by Mrs. Jackson of Boston. During the evening there was a delightful program of music, including a number of excellent selections by Miss Blanche Fox, a talented opera singer.

From Yesterday's Late Editions MUST REMOVE LEDGE FOR A DENMAN BRIDGE

Locks & Canals Men Point Out Obstruction to Waterway—Lowell Men Surprised at Worcester

In order to build the Paytucket bridge in accordance with Engineer Denman's plans it will be necessary to level a very formidable ledge which blocks the waterway where the new pier is to be installed and the fact that Commissioner Charles J. Morse believes the plans are going to be accepted is evidenced by his statement today that he would put a gang of men at work on the ledge in the river bottom on Monday of next week. He says it will cost $3000 to remove the ledge. He says the job will necessitate considerable blasting, but he thinks there might be some return on the stone if Mr. Denman could use it in the construction of the bridge.

Mr. Morse had a conference this morning with Messrs. Hiram P. Mills and William E. Badger of the Locks & Canals company, and they told him that if the new pier is placed as shown in the plans presented them it would be necessary to remove the ledge and the Locks & Canals company would insist on the removal of it. They pointed out that the new pier would leave a big ledge under the arch on the easterly side and that it would have to be removed in order to allow the water free passage to the canals.

Bridges in Worcester

Commissioners Duncan, Putnam and Carmichael went to Worcester yesterday to look at some concrete bridges in that city and they met a very interesting man in the person of City Engineer McClure of Worcester. He is the man who invented granite block paving, though some people think that the honor of the discovery or invention belongs to Charlie Morse of this city and Paul Hannigan of Lawrence. Mr. McClure has been Worcester's city engineer for 22 years and the Lowell men discovered that Col. Hassan, of Hassan paving fame, used to work for Mr. McClure. The Lowell men were informed that granite block paving was Mr. McClure's own idea and that he had laid out two stretches of it in Worcester in order to prove to the city council that it was the proper caper. The city council didn't take very kindly to it at first, but after giving it a fair trial they allowed it was the best ever. Mr. McClure says that granite is not the best for block paving, that the hard granite wears smooth and makes bad and sometimes dangerous footing for horses. He said the granite should be soft enough to prevent it from wearing smooth and he said that he always exercises a great deal of care in the selection of the granite for granite blocks.

Builds Concrete Bridges

Engineer McClure, in the words of Tompkins, is a "regular guy." When the city wants a new road or a new bridge they speak to McClure about it. They don't go to look up Mr. Denman, Mr. Swain, Mr. Worcester, or anybody else, as long as McClure is on the job. He has designed and built all the concrete bridges in Worcester, and Worcester has more than her share of them. The Lowell men looked the bridges over and all of them seemed perfect. Nowhere could a crack be found like those that showed out in bold relief on the Nashua bridge and Mr. McClure said he didn't propose to have any of his bridges crack. He said there is no need of it and if properly constructed they won't crack.

"Engineer McClure," said Commissioner Duncan, "appealed to me as being a very capable man, and the bridges we looked at seemed perfect in every respect. He told us that there were many methods of steel reinforcement and that the concrete bridge, if properly reinforced and the right steel used in the reinforcement, will last for generations. He said that a concrete bridge, properly constructed, improves with age and is even more lasting than a stone bridge. He said that

Mayor Murphy Signs Insurance Awards on Memorial Hall Fire

Joseph Peabody, secretary and treasurer of the Lowell Mutual Fire Insurance company, called on Mayor Murphy at city hall this forenoon and discussed the matter of tablets destroyed in the Memorial building fire. Mr. Peabody said that the insurance companies would pay $1500, and no more, to have the tablets replaced.

Everett Hadley was present at the conference in the capacity of adjuster and to pass upon the cost of the work in connection with the tablets. Mr. Hadley was the man who cut the original letters on the tablets. There are 7500 letters to be cut and covered with gold leaf, and Mr. Peabody said that if Mr. Hadley wasn't given the job of doing the letters he, Mr. Hadley, would have to be paid $50 for his services as adjuster. The mayor said he would take the matter up with the municipal council and he thought, he said, there would be no objection to Mr. Hadley getting the job. Whoever does the lettering will also regild and repolish the other tablets.

There was some question in the beginning as to whether the tablets would be reckoned in with the insurance on the building or the insurance on the contents and it was finally decided that they belonged with the building.

Mayor Signed Agreements

The mayor today signed agreements to accept awards on contents to the amount of $4,700.00. The total insurance on the contents was $47,171.80, so that the award was a little more than one-tenth of the insurance.

The matter of the award on the building has also been practically agreed upon and it will amount to $22,222.00, out of a total insurance of $111,111.00, and included in the $22,222.00 is the $1500 for tablets.

Will Oil the Midway

John Woodrow Woodbury Kernan, engineer and superintendent of parks, got in touch with Charles Denning Morse, commissioner of streets, sewers and highways, and arranged for the oiling of the midway on the South common. Mr. Morse said he would oil it Monday and put on a sealed coat, so that it would be in the pink of condition for the fourth of July. Kernan expects to realize $3000 on the sale of lots.

Free From Diphtheria

Recently Lowell has been free from diphtheria for the longest period since the establishment of the bacteriological department, over 20 years ago. No case of the disease has been reported at the office of the board of health for over four weeks and Agent Bates says this is a record. The records of the health department fail to show any parallel to this situation since 1504.

GROCCERS WILL CLOSE

THEY WILL SHUT DOWN ON JULY 5—MERCHANTS' DAY ON JULY 15

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Lowell Retail Grocers' association, held last evening at 5 o'clock in the room of trade in Central street, it was voted to close the stores all day Monday, July 5. All dealers, not members of the association are earnestly requested to cooperate with the members in bringing about a general closing on that day.

The clerk of the association reported that he had communicated with many of the leading merchants of the city, with the Grocery Clerks' union and others interested in setting apart Thursday, July 15 as a day to be known as "Merchants' day," and all have agreed on the date.

If the agreement is lived up to all merchants will close July 15, and employer and employee will enjoy a general holiday. Many of the members of the association will be found at Revere beach on that day, while others are contemplating forming special auto parties and tours will be made to the various beaches along the coast and to the mountains.

Another exercise which will dispose of fatty deposits on the shoulders and back is as follows: Stand with heels together, hands clenched at sides, begin to draw in a deep breath while, bringing arms to shoulders with a quick vigorous motion. Without pausing stretch them to full length above the head. Now begin to exhale while bringing the arms down to the shoulders; next at full length to the sides. Each movement of the arms should be as if intended for a blow.

If your shoulders are beautifully rounded soft chignon, crepe or lace gowns which slip carelessly off the shoulders, are extremely fetching, but beware of this method of gowning. If there is the slightest square-shoulders, begin to draw in a deep breath while, bringing arms to shoulders with a quick vigorous motion. Without pausing stretch them to full length above the head. chosen to accompany the president. "He's a pretty good player," said Bobbie.

A number of well known people, including Governor Morris, the writer, were on the links at the same time as the president and his party. Just before leaving for the club, the president consented to pose for a small army of New York photographers. With Col. House he sat in a small summer house overlooking upper Hempstead bay, while photographers snapped at him.

Col. House plans to leave here Sunday for Haverly, Mass., but said that he did not expect to go to Cornhill to see the president again.

MOONLIGHT LAWN PARTY

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT AT HOME OF NELSON C. HILL IN VARNUM AVENUE

A moonlight lawn party was held last evening at the home of Nelson C. Hill, 510 Varnum avenue, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Trinitarian Congregational church. The lawn was prettily decorated and lighted with Japanese lanterns. The amusements and features of the evening included automobile rides up Varnum avenue which were well patronized. There was a good sale for ice cream, candy and soft drinks and in an oriental tent was stationed a pianist who could lay bare the past and foretell the future. A burly-gurdy played during the evening. The automobiles were operated by John Mussen, Arthur Delong and Rev. R. G. Clapp.

Sunday School Class Entertained

Mrs. W. E. Hatch entertained members of her Sunday school at her home in Loring street yesterday afternoon and evening. A short business meeting was held in the afternoon at which Mrs. Evans was elected president for the ensuing year. A basket luncheon was served on the lawn and games were played. In the evening a canvas was stretched across the street and selections were played on a Victrola to illustrate the views thrown on the canvas by a reflectoscope.

FIRST BORN'S INFERIOR

PROF. PEARSON SAYS AVERAGE LOWER MENTALLY, MORALLY AND PHYSICALLY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—First-born children are on the average inferior, physically, mentally and morally, to the brothers and sisters who follow them, according to the conclusion of Prof. Karl Pearson of the University of London. His statistics, covering many thousands of cases, are published in the July number of the Journal of Heredity, organ of the American Genetic association of this city.

Prof. Pearson, made his discovery when studying the population of a sanatorium for consumptives, where he found that there were many more first-born than there should be, if tuberculosis selected its victims at random. On the other hand, the later-born children were fewer in number than was expected. Since then he has applied elaborate statistical analysis to data of many kinds. His study of first-born children shows the highest percentage of still-births, and are most delicate during childhood. Further, they weigh less and are shorter at birth than are later-born children.

Study of the inmates of homes for the feeble-minded and insane asylums shows that first-born children are there in disproportionate numbers. Criminology appears also to be a prerogative of the eldest members of the family. Statistics of English prisons revealed 717 first-born, where calculation led him to expect only 557. Epilepsy, alcoholism and congenital defects are likewise studied, and in each case an abnormally large number of the affected persons are found to be first-born.

This inferiority, as brought to light in statistics, is partly due to the fact that many weak parents die after having only a single child. This child, of course, counts as a first-born, and naturally inherits some of the weakness of his parents; but his inferiority is due rather to the bad stock than to the fact that he is first-born.

But aside from this, Prof. Pearson holds that the first-born are, on the whole, actually handicapped. This may be partly due to the youth of their parents, and partly to physiological conditions in the mother. Believing that the eldest children are thus handicapped, Prof. Pearson sees great danger to the race in the present tendency to make families consist of two children. In a normal family of about five, the first-born only make up one-fifth of the population, and their inferiority is swamped. But in many classes of society nowadays, the number of offspring is limited to two. Prof. J. McKelvey of Columbia university, has shown this to be particularly true of American men of science.

Under these circumstances, the first-born make up half, instead of one-fifth of the population, and their inferiority must necessarily be a much more serious menace to the efficiency of the race. In the inference of the race, therefore, Prof. Pearson deems that parents of eugenically superior stock ought, if possible, to rear a family of five or more children.

BRYAN OFFERED POSITION

Western University Wants Former Secretary as Political Economy Professor

CHICAGO, June 25.—William J. Bryan has been offered the chair of political economy in a mid-Western university, according to a story printed in the Evening Post yesterday.

H. H. Harrison, president of a teachers' bureau with offices in Chicago, is given as authority for the story. Mr. Bryan would be required to live in the university city and devote a reasonable part of his time to his college duties.

Mr. Harrison declined to name the university. The Post says that the University of Indiana is strongly suggested as the school in question.

COUNTRY WEEK

The managers of "Country Week" are planning to do more work than ever before. As is well understood, the work is non-sectarian. The object is to give a vacation in the country to any worthy person, man, woman or child who would otherwise be unable to take a respite from toil. Notices have been sent out, making an appeal for contributions and it is especially urged that those receiving them will give them careful consideration and that the response to the appeal may be prompt, as the children will be sent out into the country on the 7th of July and we are expecting a great many applications and will need all the money that it is possible to raise. Contributions, large or small, should be sent to the treasurer, Mrs. J. S. Hunnewell, 50 Central street. Those who know of any worthy persons to whom the "Country Week" privileges would be a benefit may communicate with Mrs. Harriet W. Sturtevant, 34 Nesmith street.

INHERITED NERVOUSNESS

The causes of nervous disorders are of two kinds, predisposing and exciting. Heredity is a predisposing cause. A nervous parent is very liable to have a nervous child. But even with this predisposition the child will not necessarily develop any form of nervous disease without an exciting cause. It may not develop during childhood at all but throughout life a person with an inherited predisposition to nervousness is an easier victim of all forms of nervous disorders than one without it.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and excesses of all kinds are exciting causes and should be avoided by those who know themselves to have inherited a nervous disposition. Thin blood and a general run-down condition of the system are also to be avoided by such people. Be moderate in everything, avoid worry, keep the blood rich and red and the general health built up with a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and avoid a nervous breakdown.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a general tonic with a special action on the nerves and relieve and correct many forms of nervous trouble. Your own druggist sells them. Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet, "Nervous Disorders. A Method of Home Treatment."

BASEBALL AND FIELD SPORTS THE SUN SPORTING PAGE BOXING, GOLF AND ATHLETICS

CREWS ARE UNSELFISH

TRAIN LONGER THAN BROTHER ATHLETES AND RECEIVE FAR LESS GLORY

A college athlete touches the heights of unselfishness, someone once remarked. He is praised for six months, by the coach, he works like a Trojan during every spare moment during those six months, is cheered by a crowd for 20 minutes and then is forgotten forever.

But who ever heard of a college athlete being dragged into the focus of the sporting spotlight so that the public could gaze at him for what he has done.

The chances are about 100 to 1 that you never heard of a chap named C. Lund, of Boston, other than to hear him mentioned as a member of the Harvard varsity crew.

Lund is the chap who stroked Harvard to nine aquatic victories in a row. He stroked the team last year when he stroked the second Harvard crew to three victories in the big Henley regatta in England.

Lund was at stroke oar when the second Harvard team beat the Annapolis varsity and Yale freshmen in the two 1914 regatta races. In the 1914 American Henley at Philadelphia, it was Lund who stroked Harvard to victory.

For the benefit of the uninitiated it may be explained that the stroke oarman of a crew is the chap who sets the pace.

He is the man who must not falter; the man with the iron nerve and the iron will. He is the man who must respond first to every call for higher stroking and it is upon his perfection of stroke that victory depends.

A crew without a good stroke oarman is like a football team with a blind quarterback; like a baseball team with an armless pitcher.

Columbia won the big Poughkeepsie varsity race last June because its stroke oarman, a little Irishman with mighty arms and a stout heart, rose up like a Titan in that final heave, breaking half mile and by his marvelous generosity and his wonderful stroking enabled Columbia to maintain to the finish the slight lead that it had over Pennsylvania.

It was the grit and the never-say-die spirit of that little Irishman that stiffened the backbones of his weary fellows that filled them with a new fighting spirit.

The little Irishman pushed that Columbia stroke well above the 40 notch during the last half mile, although weary and tired almost to the point of exhaustion, his fellows followed him—and Columbia won.

It's a safe bet that today there aren't 100 persons of the 75,000 who saw Columbia win that race that can recall that little Irishman's name. And we daresay that there aren't 50 of Columbia's immense alumni that can recall the name of the chap who stroked a Columbia crew to victory in 1914 for the first time in something like 30 years.

The name of that little Irishman was McCarthy.

Two chaps nearly gave their lives for the sake of Yale in 1912. They rowed in the boat that was beaten decisively by Harvard. Those chaps stuck to their oars until the finish line was crossed and then they collapsed in their seats.

Their magnificent young strength had been broken by that terrific four mile race. The agony they suffered during the last two miles nearly reached the crest of human endurance. Yet they suffered and stuck to their posts with a stoicism that even the Spartans couldn't expect.

And for this they got a brief sympathetic mention in the papers the next day—and since have been forgotten.

There are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States today who can tell you the name of every man who played on the 1914 Yale and Harvard eleven, but we daresay there aren't a thousand who can tell you, offhand, the names of even half of the men who rowed in the 1914 Yale and Harvard varsity crews.

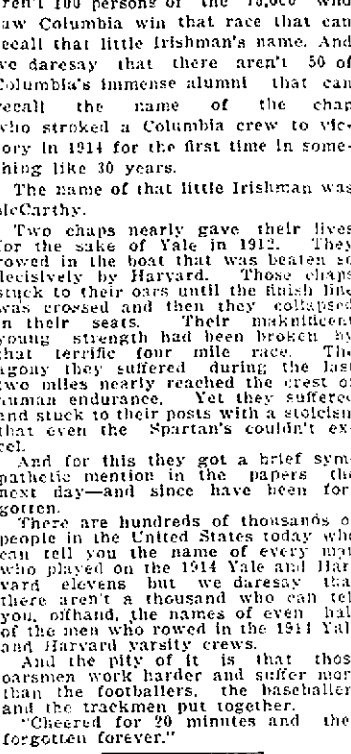

And the pity of it is that those oarsmen work harder and suffer more than the footballers, the baseballers and the trackmen put together.

Cheered for 20 minutes and then forgotten forever!

TRADING IN ARCHER GREATEST RAINY DAY BASEBALL YARN EVER CONCEIVED

CHICAGO, June 25.—An amusing baseball yarn, conceived in the fertile brain of some enterprising baseball "expert," recently startled the baseball world and caused the officials of the Chicago Cubs no little annoyance.

This little story had for its theme the trading of one James Archer, backstop extraordinaire of the Windy City brigade, for Jack Murray, Ed Brannard and another player of the New York Giants.

Incidentally the Cubs were to throw in pitcher Larry Cheney to assure McGraw of at least an even break on the deal.

It is said that when approached on the subject John J. McGraw burst into loud guffaws. If McGraw could put such a deal through he would be hailed as the most powerful manager that baseball has ever known and Roger Bresnahan the easiest.

The man who "engineered" the deal evidently overlooked the fact that Archer is the ranking catcher of the National league and is a very potent factor in the success of the Chicago club, while the men who were to be given to the Cubs for Archer's services are either war worn veterans or unskilled youngsters.

While no doubt the balance of the league deplors the poor condition of the 1915 giants and would no doubt strain a point to aid the team, it is ridiculous to assume that any team would deliberately throw away its pennant chances to help the New York team cop the flag.

It would be the case if the "experts" deal went through. Roger Bresnahan wouldn't sell Archer for all the money in the league.

These two decisions which occasioned the greatest amount of criticism yesterday looked all right from the press box. Fahey left third in the first inning a trifle before Briggs caught Dees by to left.

If the blow had been to any other position the outfielder might not have detected the differences in the time when the ball was caught and when Fahey scooted toward the plate. It also looked as though Ahearn had the ball on Fish before he reached the plate in the eighth.

Fish was certainly "there" in the pinch when he was sent in to drive a run across and tip up the score. If he was good judgment on the part of Manager Kierman to send Fish to the plate for Reed did not swing his stick with any degree of certainty and had struck out on his previous appearance.

Torrey played a good game in the field and Dees accepted several rather hard chances. Kilhullen's pegging to the bases was very good although he did leave the sphere into center field on one occasion thereby allowing Greenhalge an uninterrupted swipe of second.

Greenhalge hasn't had a chance in the outfield yet. Snubber is right there with his wicketball though, in every encounter. He is the same divisional hitter as of old and opposing pitchers experience a qualm whenever he steps up to the plate.

Pretty soft for the White Sox, winning five games in three days from the Clevelanders.

It is reported that Bert Maxwell's arm has played out and that the horse is in such condition that the Brooklyn fed pitcher is done.

Visitors Were Luckier and Could Run Bases Better Than Locals

Houser and King Pitch Very Good Ball—Both Wild at Times

After holding the lead for seven innings by scoring a lone tally in the first round of yesterday's game at Spaulding Park, Lowell, went down to defeat when Manchester tied up the score in the eighth and then put over the winner counter in the tenth.

Score: 2-1.

Of course the base running of the local club was not what we would like to have it. Of the nine base runners who died after reaching first three should never have been caught and with better than ordinary base running four of the nine would have been safe.

Houser struck out eleven Manchester batters during the ten innings but was wild at times as King also. All things considered both southpaws pitched fine ball.

In the first session Swayne opened with a smack to center which netted him one base and the swift footed outfielder stole second. Kilhullen was completely crossed on Swayne's steal as he was looking for Fahey to sacrifice. The latter finally did lay down a bunt and beat out the throw.

King grew wild and passed Barrows, choking the stonking spots.

After two weeks loaned to Kilhullen, King suffered another spasm of wildness and walked Greenhalge and the first run of the game was forced into the clubhouse.

Not a semblance of a hit was gotten off Houser until two men had fallen down in the eighth. Then he seemed to relax and hit a batter. Fish, who was pinch hitting for Reed, drove out a double down the left field foul lines scoring the hit batsman and Fish came near to scoring himself when Briggs singled to center.

Aubrey called him out at the plate, however, in spite of a long winded protest by Manager Kierman and his players.

As not a run could be squeezed over in the ninth inning the game went into extra session. Only one of these was needed, however, for Manchester got right down to business or rather Houser, Bowcock and Fahey eased up a bit.

In the tenth Houser passed Kilhullen and then King was safe on his intended sacrifice. Bowcock, heating it with two men on, McGeehan filled the sacks with another hit which proved to be a scratch hit. Houser fielded it and made the play at third but to no purpose.

Fahey's bad throw to Ahearn on Kane's grander allowed Kilhullen to score the winning run.

Lowell looked dangerous in the latter part of the tenth but two singles were sacrificed by poor base running.

Greenhalge hasn't had a chance in the outfield yet.

Snubber is right there with his wicketball though, in every encounter.

He is the same divisional hitter as of old and opposing pitchers experience a qualm whenever he steps up to the plate.

Pretty soft for the White Sox, winning five games in three days from the Clevelanders.

It is reported that Bert Maxwell's arm has played out and that the horse is in such condition that the Brooklyn fed pitcher is done.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"The Middleman," based on Henry
Arthur Jones' great play of the same name, was presented twice yesterday at the B. F. Keith theatre and proved most satisfying. Albert Chevalier, the noted English character artist, and Jane Gail, an attractive young actress, hold the principal roles, those of the pottery worker and his daughter. It is a play which makes a most direct appeal to the heart. "Cyrus Blenkarn,"
the aged potter, suddenly sees his formless golden and his daughter ruined by the son of the owner of the plant. Meek and mild of nature, the old man is transformed through hatred and a desire for revenge. But the drama shows him subduing in his hatred, and, in the end, all turns out for the best. It is a photo-play with scenery equal in that it conveys a lesson in a powerful, albeit a perfectly legiti-mate manner. In addition are several shorter pictures, including "The Neighborhood Pest," and the Edison educational picture, "The Manufacture of Big Guns." The first half of next week Annette Kellermann in "Nep-ture's Daughter," will be presented.

JEWEL THEATRE

Did you know that Col. W. F. Cody, the famous "Buffalo Bill," was a producer? He is, then, the Universal company. His first production, "A Circus Girl's Romance," will be shown today
and tomorrow at the Jewel theatre alongside of many other new and interesting plays. Marie Walcamp and
Mr. Player are featured in this circus play. Charles Chaplin, the idol of the hundreds, is also booked to appear. "A Modern Enoch Arden," a three-part production is the real feature on the program tonight, and will tell a story that will keep you interested from start to finish. "Mr. Little Fixer" and "When Her Idol Fell," are two comedies also to be shown in connection with other dramas and comedies. It is high time you should take in a Jewel performance—they're always great!

ROYAL THEATRE

And still they come. The serial is very popular in Lowell. Among the many shown none have made a better impression than "The Exploits of Elaine," which were shown exclusivly at the Royal theatre. "The Romance of Elaine" (in serial) to all the past "Exploits" will be shown every week in two reel installments for the next fifteen weeks. The stars are Pearl
White, Lionel Barrymore, Creighton
Hale and the mysterious Mr. X. Who is X? That's the big mystery of the series, and it will prove a big one
when the whole story is unfolded.
Scenarios have been written by Chas.
W. Goddard, and that alone insures many wonderful stories indeed. The first episode called "The Lost Torpedo" will be shown at the Royal theatre Friday and Saturday. Besides this,
"The Quarry," a three-part play, will also be shown. The most attractive one of the biggest shows of the week. Coming back to "The Romance of Elaine," it is well to remember that the Royal theatre will be the only house in Lowell showing this famous serial, and that fact alone should crowd the house every Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening when it is shown.
With "The Goddess" on Wednesdays and Thursdays and "The Romance of Elaine" on Fridays and Saturdays, the Royal management is in a position that would create envy among any exhibitor. For these two serials are easily the best of the season. And they will be shown besides a big feature
and a regular five-reel performance.
Remember the days "The Romance"
will be shown Friday and Saturday

STANLEY'S-ON-THE-MERRIMACK

Dancing—one of the best popular of summer pastimes—is enjoyed at Stanley's-on-the-Merrimack by more Lowell people than at any of the other nearby pleasure spots. The reason for it is that this delightful resort, located between this city and Lawrence and reached after one of the most beautiful of electric car rides in the state, provides more attractive features than the others. Try it once and be convinced. The largest and best dance hall, and a full dining room service with Dick Taliferro in charge.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Two band concerts will be given at Lakeview park Sunday, June 27th, 1915 by Tabor's 6th regiment band. B.
F. Tabor, chief musician. The afternoon program:
March, A La Carte.....Holzmann
Overture, Lullaby.....Kella Bella

the Boston opera singers will present the solo girls from the Boston opera ballet in an entirely new repertoire of dances associated with grand opera. The ladies presenting these dancing numbers are adepts in the terpsichorean art.

In forming the ballet in the large opera houses, this country, as well as European centres, have carefully searched for the best available talent.
No mediocre dancers will suffice for the taxing work of the ballet; in consequence some of the world's best, most beautiful and graceful women are associated with the Metropolitan and Boston opera companies. The dancers with the opera singers have been carefully selected from the Boston opera

ballet and audiences wherever they have appeared have been delighted with the work of these dainty young ladies who "talk with their feet."

Next Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock the theatre will be open and a free musical program will be rendered by the Haverhill military band of 25 pieces. The band concerts have always proven big drawing cards at Canobie in seasons past and the management of the road is anxious to make this season more successful than ever. The following program will be rendered subject to encores when called for:

CHARMING LAWN FETE

With Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, LL. D., as Speaker, Held by St. Margaret's Parish Last Night

An exquisitely attractive event in the open was the annual lawn fete of the members of St. Margaret's parish held at the Casino, yesterday afternoon and evening, with a record-breaking crowd in attendance. Practically every family in the parish was represented while there were non-residents to the number of over 500. During the afternoon a special program was given for the children and a throng of little ones made merry in and about the dance hall until evening when they gave way to their elders.

The children of St. Peter's orphanage were the guests of Thomas J. O'Donnell in the afternoon and they had a merry time indeed.

The occasion, in the evening, was made notable by the genial and magnetic presence of Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston and now an LL. D. from Notre Dame university. Dr. Fitzgerald, with that happy faculty that has made him famous wherever he has gone, made himself "right at home" with the highlanders and after making an informal address, led the grand march, escorted Miss Catherine V. Hennessy, at the head of a long line of charmingly costumed children.

The former mayor arrived shortly after 8 o'clock and the exercises were interrupted to permit him to speak in order that he might take a late train back to Boston. He was introduced in well chosen remarks by Former Mayor James B. Casey, one of St. Margaret's most active workers. In opening Dr. Fitzgerald told a few stories at the expense of the pastor, Rev. C. J. Galligan, and then referred to the great progress made by the Catholic people in Massachusetts. Incidentally he quoted figures to show the immense amount of money saved to the cities and towns of the state by the parochial schools supported by the Catholic people. At the conclusion of his remarks the former mayor was requested to sing "Sweet Adeline" and he responded gracefully, and sang in good voice. In response to an encore he asked all to join in, and "The Girl of My Heart" received voluminous homage from a mighty chorus, in which several excellent voices were distinctly noticeable.

Later during the progress of the program presented by the children, Miss Catherine V. Hennessy, the talented soloist of St. Margaret's, re-

dered "The Palms" with beautiful effect, and the former mayor at her request sang a stanza with her.

The principal part of the evening's program consisted of feature dances and a juvenile pageant entitled "Night Time in Fairy-Land," a charmingly picturesque novelty designed and directed by Miss Blanche Perrin, the well known dancing teacher, in which over 15 children participated, all bewitchingly gowned, and decidedly fairy-like in appearance. The pageant opened with the entrance of the "Queen of Night" impersonated in a captivating manner by Miss Dorothy McDermott. Then followed the solo and chorus dances of the fairies, all gracefully executed. Those who gave solo dances were Miss Evelyn Whitaker, Miss Kathleen Murphy, Miss Catherine Curney, Master John O'Neil, Miss Ethel Howard and others. The grand march made a gorgeous climax for the spectacle. The only couple in it, not directly connected with the pageant were Former Mayor Fitzgerald, and Miss Hennessy, the latter charmingly gowned. The costumes of the little folks were most artistic, and it is doubtful if Miss Perrin ever presented a more pleasing attraction. After the march general dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the floor crowded at all times. Broderick's orchestra, furnishing a most acceptable musical program. Those who didn't dance enjoyed a promenade of the spacious veranda of the Casino. The refreshment booths and the candy wheel were liberally patronized, while the ice cream table did a land office business and was in charge of a lively committee headed by those two constant parish hustlers, Mrs. Margaret Hennessy and Mrs. Margaret Bagshaw, both of whom worked untiringly until the very close of the event.

Among those who greatly enjoyed the affair were Rev. C. J. Galligan and Rev. H. C. Reardon of St. Margaret's and Rev. James Lynch of St. Michael's, a former curate of the parish. Those who took part in the various features in the fairyland were as follows:

Solo dance: Miss Dorothy McDermott, Miss Evelyn Whitaker, Miss Ethel Howard, Miss Kathleen Scarth and Miss Kathleen Murphy.

VAHEY ON ARBITRATION

While one may understand and excuse the disappointment of Mr. Vahey at the outcome of the carmen's efforts for wage concessions, his opposition to the principle of arbitration is astonishing. In Massachusetts and in all parts of the country arbitration is being regarded more and more as the most satisfactory medium of settling labor disputes, and it has been the means of averting strikes that would have proved a national calamity. Arbitration as a means of industrial peace is now too well established to be endangered by the attacks of a man even as prominent as Mr. Vahey, but nevertheless such attacks are to be unreservedly condemned as tending to foment labor troubles and deal a blow at one of the greatest remedies for the equitable settlement of industrial disputes.

One year ago the country stood aghast at the prospect of a great strike on the eastern railroads, which, had it materialized, would have crippled business and caused widespread misery and depression. The railroad officials were unbending and the employees were not less so. The members of the various railroad unions were ready to a man to abide by the commands of their leaders, and for some anxious days it looked as though we should have one of the greatest strikes in the history of the country. In this crisis public opinion, backed by the federal government, advised arbitration, and at the eleventh hour arbitration was resorted to. In a few weeks the controversy was settled, and though there was some degree of dissatisfaction, the railroads soon got down to a normal basis. It was a great victory for arbitration.

A few days ago it looked as though New England would see a strike of considerable magnitude on the New Haven railroad. Eighteen hundred freight clerks felt that they had a grievance, and they were firm in the demand that it should be righted. Things seemed near breaking point when a federal conciliator succeeded in bringing about a conference between the railroad officials and representatives of the railway clerks' union. An agreement was speedily reached and all the points at issue amicably settled. Another victory has been scored for arbitration, and this at the time when Mr. Vahey was declaring that he would use his influence to have arbitration discarded as a medium of settling labor troubles.

In Massachusetts there is a properly constituted Board of Conciliation and Arbitration which has been of inestimable service in preventing labor dissensions and class friction. It is at all times ready and willing to intervene where labor troubles exist, and for the past three or four years it has prevented strikes that would have brought much hardship and perhaps little good. This board has not only actually settled many labor troubles satisfactorily but it has left nothing undone to educate the public as to the value of arbitration at times of industrial controversy. Moreover its services are given gratis. It seems too bad that any individual would now oppose a public body which has achieved so many good things and kept Massachusetts out of the Colorado class.

Arbitration is unquestionably the most just and satisfactory system of settling labor disputes, Mr. Vahey to the contrary. What is the usual outcome of a strike? Have we not seen many times that after weeks or possibly months of friction and stubborn resistance, both employer and employee will finally agree to have their differences arbitrated? The conferences by which strikes are generally settled are nothing but the exercise of arbitration, only in such a case it is used as a cure instead of a preventive. Would it not be better in every instance to have arbitration in the first place so that strikes would be unknown?

Suppose that all labor unions should take Mr. Vahey seriously and throw aside the principle of arbitration! What would be the result? Every time any group of employees in any industry had a grievance they would immediately strike. Instead of the prosperity and peace of our New England situation for the past few years, we should have perpetual strife and resultant suffering. The workers of Massachusetts are too sensible to make this choice. We venture to say that Mr. Vahey does not yet realize the seriousness of the advice he has given the carmen.

Undoubtedly the Bay State carmen are not quite satisfied, but they should not blame the principle of arbitration. They put up a stiff fight for concessions which they failed to receive, and they will have to pay high for the failure. Had they availed of the services of the state board the result might have been different. At any rate, the expense bills would not have been so high. Even though there is general dissatisfaction at the amount of the increase, the carmen would make a very grave error if they should follow the advice of those who so foolishly condemn a principle that the people of the entire country have learned to respect and to approve as the great conservator of industrial peace.

TO BRITISH WORKERS

England has seen the folly of letting her labor unions, consciously or unconsciously, play into the hands of Germany and now the issue is clearly drawn. Lloyd George has given British labor seven days in which to prove that it is with the government in reality and if the labor unions fail to come up to expectations and the promises of their leaders, the government will know the reason why. English organized labor has been a great power in the political life of that country for many years, but apparently the power has been misused of late, and the line has been drawn beyond which labor may not go with impunity.

For the next seven days every effort will be made by the English government and by the labor leaders to get men to the munition factories in sufficient numbers to supply a maximum amount of munitions of war. If the unions do not respond, the government will take a hand in the situation, and what the men refused to do voluntarily, they will have to do under compulsion. What is now merely indifference or lack of patriotism may then be made to look like treason. It goes without question that the English government would not contemplate this drastic step without knowing that it was backed by the support of the British masses. In seven days it will be seen if the unions view the question in the same light.

Under the terms of the new munitions bill introduced by Mr. Lloyd George, the English government will control the munition factories and the men who work there. Strikes and lock-outs will be illegal, and nothing will be tolerated that would interfere with efficiency or endanger the chance of England's winning. Under its terms England and France hope to cope with Germany on equal or superior bases, in munitions of war, thus making the ultimate success of the allies a certainty. If British labor does not respond to the appeals of the government at this momentous crisis, the world will find it hard to understand the strange and unpatriotic attitude of English unions.

PATCHING UP STREETS

It will be of immense interest to Lowell to learn that Acting Commissioner O'Hearn of the Boston department of public works boasts of his system of street patching as among his greatest achievements. Like Lowell, Boston in the past has not been over-wise in the matter of street construction and maintenance, and as a result the asphalt streets there have developed cradle holes and miniature hills, until Boston streets became a byword. To wait for general street construction would have been ruinous; to adopt a general policy of renewal would be extravagant and so the policy of patching up the bad places was adopted. During the past five weeks, Commissioner O'Hearn has put more than 1000 patches on the porous streets of Boston, and he declares that he will fill 2600 more holes before he quits the job. The cost is estimated at about a dollar a patch.

In this city we are doing better in the matter of street repair than we did formerly, and it looks as though in a short time repairs will be attended to scientifically and consistently. We may not have three thousand very bad holes in our main streets, but we have several hundreds, and these should be filled up, even though it should cost the Boston figure of a dollar a patch. Even the smallest hole in the asphalt streets, if neglected, will grow and develop until it ruins the thoroughfare, and the ultimate cost is far more proportionately than what would have remedied the defect in the first place.

With the advent of so many heavy motor trucks, streets that are not block paved do not offer a strong resistance, and there will always be a call for patches. The only way to keep such streets in good repair is by having a permanent repair gang occupied solely with filling up depressions and levelling elevations. Commissioner O'Hearn has reason to boast of his record as a patcher of streets, and his example might be advantageously emulated by street commissioners everywhere.

MEXICAN PROMISES

General Felipe Angeles, one of Villa's right hand men who is now in this country on a special mission to our government, was in Boston a day or so ago, and in the course of an interview to the press outlined the Mexican future in words so fair and colors so rosy that one wonders if the Mexican trouble is not all a dream. His most important announcement was that General Francisco Villa will accept the arbitration offer of this country through President Wilson, provided General Carranza will do the same and allow a free public election. Should this come about, Villa declares he will give up his ambition to rule or to become president of Mexico, if only Carranza will do the same. But Carranza says he won't. Both leaders were declared to have about an equal following.

Should both sides really arbitrate as suggested, and agree to abide by the decision, would they surely eliminate themselves from Mexican public life? Mexican presidents generally find it advisable to go into exile. Perhaps it might also work with aspirants to that office. The one weak factor about the situation is that Mexican promises are made to be broken. After the arbitration of this country, Villa and Carranza might be externally friendly, but they would hardly be as friendly as when two years ago they made such an impression on Washington by their great ideals. Both were then leagued against Huerta whom they successfully routed, only to disagree and start revolution afresh. While Mexico is swayed by leaders with personal ambitions, and while the sorry populace is stripped of every right in the name of might, there will be no peace. The promises of Angeles or Carranza or the unspeakable Villa are worthless.

SECRETARY LANSING

It is doubtful if President Wilson could name to the cabinet as secretary of state, at this time, a man who has the confidence of the country to a greater degree than Robert Lansing, who has just been elevated to that high office. Ever since Mr. Bryan flew out of the official life of Washington on the wings of peace, Mr. Lansing has been persistently named for the place in the press, and the commendation that flows in upon President Wilson is bounded by neither party nor partisanship. The American public rejoices at the elevation of a man who has been proved capable of handling our most delicate international problems, and who seems in full sympathy with the aims of the administration. In the chair of the secretary of state we now have an expert in international law, a trained diplomat and a loyal official, and there is no uncertainty as to his future course. He will be with President Wilson and working faithfully and with dignity for the best interests of the American people. In all the recent notes that have attracted to Washington the admiration of the diplomats of the world, Robert Lansing has been the critic by which the graceful rhetoric and exalted idealism of the chief executive was finally approved.

OUR GRADUATES

The Sun offers the 255 graduates of the high school its heartiest congratulations. They have achieved something noteworthy and their efforts have been rewarded. From the school of theory most of them will pass to the wider and larger school of everyday life, and their success or failure will be in proportion to how they remember and apply the lessons learned in the years of their school experience. Hon. Robert E. Luce reminded them very pertinently that they owe an obligation to the community which has paid for their education and given them so many advantages, and this obligation they may repay by becoming good citizens in all that the term implies. Not all the graduates have like ability, but all may have ambition in the same degree, and the greatest success is for the pupil who is determined to make the most of the opportunities that come to each. It is no slight task to choose the groove in life to which one is best fitted, but if the choice be made with the sincere desire to succeed, and if honest effort is shown in the years to come, there is no fear that our graduates will make as great a reputation as those who have preceded them. May their lessons in the school of experience be as pleasant as those learned in the Lowell high school.

Called by his lawyers to prove that he is sane and called by the state to prove that he is insane, Harry K. Thaw is in some quandary. If he is not really insane when the courts get through with him, he is mentally and physically O. K.

In that bridge matter the municipal council seems bound to keep as far as possible from the clear businesslike way of doing things and to adopt a policy that, if it became general, would make the city charter a scrap of paper. Why don't our commissioners take the responsibility from their shoulders and put it on the charter or on the engineers' department?

The law ought to put the lid on the effervescent youngster who explodes those Fourth of July contraptions prematurely. Safety first, and let us have peace.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

The current year will go down into history as a year of parades in Lowell for we have had an unusually large number of them, despite the fact that two big parades of olden days, that, in observance of St. Patrick's day, in March, held under the auspices of the Irish societies, and later in the year, the parade of the French societies in honor of St. Jean Baptiste, of June 21, were not held this year. Both were abandoned as annual events many years ago. St. Patrick's day falling so early in the year, there were frequent disappointments on account of unfavorable weather conditions. In the case of St. Jean's day, as the day was not a holiday, and as a great majority of the members of the French societies were employed in the various industries and places of business a celebration of this kind was inconvenient. Hence in the case of the St. Patrick's day celebration whether or not a parade is to be held is determined usually by a convention of delegates from the different Irish societies, who for a number of years have consistently frowned upon the idea of an outdoor celebration, while relative to the St. Jean's parade, years ago it was decided that a general celebration with a parade feature would be held but once in ten years. As the last celebration of this kind took place in 1905 the next will occur one year hence.

St. Jean's Day Quarter Century Ago
Yesterday was the feast of St. Jean Baptiste, patronal feast of the French on this side of the ocean and its observance 25 years ago was reported in the old Sun as follows:

"The observance of St. Jean's day is not as formal as has been the case in former years in this city. There was solemn high mass at St. Jean Baptiste church on Merrimack street at 8 o'clock, celebrated by Rev. Fr. Constantineau, O. M. L., of Ottawa college, with Rev. Fr. Pelletier, O. M. L., as deacon and Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. L., as sub-deacon. The mass was sung by the choir, a duet was sung by Messrs. Cossette and Lafontaine. At the close of the service a hymn to St. Jean Baptiste was sung by the congregation.

"In the evening a festival of cherries and roses was celebrated on a very large scale in Huntington hall. At 7 o'clock the Association Catholique headed by the City band, left its headquarters in the hall and marched through Shattuck, Market and Dutton streets to the building of L. Union St. Joseph where the ranks were enlarged by Corporation St. Andre. The procession then passed up Dutton to Thornehill, to Middlesex streets, where St. Jean Baptiste society fell in. All three organizations with banners and regalia marched down Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack, to Huntington hall where the banners of the societies were gracefully arranged on the stage. Around the hall were many gaily decorated booths at which refreshments, etc. were dispensed. At the entrance to the hall was a table devoted to light drinks which was presided over by Miss Matina Cote and Mr. Samuel Marchand. In the center of the hall was the flower table in charge of Miss N. Landry and Miss A. Raymond. The other tables were arranged around the sides of the hall. They were in charge of the following: Candy table, A. Benier and Miss Victorine Leclair; fruit table, F. Bosquet and Miss Grace Duberges; ice cream table, Joseph Roy and Miss Georgiana Vigeant; telegraph and post office, Miss A. Lemaitre and Miss E. Traversy. In Jackson hall supper was served. Those in charge of the refreshment tables were Mr. and Mrs. A. Gauthier, Mr. and Mrs. N. Lussier, Mr. and Mrs. W. Parthenais and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Vigeant.

"The hall was crowded and during the evening tableaux were presented and selections given by the City band. Henri J. Mailloux manufactured candy in the hall and distributed it among the merry-makers. The fun was kept up until midnight.

"The young contest closed at 10 o'clock. The silver service on the flower table was awarded to Mrs. Joseph A. Mailloux who brought in $392.70 against $176.99 by her competitor. Mrs. Delina Faneuf received the lady's gold watch on the same table, collecting $125 against $102 and $24 by her competitors. Also on this table was a gentleman's gold watch which was won by Frank Lenoire who brought in $57 against $32 by his competitor. The gold watch on the candy table was won by Miss Nellie Joslin who turned in $107.10 against $11.02 by her competitor. Rev. Fr. Lancelotti, O. M. L., presented the gifts."

Police Had a Picnic
Perhaps you may say they have a continuous picnic, which, of course, is unkind, but as a matter of fact just quarter of a century ago the police held a "regular" picnic, just like other organizations, and had a holly time. In the days of discipline and brotherly love in the police department a picnic might not be a tremendous success but that of quarter of a century ago certainly was, and the old Sun reported it as follows:

"The policemen's picnic was held at Tyngs Island on Saturday last and was attended by a very large number of pleasure seekers and friends of the 'cops.' Eight officers were present from Manchester and a larger number from Haverhill. A feature of the sports was a ball game between the Lowell and Haverhill police. Ex-Alderman Peter H. Donohoe and Officer Ben Lake of Manchester umpired the game. Two four innings were played and the result was a victory for Lowell by a score of 11 to 9. The members of the Lowell team were: Jim Boyle, p. Lon Ingalls, c. J. Walsh, 1b. Edgar Bliss, 2b. Elmer Breat, 3b. Charlie Laframme, rf. Peter Cawley, lf. Jack Leighton, if. George Palmer, ss.

"A long list of miscellaneous sports was run off, affording much amusement. A carriage race and why for the best looking team on the island was awarded to Alderman Putnam. A second and interesting feature of the occasion was the illustration of about 100 homing pigeons by Officer Tom Whitaker, who is a member of the Homing club. There were birds from Lowell, Boston, Lawrence and Manchester, and after circling about the island for a short time they took flight and were directed to their respective homes, and all were subsequently heard from at their destination. The American brass band furnished music for dancing."

"There was great sport at those old time picnics, and a picnic always drew a good crowd. Of the police ball team of quarter of a century ago, Jim Boyle endured the longest on the diamond, for he was a member of the police team up to within a few years. Thanks to Varness, as we have been informed in the newspapers, George Palmer is just as young as he used to be though he has abandoned baseball, as have the others, of whom Edgar Hills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Laframme and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional rheumatic kink keeps him away from some of the events. After several years as an enthusiastic pigeon racer, Tom went in for the whippets and it was largely through his efforts that whippet racing received a big boom in this country some few years ago. Through his influence, aided by Michael J. Markham, then a member of the common council, one of the biggest whippet races ever held in America took place on the South common, on July 4th, a number of years ago. Tom is also a great baseball fan though also loyal to his old home game of cricket. Until the rheumatism got to him he used to arrange to have his vacations when the world's baseball series was being held in the fall, in order that he might witness the games. Should you ever get into an argument with Tom on the rules or procedure of any line of sport, give careful attention to what he may say and don't make any bets for he is a pretty good authority on all sporting matters.

Julian Keyes a Fast Youth
Now don't misinterpret that headline, for the genial bankman was a model youth, but fast on his feet, and quarter of a century ago he won the 100 yards dash at the high school picnic. In order to win such a race he had to be some sprinter. The old Sun reported the high school's picnic of that time as follows:

"The annual picnic of the high school boys and girls was held at Willow Dale on Tuesday. They left in barges and had an all day outing, returning home at 10 o'clock. Great fun was manifested in the sports. The 100 yards dash was won by Julian Keyes, who will receive a box of stationery from Merrill's. P. H. Carr won the walking match, open to ladies and gentlemen, and received a walking stick as a prize. Dock Campbell won the boys' single boat race and received a box of stationery from Taylor Bros. D. C. Campbell and Guy Pierce won the boys' double boat race and received an engraving from G. C. Prince and Son."

"The old Sun doesn't state what Messrs. Keyes and Campbell did with the stationery nor whether Messrs. Campbell and Pierce went rooming together in order to share that engraving, neither does it enlighten us as to the identity of the genius who selected the prizes.

School Board Meeting
In days gone by the last meeting in June of the school board was the most important in the year, excepting perhaps the first, when committees were named, etc. At the June meeting, elections of trustees were held and the usual interest in the proceedings. At the June meeting, 25 years ago most of the salaries were unchanged but some increases were voted. Says the old Sun: "The salary of John A. Smith, supervisor of evening schools and an assistant commissioner, was increased from $1200 per year to $1350; the salary of Emily H. Radcliffe, first assistant teacher at the training school, from $600 to $800, the salary of Katherine T. Keyes, second assistant teacher at the training school from $450 to $700, of Ida Flint, teacher of sewing, from $600 to $850."

"Today there is no such position as that held by the late Mr. Smith and there is no training school, and hence no assistants; while instruction in sewing is given at the Girls' vocational school.

"Continuing its report the old Sun says: "The following training school teachers were elected: Annie M. Buckminster, Gertrude A. Roddick, Mary L. Keith, Margaret Y. McCluskey, Mary L. Donlon, Carrie M. Sprague, Mary R. Marren, Minnie C. Gray, Fannie A. Hardy, Margaret J. McCreith. Mr. Woodies asked if the teacher had been consulted and Mr. Woodies replied negatively. The transfer was made, Mr. Cummings voting negatively. Mr. Howe was elected principal of the Colburn school of six halls. Misses Susan M. Andrews, Agnes L. Donoghue, Elizabeth A. Balch, Annie Slavin, Mrs. Arilla L. Reader and Miss Margie F. Marren of the Colburn school were elected subject to transfer later on. The election of special teachers was taken up and Thomas M. Graves was elected teacher of penmanship, Walter E. Owen, musical director, Olive E. Underwood, teacher of drawing, Ida J. Flint, teacher of sewing, and George E. Worthen, military instructor."

"The chairman of the committee on teachers recommended that three young ladies examined under age for admission to the training school be admitted thereto. The names are Mamie Kearney, Lillian Sprout and Annie M. Wright. It appeared that a former ruling on a similar matter was to the effect that the rules must be suspended requiring a three-fourths vote, in order to admit such teachers.

"After a discussion, which it was claimed that such young teachers had no control over their pupils, the girls were admitted by a vote of 5 to 3, after the chairman had ruled against the three-fourths vote rule.

Teachers at National Convention
Says the Sun of a quarter of a century ago:

"The following Lowell school teachers will attend the convention of the National Educational association to be held at St. Paul, Minn., opening July 3 and continuing for three days: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Haworth and son, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bean, Miss Nellie Bean, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Whitney, Mr. J. F. Weston, Miss M. L. Weston, Miss Ellen M. White, Miss Jennie Allen, Miss Lizzie Lamere,

he has abandoned baseball, as have the others, of whom Edgar Hills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Laframme and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional rheumatic kink keeps him away from some of the events. England Justifies U. S. Cargo Seizures — Denies Americans Have Substantial Grievance

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Great Britain, in a memorandum transmitted to the United States and made public here and in London last night, recites at length its efforts to minimize inconvenience to neutral commerce resulting from the order-in-council against trade with Germany, Austria and Turkey, and asserts that American citizens have not just grounds for complaint on account of the treatment accorded their cargoes.

No attempt is made to answer the principles asserted in the American note of March 1 protesting against the order-in-council and insisting upon the right of neutrals to carry on legitimate commerce with each other and to trade in non-contraband with civilians in belligerent countries. In transmitting the memorandum, Ambassador Page said it was "merely an explanation of concrete cases and the regulations under which they are dealt with."

Another Note
Another note to Great Britain is now in course of preparation at the state department and is expected to be despatched as soon as the negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare have been cleared up. While this communication probably will make reference to the latest memorandum, it is understood that the manner of enforcing the order-in-council will not be treated as relevant to the question at issue—whether there is any warrant in international law for the powers that Great Britain and her allies have assumed to exercise over the commerce of the world.

In its memorandum the foreign office emphasizes the "various special concessions made in favor of United States citizens" in setting forth that all British officials have acted in every case "with the utmost despatch and consistency with the object in view, and of showing in every case such consideration for neutrals as might be compatible with the object, namely, to prevent vessels from carrying goods for, or coming from, the enemy's territory."

To Consider Special Cases
Arrangements for buying American cotton detained and for permitting the passage of goods bought in Germany by Americans before the date of the order in council are outlined, and the promise is made that consideration will be given to special cases of this kind in the future.

According to a summary of ships detained there are now 27 vessels which cleared from the United States now held in ports of the United Kingdom. Of these, eight are said to be unloading cotton which Great Britain has agreed to purchase; seven will be allowed to depart as soon as items of their cargo placed in a prize court and the other 12—three of them American ships—are the subject of investigations not yet completed.

No Substantial Grievance
"His majesty's government," the memorandum concludes, "is earnestly desirous of removing all cases of unavoidable delay in dealing with American cargoes and vessels which may be detained and any specific inquiries of representations which may be made by the United States government in regard to particular cases will always receive the most careful consideration, and all the information which can be afforded without prejudice to prize court proceedings will be readily communicated; but it can scarcely admit that on the basis of actual facts, any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained and it, therefore, confidently appeals to the opinion of the United States government as enlightened by this memorandum."

No Claims Remain Unpaid
The note continues: "It has been explicitly acknowledged by the special representative of the American claimants who have been in constant and direct communication with the board of trade, that all the claims so far submitted under the cotton arrangements have been settled with the utmost promptitude, so soon as the production of the necessary documents by the claimants of this being done. There is at the present moment no claim before his majesty's government that has not been paid, and the sums so paid over are already considerably in excess of the amounts realized by the sale of the goods."

"As regards the more general allegation of delay in dealing with cases

12 Cargoes Under Inquiry
"The total number of vessels which, having cleared from United States ports since the initiation of the retaliatory measures against German trade, are still detained in United Kingdom ports, is 27; of this number, eight are discharging cotton which his majesty's government has agreed to purchase under the above arrangement. Of the remaining 19 vessels, seven are free to depart as soon as the items of their cargo placed in the prize court have been discharged. The other 12, of which three only are American ships, are detained pending inquiries as to suspicious consignments, and particulars as to the dates and approximate cause of detention are furnished in the accompanying list. It will be observed that eight have been detained for a period of less than a week, and three for a period of less than a fortnight, while the detention of one is due to the difficulties in regard to transit across Sweden and Russia."

No Arbitrary Interference
"His majesty's government remains convinced that, on an impartial review of the facts, it will be admitted that no arbitrary interference with American interests has, in regard to cotton cargoes, occurred; while, if due regard be paid to the enormous volume of American and neutral shipping which is continually engaged in the transatlantic trade, the figures and dates quoted in the preceding paragraph will emphasize the restricted nature of any interference which has been given to the cases in which the officials concerned have adhered to their instructions to act in all cases with expedition and with every possible consideration for neutrals."

The note then cites measures taken to favor American interests which with to import goods of German origin. Undertakings were given not to interfere during transit with certain cargoes of dyestuffs, potash and German beet seed. Later, when German exports continued large, the British government decided to fix June 1, or in special June 15, as the date when shipments of cotton yarns from seizure must end. The note says:

Shown Great Consideration
"In the United States, having now had three months in which to clear of their cargoes in enemy territory, his majesty's government trusts that, in presence of the circumstances enumerated, the United States government will acknowledge the great consideration which has been shown to American interests."

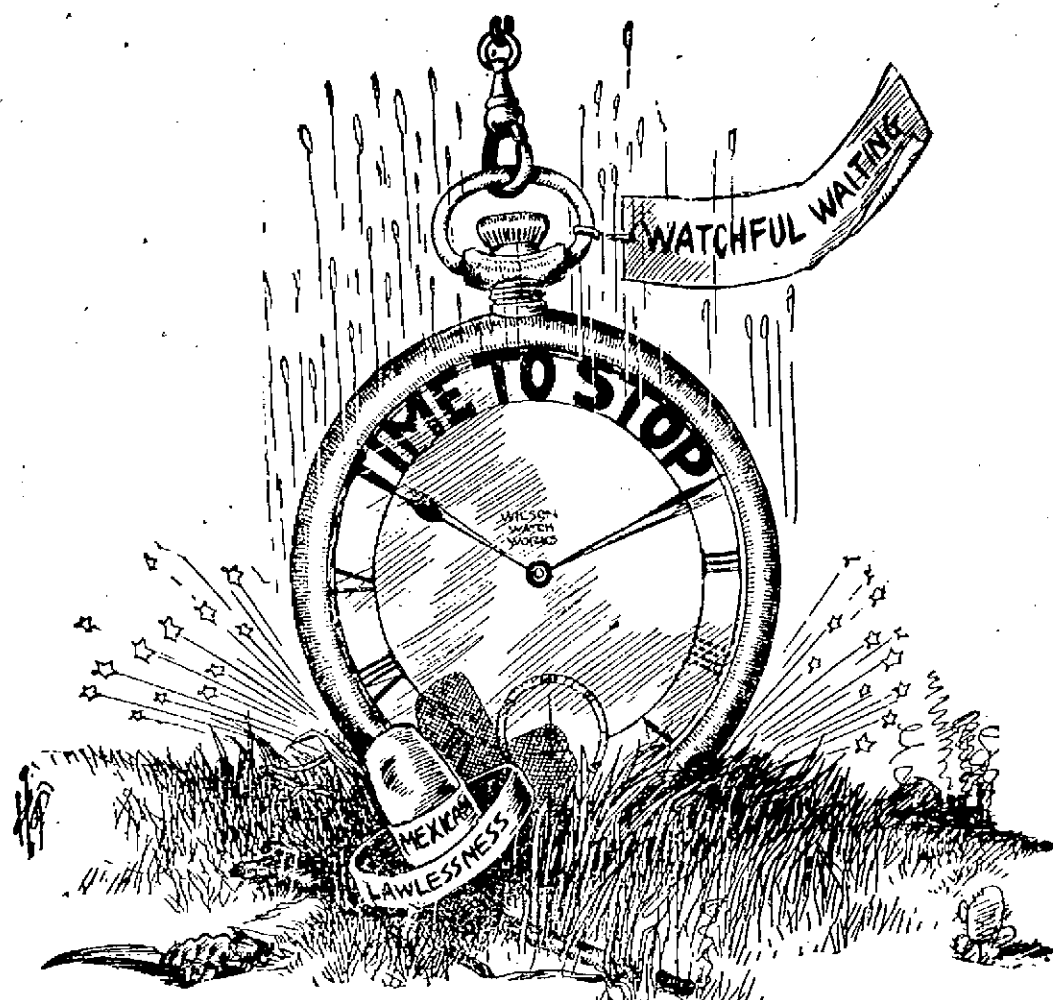

New appeals have been made for an extension of time. The note says that the previous consideration shown American shippers was a friendly concession, in no wise required. Continuing, the note adds:

"In reference, however, to the renewed representations of the United States ambassador, his majesty's government has given further directions that in all such cases which may have been specially submitted through the British embassy at Washington or to his majesty's government direct on or before the 15th of June and passed, the goods shall be allowed to proceed without further interference, if from a neutral port on the conditions already laid down, notwithstanding the fact that shipment may not have been made before the 15th of June."

Delay Due to Americans
The government is prepared, the note says, to grant special consideration in certain cases involving particular hardships, where payment can be shown to have been made before March 1. Other cases will be dealt with in prize court. The government says, of delay in prize court proceedings, that one case has been delayed six weeks by the American claimants. In many cases, it is said, the delay is due to the Americans. The note concludes that the British government does not consider that on the basis of actual facts any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained.

Harvard-Yale Regatta
today combined to give Harvard and Yale a perfect regatta day for their annual inter-varsity races. Not a cloud marred the blue of the sky and the Thames course, over which the two and four mile races were to be rowed, showed scarcely a ripple throughout its entire length. Following in the wake of the heavy northwest blow of the past few days, it lifted a weight from the minds of oarsmen and coaches and gave promise of a day ideal for boat races.
Cheered by conditions favorable for both spectators and crews, the thousands who form the most picturesque sight seen at any American regatta began to gather along the course soon after sunrise.
Special trains from east and west, motor cars, excursion boats, steam yachts and sailing craft all contributed their share to swell the crowds and long before the starting time of the junior eight races the principal streets, railroad stations and water front were scenes of indescribable confusion, color and clamor. Alumni and under classes from the rival universities guided parties of pretty girls, matrons and smartly dressed children to points of vantage on shore, observation train and yacht decks from which to watch the struggle of the junior and senior oarsmen in the three races of the day.
The colors of the rival colleges were evident on every hand in form of flags, arm bands, feathers, balloons, confetti and paper streamers. Ticket speculators stood ready to supply observation seats at prices ranging from $10 to $20 each, and did a bustling business despite the hundreds of per cent profit they charged.
There was little change over night in the actual racing or wagering situation. Even money prevailed on the variety four mile race, with Harvard a slight favorite in the junior and Yale in the freshman contests. The contest reported a quiet and uneventful night at both camps and the regatta officials stated that every detail for the holding of races had been completed.

Harvard Gets Jump
NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—The two preliminary races in the annual Harvard-Yale regatta were rowed just before sunset last evening, and Harvard won them both. The first one was for freshmen fours over a mile course, and Harvard won by two lengths and a half. Time, Harvard 6m. 15s., Yale 6m. 31s.
The second race was for eight-oar crews of graduates, who rowed only half a mile. The Crimson won by one and a half lengths. Time, Harvard 3m.

today combined to give Harvard and Yale a perfect regatta day for their annual inter-varsity races. Not a cloud marred the blue of the sky and the Thames course, over which the two and four mile races were to be rowed, showed scarcely a ripple throughout its entire length. Following in the wake of the heavy northwest blow of the past few days, it lifted a weight from the minds of oarsmen and coaches and gave promise of a day ideal for boat races.
Cheered by conditions favorable for both spectators and crews, the thousands who form the most picturesque sight seen at any American regatta began to gather along the course soon after sunrise.
Special trains from east and west, motor cars, excursion boats, steam yachts and sailing craft all contributed their share to swell the crowds and long before the starting time of the junior eight races the principal streets, railroad stations and water front were scenes of indescribable confusion, color and clamor. Alumni and under classes from the rival universities guided parties of pretty girls, matrons and smartly dressed children to points of vantage on shore, observation train and yacht decks from which to watch the struggle of the junior and senior oarsmen in the three races of the day.
The colors of the rival colleges were evident on every hand in form of flags, arm bands, feathers, balloons, confetti and paper streamers. Ticket speculators stood ready to supply observation seats at prices ranging from $10 to $20 each, and did a bustling business despite the hundreds of per cent profit they charged.
There was little change over night in the actual racing or wagering situation. Even money prevailed on the variety four mile race, with Harvard a slight favorite in the junior and Yale in the freshman contests. The contest reported a quiet and uneventful night at both camps and the regatta officials stated that every detail for the holding of races had been completed.

ARMIES LOCKED IN DESPERATE STRUGGLE ALONG THE DNIESTER

YALE WINS THE JUNIOR VARSITY TWO MILE RACE

Blue Crew Captured Opening Event by Three-Fourths of a Length—Time 10.40

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—Yale university oarsmen opened the annual inter-varsity regatta today by winning the junior varsity eight-oared two mile race from Harvard by three-fourths of a length, the official time being 10.40; Harvard, 10.43.

The freshman eight contest, the second event on the program was postponed until late this afternoon, the referee deciding that the water was too rough for the first year crews.

There was scarcely a ripple on the Thames when the junior eights lined up at the navy yard for the initial event of the day. Promptly at 10.15 the referee's pistol flashed and the two eights drove their oars into the water and the Yale shell poked its prow into the lead never to be headed.

The race was singularly devoid of features, the Blue always holding a commanding advantage throughout the two-mile struggle.

Of the two crews Harvard showed better form and watermanship but failed to get the same power in the stroke that the Yale oarsmen secured with their more irregular style.

Yale, rowing 40 strokes to Harvard's 33, jumped the Cambridge juniors at the start and had rowed into a three-fourths length lead at the half mile flag, where both combinations had settled down to a 31 beat. At the mile Harvard had out down her rival's lead slightly although rowing one less stroke to the minute than the Blue.

Less than half a length separated the crews of the two shells at the mile and a half flag and here the Crimson juniors made their bid for victory. Raising their stroke to 35 they cut down Yale's lead to a quarter length but the Elis answered with an equal beat and in the spurt picked up an additional half length although Harvard finished three beats to the minute faster at 39 than the victors.

The winners showed the effects of the race more than the Harvard rowers who finished in comparatively good form and with little signs of distress. In the New Haven shell stroke Adams and Munson at No. 3 were temporarily out of commission, but soon recovered.

The freshman eights were at the starting mark when the observation train returned to the navy yard, but the wind from the southeast was freshening with every minute's delay and when the regatta committee and referee's boat arrived, it was announced that wind and water conditions made a postponement necessary until after the varsity race at 4.30 p. m. The shift in the schedule will force the freshman crews to race upstream from the railroad bridge to the navy yard some time after 5 p. m.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUB
HEATED DEBATE

MARTON, June 25.—The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs today adopted a resolution endorsing woman's suffrage by a vote of 203 to 88.

The debate occupied nearly three hours and was at times bitter, several anti-suffragists hinting that the organization would be disrupted if the political issue of suffrage was made the subject of action by the federation.

It is feared that William Bedard, 11 years of age and son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Bedard of 115 Alken street, lost his life by drowning in that part of the Merrimack river commonly called "Stony" and located between the Alken street bridge and the Noyes street bridge. The father of the child as well as Undertaker A. D. Doucette and a number of other young men grappled the river this forenoon, but at 3 o'clock this afternoon the body had not been recovered.

The boy has been missing since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and a search for him was made throughout the city until early this morning. The police were notified of the boy's disappearance and police officials of nearby cities were communicated with in an endeavor to locate him, as it was thought he might have lost his way on his return from Collinsville late yesterday afternoon.

BOTH CROSSING FORCES WERE PUSHED BACK

Berlin and Petrograd Agree as to Desperateness of Battle—Teutons Admit Retrogression at One Point—Fierce Fighting Also in Progress on Heights of Meuse

German official accounts of the fighting along the Dniester agree with the Russians as to the desperateness of the struggle, which the two armies are still waging in that part of Galicia. The Teutonic version, however, admits retrogression only at one point, stating that superior counter-attacks by the Russians at Tartinov had caused a portion of Gen. von Linsingen's troops to be withdrawn towards the Dniester's southern bank.

Elsewhere in the southeastern theatre of war progress was being made, the official statement said, while further north, although the Germans had evacuated the village of Konaczyska, which they had recently captured, they had broken through the Russian lines near Stegna and held their footing there.

In both cases the crossing forces were pushed back, and are clinging precariously to the left bank of the stream, the Russians asserted. In the Kosmierz district the Grand Duke Nicholas forces are on the offensive and claim to have carried a strongly fortified height by assault.

Latest news of the campaign in France shows the resumption of extreme activity on the heights of Meuse where the French tell of a violent attack. The German claim is that the operations here were begun by the French and that a trench was re-taken from them. The French admit a German advance, but declare the former lines later were re-established. In the Argonne the Germans declare they have made ground. Nothing has been heard from the Dardanelles.

2440 BRITISH OFFICERS IN CASUALTY LIST—CAMPAIGN FOR MUNITIONS
LONDON, June 25, 11.46 a. m.—Something in the nature of a lull in the fighting as compared to the feverish activity of the past fortnight is enabling the military observers on both sides to take stock of the present situation and forecast future operations.

Petrograd claims that the Russian defensive positions are so secure that the Austro-Germans will not be able to withdraw many troops for use against the allies of Russia. The Russians assert, furthermore, that their present line before Warsaw is as strong as it ever was and that their attacks on the River Dniester will fail back only if the eastward drive of the Austro-Germans from Lemberg threatens to cut them off.

The authorities of the central empires are less communicative concerning their future intentions and movements, but it is believed that Warsaw again is their objective. In England the campaign for munitions is in full swing, with the possibility of national registration to ascertain the "man power" of the nation. That England appreciates the need of adding to her fighting resources is significantly indicated by the publication in the London Times of tables showing that the casualties of officers during the past month come within a few hundred of the total officer casualties during the entire South African war. The total in South Africa was 3752, while the lists since May 26 show that 2410 officers have been killed or wounded, or reported missing.

AUTONOMY FOR POLAND
RUSSIAN COUNCIL OF MINISTERS APPOINTS COMMISSION TO ESTABLISH HOME RULE
PETROGRAD, June 25, via London, 2.02 p. m.—The Russian council of ministers today decided to appoint a commission composed of six Russians and six Poles under the presidency of Premier Goremykin to deal with the preliminary necessary to the carrying into effect of autonomy for Poland, which was proclaimed by Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian army on August 14 of last year.

More witnesses from New Hampshire were waiting to testify as to Thaw's sanity today.
The court room today before the day's proceedings started resembled the scene of an old time reunion. Witnesses from various parts of New England waiting to be called in Thaw's behalf, exchanged greetings and many brought their wives with them. Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Harry's mother, shook hands with some of them, and took her seat in the center of such a group.

Today is the ninth anniversary of the murder of Stanford White, for which Thaw was acquitted on the grounds of insanity after one of the most elaborate insanity defenses ever presented in the history of the state. Before calling witnesses, the state's attorney read to the jury testimony from the record of one of the previous Thaw proceedings bearing upon Thaw's sanity. This was the cross-examination of Dr. William White, an alienist, the record of whose direct examination, in favor of Thaw, was put in evidence yesterday.

Dr. Gullett Called
Dr. Noel E. Gullett of Manchester, N. H., who lived next door to Thaw in that city, was the first witness to-day. He said he had seen much of Thaw and found him rational. One of the things he had discussed with him was corporal punishment for children, he said, and he thought Thaw had intelligent ideas on the subject.

"I came here," said Dr. Gullett, "to prove that we in New Hampshire think Thaw sane."
Walter M. Lang, a real estate agent in Manchester said he had been to football games with Thaw and had been automobiling with him. He regarded him as sane.

Lang was followed by his wife who said that she had been impressed by Thaw's "wonderful knowledge of our city."

SEVEN MEN PROBABLY FATALLY BURNED AT EXPLOSIVE WORKS IN PITTSBURGH
PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 25.—Seven men were probably fatally burned in an explosion of gasoline today at the works of the Aetna Explosives Co. in this city. The explosion occurred in a corrugated iron building, and the men escaped by jumping from windows while their bodies were ablaze like torches. The men were taken to a hospital. It is in the Aetna plant that the experiments with a new process of manufacturing gasoline are being carried on under government direction. The officials of the company have not yet made an explanation of the cause of the explosion.

CITY COUNCIL VOTES TO HIRE MR. DENMAN

Commr. Carmichael Opposed—Pawtucket Bridge Plans Must be Approved by Prof. Swain

At a meeting of the municipal council held this forenoon it was voted to authorize Charles J. Morse, commissioner of streets and highways, to employ the Luten Engineering company of Springfield as consulting and supervising engineers for the preparation of plans, detail and form drawings, to install the steel reinforcements and to supervise the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pawtucket falls.

Commissioner James H. Carmichael was the only one of the five members of the council to vote against the employment of the Luten Engineering company of which Engineer Walter W. Denman is the head, or, as it has been put by one who examined into the situation: "The Luten company is Mr.

Denman, and Mr. Denman is the Luten company." It was at first thought that Mr. Luten, the inventor of the Luten patterns, of which so much has been said, was the head of the Luten Engineering company of Springfield, but it seems that Mr. Denman simply named his company after Mr. Luten, whom he refers to as the "whitest man who ever wore shoe leather."

Commissioner Carmichael did not heat about the bust in explaining why he should vote against the engagement of Mr. Denman. "I believe," said the colonel, "that when we have a bridge to build we ought to go to Boston and consult with the men who are recognized as the best bridge engineers in the country. I am not satisfied with the work of Mr. Denman."

More New Hampshire Witnesses Heard—State to Ask Why Harvard Dropped Thaw

NEW YORK, June 25.—Interest in the proceedings to ascertain whether Harry K. Thaw is now sane or insane was divided today between the taking of evidence in court here and the application by counsel for the state for the appointment of a commission to learn from Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard, why Thaw left that institution in 1902 without completing his course. Deputy Attorney General Cook, who yesterday asked Justice Hendrick to appoint the commission, expected his application would be granted today.

Mr. Cook said he was informed that Thaw was called to the office of the president of Harvard at noon and told to leave the university by 3 o'clock that day. Thaw denied this in a statement.

The deputy attorney general said he would endeavor to read to the jury the testimony given by Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, at the second murder trial to which Mr. Cook referred in his opening as the most complete history of hereditary insanity presented in court in 20 years.

More witnesses from New Hampshire were waiting to testify as to Thaw's sanity today.

TRUTH ABOUT THE WAR
London Times Admits German Successes Everywhere—Demands People be Told the Truth

LONDON, June 25, 4.05 a. m.—A demand that the nation be told the truth about the war is voiced by the Times in an editorial. The paper declares there is no immediate prospect of being able to compel the Germans to withdraw within their own frontiers and that it will take months to provide the British forces with the big guns, high explosives and machine guns that are necessary.

"The country has got to set its teeth," says the Times, "disregard confusing bulletins and face the probability of a prolonged and unprogressive campaign in the west, while Gen. von Mackensen's successful march probably has postponed a resumption of the Russian offensive for several months, until they also are provided with guns and shells.

HAPPY WEDDING

Lawyer Frank Goldman
Married to Rose L.
Sydeman

One of the most brilliant weddings seen in this city for a long time was that of Mr. Frank Goldman, the well known young attorney of The Sun building, and Miss Rose L. Sydeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Sydeman, 108 Liberty street, who were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents at 6 p. m. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Elias Wolfson in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the popular young couple, and the guests at the home and the wedding reception that followed included some of the most prominent people of Lowell's professional, business and social life, distinguished visitors from out-of-town and classmates of the bride from Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

The home of the bride's parents had been transformed for the occasion into a bower of summery greenery. Ropes of laurel festooned the doors and gave a festive touch to the various rooms. The marriage took place under a great canopy of palms, through which could be caught glimpses of brilliant cut flowers. As the bride party entered, Biron's full orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and appropriate music was played softly through the impressive ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of ivory duchesse satin, trimmed with real lace and pearls and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Stella M. Sydeman, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of embroidered cream net and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Sun, I add today for

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

WITH SUIT OR OVERCOAT ORDER, ON FOURTEEN STYLES OF WORSTED SUITINGS WITH WHICH I FIND MYSELF OVERSTOCKED.

Many men are inclined to think at my prices, the goods I sell must be inferior in quality. That this belief is unfounded and unwarranted can be easily proved by investigation. The varied nature of my trade—mechanics, business men, brokers, lawyers and doctors—coming to me year after year. Ninety per cent. of my business is with old customers, that is nine men out of every ten who trade with me are men who have traded with me before—men who know just what they are going to receive in the way of cloth, tailoring, trimmings and fittings.

Long dealings with the average man never fail to prove that the average man only wants a fair run for his money. It is another thing, however, to convince the average man that he ought to give you a chance to prove that you will give him the fair run he demands.

Mr. Reader, you are an average man. When I tell you 90 per cent. of my trade is with men who have bought from me before, is it not pretty good betting that if you trade with me once and you are satisfied, you will come back to me again?

I have the goods and I have them at your price. I have the cutting talent and I can afford the price of cutting talent. I have the organization and the business to keep up that organization. I have everything at stake to give you a big run for the money and I have the desire to give you a big run as well as the ability.

Drop in my store today or tomorrow and let me show you at low prices even better material than you are wearing that cost you big money. Let me show you my workshop, my organization, garments being made, some ready for first try, others ready for the pressman, and hundreds of finished garments waiting for the owner to call for them, and for FRIDAY AND SATURDAY I will give you a pair of FREE PANTS with Suit order in any of these special numbers.

FUTURE OF PALESTINE

WILL BE DISCUSSED AT MEETINGS OF NATIONAL ZIONIST ORGANIZATIONS IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, June 25.—The future of Palestine, with particular reference to the effect of the war upon the movement for restoring the land to Jewish control, will be discussed at meetings of ten national Zionist organizations here extending over a week. Headquarters for the registration of delegates were opened today and the program will start with religious services and a reception tonight.

Tomorrow will be given over to religious observances and on Sunday there will be a joint opening session of all the conventions. The various

PARISIAN SAGE

If you value the appearance of your hair you should treat your scalp as often and well as you brush your teeth and rub into the scalp pores twice daily a little Parisian Sage. This treatment is not a mere "hair tonic." It is bottled nourishment for the hair roots and it is simply wonderful what an improvement its use for even a week will make in the appearance of anyone's hair. It never injures, is delightfully cool and pleasant to the scalp and takes out the dull, lifeless look in the hair, making it soft, lustrous and beautiful. Two or three applications remove every trace of dandruff, and daily use will prevent its return. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

bodies will hold separate meetings on the succeeding days. A mass meeting Sunday evening and a banquet Monday evening will be open to the public. The principal convention is that of the Federation of American Zionists, representing all the American Zionist organizations. In the call for the convention Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the federation, said:

"This convention will be the most important annual conference ever held by American Zionists. Zionism in Europe has been seriously affected by the war. Our comrades are unable to bear their portion of the burden of Zionist work. We must assume the extraordinary responsibilities thrust upon us. To meet the new problems that have arisen and our larger obligations, unusual sacrifices will be demanded of us."

Among those expected to address the various meetings are Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, Dr. Schmarja Levin, Nathan Straus and Dr. Meyer Berlin, all of New York, and Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago.

AT ST. LOUIS' SCHOOL

EIGHT GIRLS AND FOUR BOYS GRADUATED—LARGE ATTENDANCE

Eight girls and four boys, pupils of St. Louis' parochial school, received their school and diocesan diplomas at the graduation exercises which were held in the school hall last evening. The affair was attended by over 400 men and women, parents and friends of the children, as well as by a number of distinguished guests from this city and out-of-town, including Mayor and Mrs. D. J. Murphy, Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, Rt. Rev. Bishop Henri da Silva, D. D., Rev. J.

B. Labossiere, pastor; Rev. L. C. Bedard and Rev. E. J. Vincent of St. Louis; Rev. Rosario Richard of Shirley, Rev. J. M. Roy and Rev. C. A. Hallingdon, both of Nicolet, Que., Rev. J. D. Binello of Salem and others.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, while the stage was a mass of potted plants and flowers. The evening's program consisted of an entertainment given by the pupils under the able direction of the Sisters of the Assumption, who are in charge of the institution.

The program opened with an address of welcome read by Miss Eva Despres, this being followed by a salutatory address in English by Master Arthur Pepin. The third number consisted of a chorus selection with Miss L. Bernier as soloist and Misses C. Bouthillier and L. Lebrun as accompanists. Presentation of flowers with appropriate addresses was next in order.

An operetta entitled "Les Enfants de St. Louis" was well given by Andre Faisy, George Toupin, W. Lajeunesse, A. Pepin, R. Dion, G. Moisan, P. Bertrand and W. Dalgic. The accompanists were Miss Ruth Desrosiers and Master Leo Pitre. Another pleasing operetta was rendered by the following: Miss L. Lalonde, Miss D. Thibault, Miss C. Lebrun, Miss L. Laroche, Miss B. Gagnon, Miss M. L. Garipey, Miss B. Houle, Miss A. Barrette, Miss M. Renaud, Miss P. Baribeau, Miss L. Picard. The accompanist was Miss L. Champagne. A chorus selection, "Beautiful Moonlight" was given by the school with Miss L. Picard at the piano.

During the evening pleasing selections were given by Cornellier's orchestra and remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere and Mayor Murphy. The presentation of diplomas was presided over by Rev. Fr. Labossiere, who was assisted by the mayor. Miss Annette Blais read a French address in behalf of the graduates and Paul Bertrand gave the valedictory address. The graduates were chosen to accompany the president.

"He's a pretty good player," said Bobbie.

A number of well known people, including Gouverneur Morris, the writer, were on the links at the same time as the president and his party.

With Col. House he sat in a small summer house overlooking upper Hempstead bay, while photographers snapped at him.

Col. House plans to leave here Sunday for Beverly, Mass., but said that he did not expect to go to Cornish to see the president again.

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT AT HOME OF NELSON C. HILL 'IN VARNUM AVENUE

A moonlight lawn party was held last evening at the home of Nelson C. Hill, 510 Varnum avenue, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Trinitarian Congregational church. The lawn was prettily decorated and lighted with Japanese lanterns. The amusements and pleasures of the evening included automobile rides up Varnum avenue which were well patronized. There was a good sale for ice cream, candy and soft drinks and in an oriental tent was ensconced a pianist who could lay bare the past and foretell the future.

A hurdy-gurdy played during the evening. The automobiles were operated by John Mussen, Arthur Delong and Rev. R. G. Clapp.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. W. E. Hatch entertained members of her Sunday school at her home in Loring street yesterday afternoon and evening. A short business meeting was held in the afternoon at which Mrs. Evans was elected president for the ensuing year. A basket luncheon was served on the lawn and games were played. In the evening a canvas was stretched across the street and selections were played on a Victrola to illustrate the views thrown on the canvas by a reflectoscope.

FIRST BORN'S INFERIOR

PROF. PEARSON SAYS AVERAGE LOWER MENTALLY, MORALLY AND PHYSICALLY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—First-born children are on the average inferior, physically, mentally and morally, to the brothers and sisters who follow them. Such is the conclusion of Prof. Karl Pearson of the University of London. His statistics, covering many thousands of cases, are published in the July number of the Journal of Heredity, organ of the American Genetic Association of this city.

Prof. Pearson made his discovery when studying the population of a sanatorium for consumptives, where he found that there were many more first-born than there should be, if tuberculosis selected its victims at random. On the other hand, the later-born children were fewer in number than was expected. Since then he has applied elaborate statistical analysis to data of many kinds. He finds that first-born children show the highest percentage of still-births, and are most delicate during childhood. Further, they weigh less and are shorter at birth than are later-born children.

Study of the inmates of homes for the feeble-minded and insane asylums shows him that first-born children are there in disproportionate numbers. Criminality appears also to be a prerogative of the eldest members of the family. Statistics of English prisons revealed 717 first-born, where calculation led him to expect only 557. Epilepsy, alcoholism and congenital defects are likewise studied, and in each case an abnormally large number of the affected persons are found to be first-born.

This inferiority, as brought to light in statistics, is partly due to the fact that many weak parents die after having only a single child. Such a child, of course, counts as a first-born, and naturally inherits some of the weakness of his parents, but his inferiority is due rather to the bad stock than to the fact that he is first-born.

But aside from this, Prof. Pearson holds that the first-born are, on the whole, actually handicapped. This may be partly due to the woe of their conditions in life. Being the eldest children are thus handicapped. Prof. Pearson sees great danger to the race in the present tendency to make families consist of two children. In a normal family of about five the first-born only make up one-fifth of the population, and their inferiority is swamped. But in many classes of society nowadays the number of offspring is limited to two. Prof. J. McKen Cattell of Columbia university, has shown this to be particularly true of American men of science.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Agnes Roark, the popular milliner at Rose Jordan Hartford's store, who is to become the bride of Mr. Clarence Weston of Manchester next Wednesday, was tendered a miscellaneous shower last evening, the affair being held at the home of Miss Anna Donohoe, of Agawam street. The young woman was showered with cut glass and numerous other costly gifts. In the course of the evening a musical program was enjoyed with Miss Theresa Gysin and Miss Anna Donohoe as accompanists after which a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Barris and the Misses Anna and Rita Donohoe dined. The evening broke up at a late hour, all wishing Miss Roark the best of luck in her future home at Manchester, N. H.

CHARMING LAWN FETE

With Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, LL. D., as Speaker, Held by St. Margaret's Parish Last Night

An exquisitely attractive event in the open was the annual lawn fete of the members of St. Margaret's parish held at the Casino, yesterday afternoon and evening. With a record-breaking crowd in attendance. Practically every family in the parish was represented while there were non-residents to the number of over 500. During the afternoon a special program was given for the children and a throng of little ones made merry in and about the dance hall until evening when they gave way to their elders. The children of St. Peter's orphanage were the guests of Thomas J. O'Donnell in the afternoon and they had a merry time indeed.

The occasion, in the evening, was made notable by the genial and magnetic presence of Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston and now an LL. D. from Notre Dame university. Dr. Fitzgerald, with that happy faculty that has made him famous wherever he has gone, made himself "right at home" with the highlanders and after making an informal address, led the grand march, escorting Miss Catherine V. Hennessy, at the head of a long line of charmingly costumed children.

The former mayor arrived shortly after 8 o'clock and the exercises were interrupted to permit him to speak in order that he might take a late train back to Boston. He was introduced in well chosen remarks by Former Mayor James B. Casey, one of St. Margaret's most active workers. In opening Dr. Fitzgerald told a few stories at the expense of the pastor, Rev. C. J. Galligan, and then referred to the great progress made by the Catholic people in Massachusetts. Incidentally he quoted figures to show the immense amount of money saved to the cities and towns of the state by the parochial schools supported by the Catholic people. At the conclusion of his remarks the former mayor was requested to sing "Sweet Adeline" and he responded gracefully, and sang in good voice. In response to an encore he asked all to join in, and "The Idol of My Heart" received voluminous homage from a mighty chorus, in which several "Sweet Adelines" were distinctly noticeable.

The principal part of the evening's program consisted of feature dances and a juvenile pageant entitled: "Night Time in Fairy Land," a charming terpsichorean novelty designed and directed by Miss Blanche Perrin, the well known dancing teacher, in which over 125 children participated, all be- wittingly gowned, and decidedly fairy-like in appearance. The pageant opened with the entrance of the "Queen of Night" impersonated in an captivating manner by Miss Dorothy McDermott. Then followed the solo and chorus dances of the fairies, all gracefully executed. Those who gave solo dances were Miss Evelyn Whitaker, Miss Kathleen Murphy, Miss Catherine V. Hennessy, Master John O'Neil, Miss Ethel Howard and others. The grand march made a gorgeous climax for the spectacle. The only couple in it, not directly connected with the pageant were Former Mayor Fitzgerald, and Miss Hennessy, the latter charmingly gowned. The costumes of the little folks were most artistic, and it is doubtful if Miss Perrin ever presented a more pleasing attraction. After the march general dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the floor crowded at all times. Broderick's orchestra furnishing a most acceptable musical program. Those who didn't dance enjoyed a promenade of the spacious veranda of the Casino. The refreshment booths and the cool wheel were liberally patronized, while the ice cream table did a land office business and was in charge of a lively committee headed by those two eminent parish hustlers, Mrs. Margaret Hennessy and Mrs. Margaret Bagshaw, both of whom worked untiringly until the very close of the event.

Among those who greatly enjoyed the affair were Rev. C. J. Galligan and Rev. H. C. Reardon of St. Margaret's and Rev. James Lynch of St. Michael's, a former curate of the parish.

Those who took part in the various features in the fairland were as follows:

VAHEY ON ARBITRATION

While one may understand and excuse the disappointment of Mr. Vahey at the outcome of the earthen's efforts for wage concessions, his opposition to the principle of arbitration is astonishing. In Massachusetts and in all parts of the country arbitration is being regarded more and more as the most satisfactory medium of settling labor disputes, and it has been the means of averting strikes that would have proved a national calamity. Arbitration as a means of industrial peace is now too well established to be endangered by the attacks of a man even as prominent as Mr. Vahey, but nevertheless such attacks are to be unreservedly condemned as tending to foment labor troubles and deal a blow at one of the greatest remedies for the equitable settlement of industrial disputes.

One year ago the country stood aghast at the prospect of a great strike on the eastern railroads, which, had it materialized, would have crippled business and caused widespread misery and depression. The railroad officials were unbending and the employees were not less so. The members of the various railroad unions were ready to a man to abide by the commands of their leaders, and for some anxious days it looked as though we should have one of the greatest strikes in the history of the country. In this crisis public opinion, backed by the federal government, advised arbitration, and at the eleventh hour arbitration was resorted to. In a few weeks the controversy was settled, and though there was some degree of dissatisfaction, the railroads soon got down to a normal basis. It was a great victory for arbitration.

A few days ago it looked as though New England would see a strike of considerable magnitude on the New Haven railroad. Eighteen hundred freight clerks felt that they had a grievance, and they were firm in the demand that it should be righted. Things seemed near breaking point when a federal conciliator succeeded in bringing about a conference between the railroad officials and representatives of the railway clerks' union. An agreement was speedily reached and all the points at issue amicably settled. Another victory has been scored for arbitration, and this at the time when Mr. Vahey was declaring that he would use his influence to have arbitration discarded as a medium of settling labor troubles.

In Massachusetts there is a properly constituted Board of Conciliation and Arbitration which has been of inestimable service in preventing labor dissensions and class friction. It is at all times ready and willing to intervene where labor troubles exist, and for the past three or four years it has prevented strikes that would have brought much hardship and perhaps little good. This board has not only actually settled many labor troubles satisfactorily but it has left nothing undone to educate the public as to the value of arbitration at times of industrial controversy. Moreover its services are given gratis. It seems too bad that any individual would now oppose a public body which has achieved so many good things and kept Massachusetts out of the Colorado class.

Arbitration is unquestionably the most just and satisfactory system of settling labor disputes, Mr. Vahey to the contrary. What is the usual outcome of a strike? Have we not seen many times that after weeks or possibly months of friction and stubborn resistance, both employer and employee will finally agree to have their differences arbitrated? The conferences by which strikes are generally settled are nothing but the exercise of arbitration, only in such a case it is used as a cure instead of a preventive. Would it not be better in every instance to have arbitration in the first place so that strikes would be unknown?

Suppose that all labor unions should take Mr. Vahey seriously and throw aside the principle of arbitration! What would be the result? Every time any group of employees in any industry had a grievance they would immediately strike. Instead of the prosperity and peace of our New England situation for the past few years, we should have perpetual strife and resultant suffering. The workers of Massachusetts are too sensible to make this choice. We venture to say that Mr. Vahey does not yet realize the seriousness of the advice he has given the earthen.

Undoubtedly the Bay State earthen are not quite satisfied, but they should not blame the principle of arbitration. They put up a stiff fight for concessions which they failed to receive, and they will have to pay high for the failure. Had they availed of the services of the state board the result might have been different. At any rate, the expense bills would not have been so high. Even though there is general dissatisfaction at the amount of the increase, the earthen would make a very grave error if they should follow the advice of those who so foolishly condemn a principle that the people of the entire country have learned to respect and to approve as the great conservator of industrial peace.

TO BRITISH WORKERS

England has been the folly of letting her labor unions, consciously or unconsciously, play into the hands of Germany and now the issue is clearly drawn. Lloyd George has given British labor seven days in which to prove that it is with the government in reality and if the labor unions fail to come up to expectations and the promises of their leaders, the government will know the reason why. English organized labor has been a great power in the political life of that country for many years, but apparently the power has been misused of late, and the line has been drawn beyond which labor may not go with impunity.

For the next seven days every effort will be made by the English government and by the labor leaders to get men to the munition factories in sufficient numbers to supply a maximum amount of munitions of war. If the unions do not respond, the government will take a hand in the situation, and what the men refused to do voluntarily, they will have to do under compulsion. What is now merely indifference or lack of patriotism may then be made to look like treason. It goes without question that the English government would not contemplate this drastic step without knowing that it was backed by the support of the British masses. In seven days it will be seen if the unions view the question in the same light.

Under the terms of the new munitions bill introduced by Mr. Lloyd George, the English government will control the munition factories and the men who work there. Strikes and lockouts will be illegal, and nothing will be tolerated that would interfere with efficiency or endanger the chance of England's winning. Under its terms England and France hope to cope with Germany on equal or superior bases. In mentions of war, thus making the ultimate success of the allies a certainty. If British labor does not respond to the appeals of the government at this momentous crisis, the world will find it hard to understand the strange and unpatriotic attitude of English unions.

PATCHING UP STREETS

It will be of immense interest to Lowell to learn that Acting Commissioner O'Hearn of the Boston department of public works boasts of his system of street patching as among his greatest achievements. Like Lowell, Boston in the past has not been over-wise in the matter of street construction and maintenance, and as a result the asphalt streets there have developed cradle holes and miniature hills, until Boston streets became a byword. To wait for general street construction would have been ruinous; to adopt a general policy of renewal would be extravagant and so the policy of patching up the bad places was adopted. During the past five weeks Commissioner O'Hearn has put more than 1000 patches on the porous streets of Boston, and he declares that he will fill 2000 more holes before he quits the job. The cost is estimated at about a dollar a patch.

In this city we are doing better in the matter of street repair than we did formerly, and it looks as though in a short time repairs will be attended to scientifically and consistently. We may not have three thousand very bad holes in our main streets, but we have several hundreds, and these should be filled up even though it should cost the Boston figure of a dollar a patch. Even the smallest hole in the asphalt streets, if neglected, will grow and develop until it ruins the thoroughfare, and the ultimate cost is far more proportionately than what would have remedied the defect in the first place.

With the advent of so many heavy motor trucks, streets that are not block-paved do not offer a strong resistance, and there will always be a call for patches. The only way to keep such streets in good repair is by having a permanent repair gang occupied solely with filling up depressions and levelling elevations. Commissioner O'Hearn has reason to boast of his record as a patcher of streets, and his example might be advantageously emulated by street commissioners everywhere.

MEXICAN PROMISES

General Felipe Angeles, one of Villa's right hand men who is now in this country on a special mission to our government, was in Boston a day or so ago, and in the course of an interview to the press outlined the Mexican future in words so fair and colors so rosy that one wonders if the Mexican trouble is not all a dream. His most important announcement was that General Francisco Villa will accept the arbitration offer of this country through President Wilson, provided General Carranza will do the same and allow a free public election. Should this come about, Villa declares he will give up his ambition to rule or to become president of Mexico. If only Carranza will do the same. But Carranza says he won't. Both leaders were declared to have about an equal following.

Should both sides really arbitrate as suggested, and agree to abide by the decision, would they surely eliminate themselves from Mexican public life? Mexican presidents generally find it advisable to go into exile. Perhaps it might also work with aspirants to that office. The one weak factor about the situation is that Mexican promises are made to be broken. After the arbitration of this country, Villa and Carranza might be externally friendly, but they would hardly be as friendly as when two years ago they made such an impression on Washington by their great ideals. Both were then leagued against Huerta whom they successfully routed, only to disagree and start revolution afresh. While Mexico is swayed by leaders with personal ambitions, and while the sorry populace is stripped of every right in the name of might, there will be no peace. The promises of Angeles or Carranza or the unspeakable Villa are worthless.

SECRETARY LANSING

It is doubtful if President Wilson could name to the cabinet as secretary of state, at this time, a man who has the confidence of the country to a greater degree than Robert Lansing, who has just been elevated to that high office. Ever since Mr. Bryan flew out of the official life of Washington on the wings of peace, Mr. Lansing has been persistently named for the place in the press, and the commendation that flows in upon President Wilson is bounded by neither party nor partisanship. The American public rejoices at the elevation of a man who has been proved capable of handling our most delicate international problems, and who seems in full sympathy with the aims of the administration. In the chair of the secretary of state we now have an expert in international law, a trained diplomat and a loyal official, and there is no uncertainty as to his future course. He will be with President Wilson and working faithfully and with dignity for the best interests of the American people. In all the recent notes that have attracted to Washington the admiration of the diplomats of the world, Robert Lansing has been the critic by which the graceful rhetoric and exalted idealism of the chief executive was finally approved.

OUR GRADUATES

The Sun offers the 265 graduates of the high school its heartiest congratulations. They have achieved something noteworthy and their efforts have been rewarded. From the school of theory most of them will pass to the wider and larger school of everyday life, and their success or failure will be in proportion to how they remember and apply the lessons learned in the years of their school experience. Hon. Robert E. Luce reminded them very pertinently that they owe an obligation to the community which has paid for their education and given them so many advantages, and this obligation they may repay by becoming good citizens in all that the term implies. Not all the graduates have like ability, but all may have ambition in the same degree, and the greatest success is for the pupil who is determined to make the most of the opportunities that come to each. It is no slight task to choose the groove in life to which one is best fitted, but if the choice be made with the sincere desire to succeed, and if honest effort is shown in the years to come, there is no fear that our graduates will make as great a reputation as those who have preceded them. May their lessons in the school of experience be as pleasant as those learned in the Lowell high school.

Called by his lawyers to prove that he is sane and called by the state to prove that he is insane, Harry K. Thaw is in some quandary. If he is not really insane when the courts get through with him, he is mentally and physically O. K.

In that bridge matter the municipal council seems bound to keep as far as possible from the clear businesslike way of doing things and to adopt a policy that, if it became general, would make the city charter a scrap of paper. Why don't our commissioners take the responsibility from their shoulders and put it on the charter or on the engineers' department?

The law ought to put the lid on the effervescent youngster who explodes those Fourth of July contraptions prematurely. Safety first, and let us have peace.

CITY HALL NEWS

ified to leave this matter in the hands of Mr. Denman. I have talked with 15 or 20 engineers and while I have not heard anything derogatory of him, I have not heard any great praise of him. One engineer told me that Mr. Denman was a bridge seller. I do not think we should proceed in this matter until we know just exactly where we are at.

Mr. Denman was right in on the meeting today, constituting the sixth member, as it were, and he allowed the point to get by without having a word to say about it, and the most remarkable feature of the meeting, perhaps, was the fact that the vote taken by the council was amended by Mr. Denman. The motion, after being once amended, read that permission to construct the bridge be obtained from the war department, and on suggestion of Mr. Denman it was made to read "harbor and land commissioners." He said the war department might not make answer for six months and the mayor allowed that the doughty engineer had the right dope.

It was a funny meeting throughout. At one stage of the same Commissioner Morse, an ardent champion of Mr. Denman, asked him if any of his bridges had collapsed and Mr. Denman made the very astonishing reply that he had heard about bridges built by him collapsing but this he had never been able to prove. There was a little deep for Charlie, but he didn't say anything.

Story of the Meeting

The meeting was scheduled for 10 o'clock but was not called until 11 o'clock or after. The first business before the meeting had to do with a petition by the Bay State Street railway for permission to decorate the main streets for the big celebration on July 4, using about the same decorations as on Lowell day. The petition was granted.

The mayor read a communication for the license commission asking that the council create an ordinance covering jitney buses. The city solicitor in an opinion rendered the license commission had stated that the present ordinance does not include jitneys. The matter was referred to the solicitor with instructions that he draw up an ordinance and present it to the municipal council.

The mayor was authorized to sign an agreement with the Lawrence Mfg. Co., to pay that company $300 for the use of the playground in Aiken street, the same amount as was paid last year.

Another communication read by the mayor was from the harbor and land commissioners in which it was stated that the commission would give a hearing on the Pawtucket bridge question at the state house on Tuesday, June 29, at 11 a. m. It was voted to have the city solicitor and the city engineer appear at the hearing.

A communication from the city engineer relative to the petition of Alfred G. Swanson for the abatement of sewer assessment in Lawrence street was accepted and placed on file.

The mayor read a communication from the Industrial Accident board asking that the council appoint somebody as agent to represent the city in case of accidents coming under the workmen's compensation act and it was voted to make City Solicitor Henry the city's agent.

The mayor received a communication from Mr. Gow, the man who is building the filtration plant at the boulevard, a few days ago, relative to a statement made by the mayor to the effect that a man in the employ of the Gow Co. had been looking up data against Mr. Denman. Mr. Gow stated in his letter that no man in his employ has been so employed, that he thought a great deal of Mr. Denman and his ability as an engineer and he hoped the mayor would make known the fact that he, Mr. Gow, was attending strictly to his own business, that he didn't want anything to do with the building of the bridge. The mayor said he felt that in justice to both Mr. Gow and Mr. Denman he should read the letter, and he read it. He remarked by the way, that the man who was looking up Mr. Denman is in the employ of the water department.

The Bridge Question

When the Pawtucket bridge question was brought the mayor stated that he had tried to have a meeting with President P. F. Sullivan of the Bay State Street Railway company for the purpose of finding out how much the street railway would do toward the building of the bridge. When the bridge question was up for discussion some years ago the street railway company offered to subscribe $5000. The mayor said he had talked with Mr. Sullivan on the telephone; that he had had a meeting planned for Thursday morning but that Mr. Sullivan had to go away and that he would not be able to see him until he returns.

Commissioner Morse then read the order for the employment of the Luten Engineering company and it was afterwards read by the mayor. The instrument as amended by Commissioner Denman, reads as follows:

Voted that the commissioner of streets and highways is authorized to employ the Luten Engineering company, incorporated of Springfield, Mass., as consulting and supervising engineers for the preparation of plans, detail and form drawings, to install the steel reinforcements and to supervise the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pawtucket falls.

The city of Lowell is to purchase and supply all materials and labor required and all labor used on the bridge to be citizens of Lowell with the exception of two foremen who shall be recommended by the consulting engineer.

The commissioner of streets and highways is authorized to pay unto the Luten Engineering company, Inc., for the services mentioned the sum of $10,000, in the following manner: The sum of $3,000, upon the delivery of all necessary working plans to the commissioner of streets and highways and the balance when the bridge has been completed and accepted by the municipal council, provided, however, that permission to construct said bridge be obtained from the board of harbor and land commissioners, and that the plans be approved by the proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river, the public service commission of Massachusetts and by George F. Swain, consulting engineer.

Mr. Carmichael Objects

Commissioner Carmichael said he thought that the 5% per cent. was a high price for supervising the construction of the bridge and he thought the council ought not to pass a vote until the mayor had talked with President Sullivan of the street railway company. He called attention to the fact that the street railway company would want a double track across the bridge and the company, he believed, would be willing to pay for it.

Commissioner Morse gave as his opinion that the company would have to pay for it. "If the bridge is going to be built this summer," said Mr. Morse, "we will have to get at it right away. We have been dilly-dallying long enough."

Mr. Morse spoke about the ledge that the Locks & Canals company had said would have to be removed under the eastern arch of the bridge and Mr. Duncan wanted to know if the cost of removing the ledge was included in the $40,000 estimate. Mr. Morse said he didn't know and the mayor asked Mr. Denman about it. Mr. Denman said it was not included originally, but he thought the $30,000 would cover it all right.

William E. Badger of the Locks & Canals company was present and was asked what he thought it would cost to displace the ledge. Mr. Badger said he was not prepared to give an estimate. He thought, however, that the expense might be considerably offset if the stone could be used by Mr. Denman and Mr. Denman thought the stone could be used all right.

In reply to Mr. Carmichael's objection to the 5% per cent. for supervision, Mr. Denman said that included the placing of the steel.

"Is the steel such that any manufacturer can build?" asked Mr. Carmichael, and Mr. Denman answered in the negative.

"Some particular steel that only one company, the Luten company, for instance, can build on?" queried Mr. Carmichael.

Mr. Denman replied that there were at least four companies who made the kind of steel necessary and there was nothing to prevent them from submitting bids.

"We will call for steel of a certain form and quality," said the mayor.

"And the steel will have to be placed under the Luten patents," put in Mr. Carmichael, "and that means," he continued, "that about one-half the amount of steel will be used."

"I don't agree with you," said Mr. Denman, "and the question to the amount of steel to be used is not pertinent."

Mr. Carmichael: "When the $30,000 has been expended there is no person whom the city can look to?"

Mr. Denman: "The Luten Engineering company."

Mr. Carmichael: "The Luten Engineering company doesn't give a bond."

Mr. Denman: "No."

Mr. Morse: "Are you expecting that we will have to look to anybody for anything?"

Mr. Carmichael: "We don't know what to expect. We have never built about it."

Mr. Putnam: "I understand that I understand from Prof. Moore, and I

WILSON WILL KEEP US OUT OF WAR IF HE CAN

CORNISH, N. H., June 25.—President

Wilson, accompanied by his daughter Margaret and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician, arrived at his summer home here soon after 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was met at the railroad station at Windsor, Vt., by his cousin Miss Helen Woodrow Bones and motored to Cornish.

FIRST VISIT

GREENFIELD, June 25.—President Wilson today began to enjoy in earnest his first vacation since last fall. En route for Cornish, N. H., he slept late this morning and so did not see the crowds which gathered at several stations to greet him until his train arrived in this state. At Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton and Greenfield he responded to cheers from crowds, stepping out upon the observation platform of his private car and shaking hands with as many persons as time permitted.

At Northampton a large group of students from Toronto university, on their way to a Y. M. C. A. conference at Northfield, gathered about Mr. Wilson's car and gave their college yell mingled with calls for a speech. The president smiled his acknowledgments.

"We are for peace with honor," called out one man at Holyoke; "we are for you all the time." The crowd applauded and the president smiled at the same time accepting a bunch of flowers from a little girl.

Since leaving Washington Mr. Wilson has received only a few messages and those examined by him conveyed expressions of approval of his appointment of Robert Lansing as secretary of state. The party should arrive at Cornish at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

AT SPRINGFIELD
SPRINGFIELD, June 25.—"Keep us out of war," Mr. President.

"I will if I can."

President Wilson was in Springfield for five minutes at 9 o'clock this morning while on his way to his summer home in Cornish, N. H. Mr. Wilson did not speak to the crowd at the station, but when his car had been taken to the railroad yards he waved his hand and smiled at a group of railroad men. They called to him and he came out and shook hands with them and gave them the assurance quoted.

Mr. Wilson will be met by an automobile at Windsor and taken to Cornish.

COURT RECESS TO SEE WILSON
BRATTLEBORO, Vt., June 25.—The judges of the state court in session today took recess in order that those present might go to the station and see President Wilson whose train arrived at Brattleboro shortly after 11 a. m. today.

The president shook hands with about 300 persons and waved his hand to a man on a box car and to whom he referred as "the man in the gallery."

Three cheers were given the president as the train pulled out.

think we ought to have a perfect understanding before we start this thing."

Mr. Putnam: "We ought not to hold up the plans on account of the street railway company, but the plans ought to be passed upon and approved."

Mr. Denman: "I don't care a rap about the Bay State Street railway company. It is up to the municipal council to do something. If the street railway company refuses to come across we can refuse them a franchise."

Mr. Morse: "That's so. This thing has been delayed long enough."

Mr. Carmichael: "If the Bay State Street Railway company should give us $500,000 we would have to borrow only $500,000. We should find out about it. What is the amount usually paid by public service corporations?"

Mr. Duncan: "From 6 to 10 percent. There is some legal question as to whether we can go ahead with the bridge until the money has been actually borrowed and it is very essential that we should know how much the bridge is going to cost. The charter says we cannot make a contract until the appropriation has been made."

Mr. Morse: "This thing is being held up right and left, because there seems to be something against Denman and the bridge."

Mr. Duncan: "There is nothing against Mr. Denman and we all want the bridge. We ought to go about this matter in a businesslike way and we are obliged to do it in a legal way."

Mr. Denman then made a statement in which he said that unless the job was let by contract the city would have to accept his estimate. Mr. Denman thought it would not be necessary to borrow all the money at once, but Mr. Duncan told him that it would be necessary to borrow it all at once in order to get a good rate of interest.

"Are we obliged to take your plans if we pass the vote submitted here by Mr. Morse?" queried Mr. Carmichael, addressing Mr. Denman.

"If approved by the public service commission," replied Mr. Denman.

Mr. Putnam: "I do not want to vote on this matter today the way it stands. It was understood last Tuesday that the bridge would be presented to an engineer for approval and that they would be ready for action today. That was understood and agreed to by everybody concerned."

Mr. Carmichael: "I think we ought to submit the plans to Mr. Worcester or Fay, Spofford & Thorndike. These are engineers that we know are all right."

Mayor Murphy: "Fay, Spofford & Thorndike are after the contract. I have had a letter from them and they think they can do the job better than Mr. Denman."

Mr. Carmichael: "It isn't at all strange that they should be after the job."

Mr. Denman: "I will not submit to a competing engineer."

Mr. Morse: "Has Prof. Swain ever approved any of your plans?"

Mr. Denman: "Yes, fifty or more, perhaps. He has approved every plan of mine that has ever gone up to him."

The mayor said again that Mr. Swain would probably charge the city between $500 and $1000 to go over the plans and Mr. Carmichael thought his approval would be worth the money.

Mr. Morse: "Have any of your bridges ever collapsed?"

Mr. Denman: "I have heard that some of them collapsed, but I have never been able to prove it."

Mr. Carmichael then stated that he would vote against the proposition for the reason that the manner of procedure was irregular. He said that the city should have gone to Boston and consulted a competent engineer. That he said would have been the satisfactory way of doing it.

Mayor Murphy: "Have you heard anything against Mr. Denman?"

Mr. Carmichael: "I talked with 15 or 20 engineers and I did not hear much praise of him, except from Mr. Morse."

Mr. Morse: "No, not exactly. One engineer told me that Denman was a bridge seller. You men may be all right in your opinion and I may be all wrong, but I have my opinion and I will have to hold to it as there is nothing to convince me otherwise."

The mayor then read the vote again and, after the changes suggested by Mr. Denman had been made, the vote and may vote was called for. The result was four yeas and one nay. Carmichael voting against.

It was then voted to have City Engineer Kearney take the plans to Boston for Prof. Swain's approval.

ZAPATA FORCES AND CARRANZA
DUELS

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Zapata forces defending Mexico City have engaged the attacking Carranza army in a series of artillery duels and delayed its advance. No details were contained in the advices reaching here today which were the first indications that the Carranza advance would be resisted.

Communication with Mexico City has been cut off since June 18 when Gen. Gonzales, the Carranza commander, cut the wires to Vera Cruz at Olanhu, 25 miles east from the capital. Consular advices from Vera Cruz today said the wires were still down and had been ordered to be restored. Communication would be restored before the Carranza forces entered the city. Vera Cruz despatches to the Carranza agency here have insisted Gonzales was delaying his occupation "to save the city from the horrors of attack" and had been ordered to exhaust every means to induce the Villa-Zapata troops to withdraw without resistance.

The Carranza war department urges that the Red Cross relief expedition be delayed until after the occupation of the capital. Carranza has promised full co-operation with it.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

WED YOUNG LADY FROM COSTA RICA

A Boston paper has the following: There is a bit of romance in the recent announcement of the engagement of Senorita Maria Rensilla Calvo, the daughter of Don Juan Ricardo Calvo, former minister of the United States from Costa Rica, to Thomas Dempsey Harrington, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Harrington of 319 Commonwealth avenue.

Young Harrington met Senorita Calvo in Washington a few years ago, when he was a student at Georgetown university. The young people saw much of each other in the social life of the capital, and to Washington people the announcement of their engagement did not come as a great surprise.

But it is a coincidence that when young Harrington entered the business world he should have picked an employment which soon afterwards took him permanently to Senorita Calvo's native country. For nearly two years Mr. Harrington has been stationed at Port Limon, Costa Rica, in the employ of the United Fruit company.

Miss Calvo is almost a citizen of the United States by adoption, for she has been in this country for nearly 15 years, during which her father has been stationed at Washington. All of Don Calvo's five children were educated largely in American schools.

Two years ago Miss Calvo made her debut in Washington, and since then has been active in the social affairs of the capital. Her mother, Senorita Calvo, is a gentle, rather quiet woman, with a winning personality. One of Miss Calvo's brothers was at one time a student at West Point. A special act of congress was passed to allow his admission.

No date has been set for the wedding. It is believed that Mr. Harrington is coming home for a short visit this summer or early in the fall.

WAGON IS IDENTIFIED
BERWICK, ME.—SHERIFF CO-
FIN OF MAINE HERE

Sheriff Frank A. Coffin of Berwick, Me., came to Lowell early this afternoon and identified the horse and wagon taken from Berwick early this morning as the outfit stolen late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning from the livery stable of William M. Tower of Berwick, Me. He also had in his possession a warrant charging Baron with breaking and entering in the nighttime and stealing the horse and buggy, which were valued at $250.

The prisoner, who will be held here on the more serious charge of attempting to kill an officer, resided with his father in Somersworth, N. H., just across the state line from Berwick. Sheriff Coffin said he had lived there for over a year and had never been arrested before. He was suspected of stealing the outfit, however, and the up-state sheriff and other officers searched for him all day yesterday.

Mr. Coffin estimated the distance between Lowell and Berwick, Me., at about 55 miles and accordingly, young Baron must have driven the horse at a good speed in order to reach Lowell last night.

The officers of the Lowell board of trade have started a new campaign to induce the residents of this city who spend the summer out of town to purchase their goods in Lowell.

It is stated that there is a large number of local residents who have places out of Lowell, and they do all their shopping during the summer season out of town. The officials of the board of trade have made arrangements with the local merchants, particularly with the grocers, butchers and provision dealers, to have them all out orders and send them all charges prepaid during the summer season when they are spending the summer at the seashore or elsewhere.

People who have occasion to go through Wintthrop, Marblehead, Salem, Weymouth, Revere and other summer resorts can note that a large number of Lowell people are stopping there during the hot season, and of course they purchase their food where they stop. According to arrangements Lowell people can send their orders to their regular grocer or butcher, and the latter will send the goods ordered by parcel or express, all transportation charges prepaid. A large advertisement concerning this campaign will appear in tomorrow's newspapers.

POLICE COURT CASES

MIDDLESEX STREET

Robert E. McNabb, who claims Worcester as his home town, was found guilty in police court this forenoon of stealing a pay envelope containing $2.28 from William Smith of North Billerica and sentenced to two months in jail.

Both men were employed in the spinning department of the Talbot mills, the defendant having started to work there only this week. Yesterday was paid day at the mill and as usual, Smith placed his envelope in the pocket of his trousers which hung in a closet. About 5:30 o'clock Smith went to the dining room of the mill wearing his overalls and did not think to take the money from his trousers.

When he returned he learned that McNabb, who was supposed to be at work, had disappeared and suspecting him of larceny, went to his closet and discovered that the money had been taken. Police Officer W. Henry O'Brien of Billerica was notified and he set out in search of McNabb. The latter was apprehended in a local barroom and after a severe killing admitted that he took the money and turned over $7.15 to Officer O'Brien. The defendant this forenoon said he had been drinking and did not realize what he was doing. "This is a mean, contemptible case of larceny," said the court, "and only a direct sentence can be given."

On Middlesex Street
A row near Middlesex street late last night resulted in the appearance of John Murphy and John L. Smith, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace. Patrolman John H. Kelley testified that he arrested the two men rolling in the street with Smith getting the better of his companion. Each was fined $20 and refused time to make the payment.

The case of James A. Hayden and Robert J. Myron, charged with malicious injury to a fence, was continued until next Tuesday for trial, while Leroy S. Draper was found guilty of failing to properly support his minor child, and was sentenced.

In the meantime, Mr. Draper will receive three dollars weekly from the county for the support of the child.

Boys Heavily Fined
The five boys arrested Wednesday night on Carter street were in court on continuance charged with disturbing the peace by fighting, swearing, etc. Two were fined, said the officers, and the others were making bond.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Rafael Joseffy, well known throughout the country several years ago as a concert pianist and a former pupil of Liszt and Tausig, died at his home here today. He was born in Hungary in 1859.

NO PROTEST BY U. S.
WASHINGTON, June 25.—No protest will be made by the United States against interference with American mails passing through European belligerent territory to neutrals. Since belligerents are permitted to censor their mail, officials here take the position that letters would seem to be subject to the same risks.

Postmaster General Harbison already has ordered that mail to neutrals be sent on ships which do not touch at ports of belligerents.

THREE PLEAD GUILTY

ADOLF JACOBSON, HIS SON AND JULIUS COHEN SENTENCED IN
"FLY-BY-NIGHT" STORES CASE

NEW YORK, June 25.—Adolf Jacobson, his son, William, and Julius Cohen, on trial here for conspiracy to defraud through the mails, entered pleas of guilty yesterday when a former employee testified how he had been sent all over the United States and to Canada and London to establish what the government prosecutors termed "fly-by-night" stores.

Jacobson was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary at Atlanta, his son was given five years and Cohen a year and a day in the same institution. Evidence was produced to show that eight confederates, operating as the Manufacturers Trading company, perpetrated commercial frauds totaling $200,000 and the ratings of reputable business concerns.

GERMAN ANSWER

Will Yield to U. S. Demands—Agreement in Sight

BREITLIN, via London, June 25.—There are good prospects that the forthcoming German note to the United States will go a long way toward meeting the American government's wishes regarding Germany's conduct of submarine warfare, and making passenger traffic on the high seas safe. While it is stated that submarine action against hostile merchantmen will not and cannot be abandoned entirely, it is increasingly probable that the German note will embody some proposals to exempt ships employed wholly or principally in passenger traffic from submarine attack.

Such ships, it is said, would of course be subject to stoppage and examination by submarines in accordance with the practice in vogue prior to the present war and to capture if carrying contraband, but the regular rules of the prize law, particularly regarding the safety of passengers and crews, would be observed.

It is hoped here that such a solution will satisfy the requirements of President Wilson's note. It is hoped and expected here among those who are working for a friendly settlement of the situation between Germany and the United States that the United States would accept the such proposals. Ships are not used to transport ammunition or guns or lend themselves to attacks upon submarines.

LOST 500 OUT OF 700

CANADIANS KILLED IN LA BASSEE BATTLE—BUT THREE OFFICERS UNSCATHED AFTER ASSAULT

TORONTO, June 25.—The First Western Ontario Battalion was all but annihilated in the action near La Bassee in North France on June 15 last, says a semi-official account received here yesterday. Out of between 600 and 700 men, the battalion lost in killed and wounded nearly 500, including 20 officers. Twelve officers were killed, leaving only three officers of the battalion unscathed.

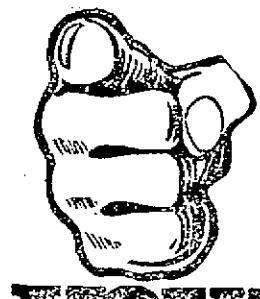

The First Western Ontario Battalion, the account says, was selected to act in co-operation with British troops in attacking a German position. Three trenches were their object.

The first enemy trench was only 40 yards from that occupied by the First Western Ontario Battalion. The mine had been laid and its explosion was the signal for a forward movement on the part of the Canadians. The mine itself killed many Germans. A member of the battalion who took part in the subsequent charge declared that the battalion rushed forward under a terrific fire from machine guns and bursting high explosives.

"Conditions grew more terrible as the fight progressed," said the writer. "The Germans brought up reinforcements from troops that were fighting the British, with whom we were linked. The second trench was about 60 yards beyond the first, which we captured, or about 100 yards from our starting point.

"The cost to ourselves in taking the first trench was very great. We took the second trench and it proved a hot position. We then went for the third trench, but the Germans with reinforcements, concentrated a tremendous volume of fire upon us. I should think, by this time, considerably more than half our officers and men had been killed or wounded.

"Gradually the position became untenable and it was necessary to relinquish the ground already won. We could not, with our depleted force, remain there, so we moved back. The Germans then tried hard to shift us from our original position, but to no purpose.

WAR KILLS 1000 AN HOUR

HARTFORD LAWYER SAYS DEAD WOULD MAKE PILE AS HIGH AS WASHINGTON MONUMENT

HARTFORD, Conn., June 25.—George B. Thayer, a lawyer of this city, who has just returned from a walking tour in France, said yesterday that men are being killed at the rate of 1000 an hour in the war. He described his experiences as follows: "The hotel in France where I was stopping was closed, the proprietor being called to the colors, and I was obliged to move on. I decided to cross into Switzerland. I did not prove very efficient for me, though I saw one man, who was killed by me in an automobile, repeatedly give up his beautiful machine to soldiers stationed at the boundary and continue his journey on foot.

"A few days later I stood at a small railway station, which had been converted into a hospital, and saw the wounded brought in. Here I got my first real idea of the awfulness of the war. Young men in the first flush of manhood were literally shot to pieces, and others maimed for life. It was appalling. Men are being killed at the rate of 1000 an hour and the dead, if piled in one heap, would make a pileable human pyramid as high as the Washington monument."

Cornelius Cronin, chairman of the entertainment committee, took a very active part in the meeting and made many valuable suggestions that were later adopted by the meeting. Mr. Cronin announced that he had organized a tug of war team and that a challenge will be sent to the Broadway Social and Athletic club to meet his Pawtucketville Warriors on July 15. He expects that his team will be accepted and the number should prove one of the features of the party.

Joseph L. Cunningham is chairman of the Holy Name committee, with Joseph McAvinue secretary. Mrs. John McAvinue was chosen chairman of the refreshment committee, and Miss McAvinue will have charge of the baby show and cabaret entertainment. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening of next week.

SIX WERE KILLED

Trains in Head-on Collision on Bridge 100 Feet High

THOMONT, Md., June 25.—Six persons, four of them Baltimoreans, were killed and a dozen more or less seriously injured, when the Blue Mountain express and the fast mail of the Western Maryland railroad crashed together on a bridge, one hundred feet high, over Owens creek, a few miles west of here last night. The passengers killed were:

Mrs. W. Edwin Chipchase and Walter N. Chipchase, her son, 27 years of age, of Baltimore.

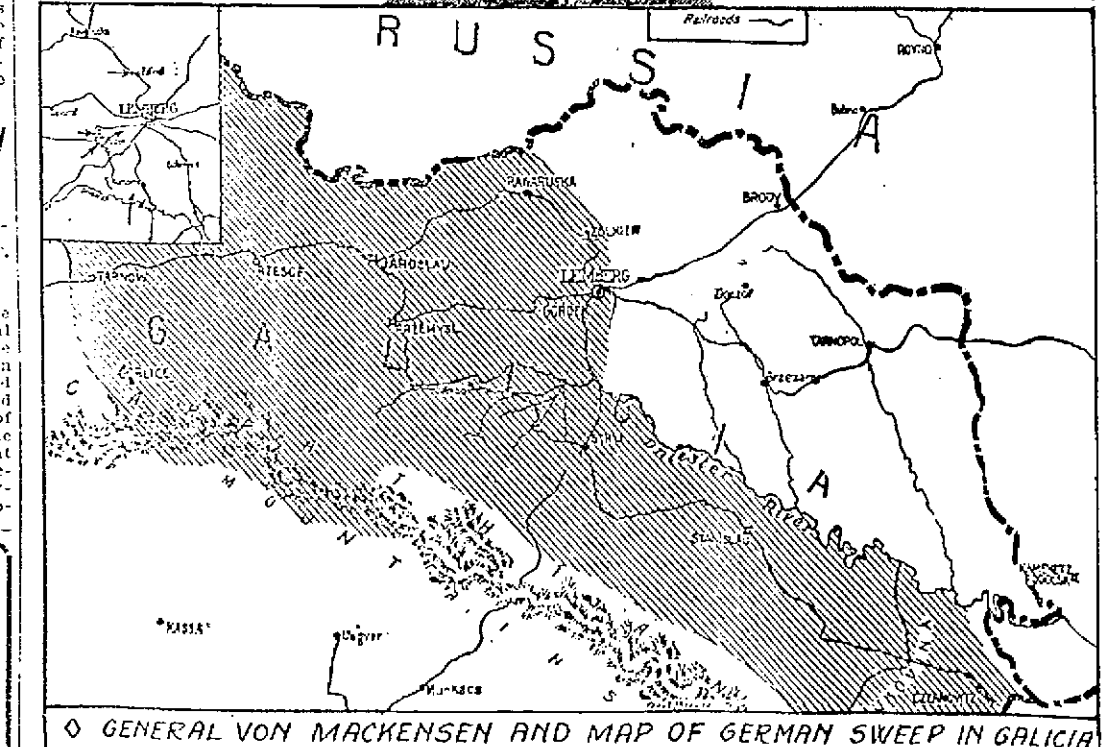

The other fatalities were among the trainmen. "The Blue Mountain express, west bound, known as train No. 11, was late. If on time, it would have passed the fast mail, No. 30, east bound, not far from the point at which the crash occurred. The change in the schedule, in the course of which a mix-up in the orders given the conductors of the two trains is said to have occurred, resulted in bringing the two trains together, both running at high speed, on the bridge, which spans a mountain ravine.

"The two engines were almost completely telescoped. The baggage car of the Blue Mountain express, in which Chipchase and his mother, who was an invalid, was riding, lying in a reclining chair, was torn from its trucks and thrown to the bottom of the ravine. The Pullman parlor car, immediately back of the baggage car, veered seriously near the edge of the bridge but did not leave the rails.

CZAR'S TROOPS, REPEATEDLY DRIVEN BACK, NOW HOLD ONLY NARROW STRIP IN GALICIA

The extent of the Germans' victorious drive in Galicia is shown in the accompanying map. All the territory in the shaded portion of the map has been reconquered from Russia since the first of May, and the czar's troops, repeatedly beaten, lacking guns and ammunition, now hold only the narrow strip of the province shown between the shading and the Russian border. The German plan is understood to be to continue the advance till every Russian soldier has been driven over that border, then to intrude, as has been done in France, and defy the allies to break the line. A large part of the army of 3,500,000 men that has thus been used in the great drive would then be free to be turned against Italy or to renew the attempt to break through the allies' western line to Calais. The small inset map shows how the Russians were forced out of Lemberg by converging German armies, each army indicating the line of attack of a powerful force. The city was in danger of being surrounded and its defenders cut off from the main forces, when the Russians, with General von Mackensen on their very heels, abandoned it.

Collapse of River Pier at Kazen, 400 Miles From Moscow

PETROGRAD, June 25, via London. 1.17 p. m.—A despatch received here from Kazen in European Russia, some 400 miles east of Moscow, sets forth that upwards of 100 lives have been lost in the collapse of a river pier at one of the local pleasure gardens.

The last steamer returning to the city was to leave the island at midnight. A crowd of holiday makers, men, women and children were forcing their way in the darkness to the boat over the slimy pier. The structure collapsed under their weight and virtually everybody was thrown into the water. The crew of the steamer did their best at rescue, but only a few persons were saved.

NEW SECRETARY OF STATE AS HE LOOKS IN COLLEGE CAP AND GOWN

The accompanying photograph of Robert Lansing was taken a few days before he was named as secretary of state. It was posed at Hamilton, N. Y., where Colgate university conferred on Mr. Lansing the title of LL.D. News of his appointment and acceptance was given out while the president was preparing to leave for Cornish, N. H., for a short rest. Everywhere in Washington, in diplomatic circles, among friends of the administration and even among politicians, the appointment was received with great pleasure. An odd coincidence is connected with the appointment of Mr. Lansing: The last secretary of state before Bryan to resign because of a difference with his president was James G. Blaine, who left President Harrison's cabinet. To fill the place caused by Blaine's resignation John W. Foster was appointed secretary of state. When Bryan resigned Robert Lansing, son-in-law of John W. Foster, was appointed to fill his place.

Don't Burn Hairs Off Dissolve Then

Burning hairs off with pastes and powders is as bad as shaving them off—it only strengthens the roots and they come in thicker than ever. The only safe and sure way to get rid of unsightly hairs is to dissolve them—then you destroy the roots entirely. To do this, get an ounce of simple salicylic solution from your druggist; apply with finger tips, keeping the hair moist, in a few minutes the hair will dissolve and disappear entirely. Wash with warm water and you will find the skin soft and smooth as velvet.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

The current year will go down into history as a year of parades in Lowell for we have had an unusually large number of them, despite the fact that two big parades of olden days, that in observance of St. Patrick's day, in March, held under the auspices of the Irish societies, and later in the year, the parade of the French societies in honor of St. Jean Baptiste, of June 24, were not held this year. Both were abandoned as annual events many years ago. St. Patrick's day falling so early in the year, there were frequent disappointments on account of unpromising weather conditions. In the case of St. Jean's day, as the day was not a holiday, and as a great majority of the members of the French societies were employed in the various industries and places of business a celebration of this kind was inconvenient. Hence in the case of the St. Jean's day celebration whether or not a parade is to be held is determined annually by a convention of delegates from the different Irish societies, who for a number of years have consistently frowned upon the idea of an outdoor celebration, while relative to the St. Jean's parade, years ago it was decided that a general celebration with a parade feature would be held but once in ten years. As the last celebration of this kind took place in 1906 the next will occur one year hence.

St. Jean's Day Quarter Century Ago

Yesterday was the feast of St. Jean Baptiste, patronal feast of the French on this side of the ocean and its observance 25 years ago was reported in the old Sun as follows:

"The observance of St. John's day is not as formal as has been the case in former years in this city. There was solemn high mass at St. Jean Baptiste's church on Merrimack street at 8 o'clock, celebrated by Rev. Fr. Constantineau, D. M., of Ottawa college, with Rev. Fr. Colletier, O. F. M., as sub-deacon and Rev. Fr. Anyot, O. F. M., as sub-deacon. The mass was sung by the children of the school. At the offertory a duet was sung by Messrs. Cossette and Laferriere. At the close of the service a hymn to St. Jean Baptiste was sung by the congregation.

"In the evening a festival of exercises and games was celebrated on a very large scale in Huntington hall. At 7 o'clock L'Association Catholique headed by the City band left its hall in Middle street and marched through Shattuck, Market and Dutton streets to the building of L'Union St. Joseph where the ranks were enlarged by Corporation St. Andre. The procession then passed up Dutton to Thorneville, to Middlesex street, where St. Jean Baptiste society fell in. All three organizations with banners and regalia marched down Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack, to Huntington hall where the banners of the societies were gracefully arranged on the stage. Around the hall were many gaily decorated booths, at which refreshments, etc., were dispensed. At the entrance to the hall was a table devoted to light drinks which was presided over by Miss Malvina Cote and Mr. Samuel Marchand. In the center of the hall was the flower table in charge of Miss N. Landry and Miss A. Raymond. The other tables were arranged in the shape of the hall. They were in charge of the following: Candy table, A. Bernier and Miss Victorine Leclair; fruit table, F. Bosquet and Miss Grace Dubergier; ice cream

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE

TRAMP, THE HERO

Once upon a time a little dog ran out barking from some boxes at the side of the road. He snarled as he boy stopped to pat him and a man called to him to be careful as he said he was a very ugly dog. The boy looked at the poor dog a minute and then softly called: "Come on doggie, I won't hurt you."

The poor dog didn't know what to make of that for it was the first time he remembered anyone speaking kindly to him. After a minute, however, he walked toward the boy, and as the boy moved away the dog followed. When they reached home the boy gave him some supper and a warm bed and left him to go to sleep. By this time the dog had concluded that no one was going to harm him and stopped his growling and snapping when anyone came near. The boy named him Tramp, and when he started for school the next morning Tramp followed.

When they reached school Tramp stopped a few yards away from the door and curled himself up and went to sleep until it was time to go home. Each day after that he went to the schoolhouse, waited for his master until school was out and then followed the boy home.

One day, as they were walking home, a big dog dashed out from a yard, and running towards Tramp's master, grabbed hold of his leg. In a second Tramp was after him and the big dog was glad to let go and ran back into the yard yelping with pain for Tramp had bitten him.

One night after the family had gone to sleep and Tramp lay in his nice warm bed, he heard something and although he didn't know what was the matter, he knew something was wrong and ran up to his master's room. The door was shut, and although he scratched on it no one came to open it. At last he ran back toward the opposite wall and then with a dash ran hard against the door. It flew open and he jumped quickly on the bed and began frantically to lick his master's face.

When the boy woke he knew something was the matter, so he ran down stairs and saw that the shed of the house was on fire. He called to his father and in a little while they put it out, but they all were grateful to old Tramp for saving both them and the house.

he has abandoned baseball, as have the others, of whom Edgar Bills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Laframme and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional thimble game has been played away from some of the events. After several years as an enthusiastic pigeon racer, Tom went in for the whippers and it was largely through his efforts that whippet racing received a big boom in this country some few years ago. Through his influence, aided by Michael J. Markham, then a member of the common council, one of the biggest whippet races ever held in America took place on the South common, on July 4th, a number of years ago. Tom is also a great baseball fan though also loyal to his old home game of cricket. Until the rheumatism got to him he used to arrange to have his vacations when the world's baseball series was being held in the fall, in order that he might witness the games. Should you ever get into an argument with Tom on the rules or procedure of any kind of sport, give careful attention to what he says and you won't make any bets for he is a pretty good authority on all sporting matters.

Now don't misinterpret that headline, for the general bankman was a model youth, but fast on his feet, and quarter of a century ago he won the 100 yards dash in the high school races. In order to win such a race he had to be some sprinter. The old Sun reported the high school's picnic of that time as follows:

"The annual picnic of the high school boys and girls was held at Willow Dale on Tuesday. The boys held a 'caddy' or 'caddy' race, like other organizations, and had a bully time. These days of discipline and brotherly love in the police department a picnic might not be a tremendous success but that of quarter of a century ago certainly was, and the old Sun reported it as follows:

"The policemen's picnic was held at Tyngs Island on Saturday last and was attended by a very large number of pleasure seekers and friends of the 'cops.' Eight officers were present from Manchester and a larger number from Haverhill. A feature of the sports was a hall game between the Lowell and Haverhill police. Ex-Alderman Peter H. Donohue and Officer Ben Lake of Manchester umpired the game. But four innings were played and the result was a victory for Lowell by a score of 11 to 3. The members of the Lowell team were: Jim Boyle, pitcher; Ingalls, C. J. Walsh, D. Edgar Hills, 2b; Elor Result, 3b; Charlie Laframme, rf; Peter Walker, cf; Jack Leighton, lf; George Palmer, ss.

"A long list of miscellaneous sports was run off, affording much amusement. A carriage race and whip for the best looking team on the island was awarded to Alderman Putnam. A novel and interesting feature of the occasion was the liberation of about 100 homing pigeons by Officer Tom Whitaker, who is a member of the Homing club. There were birds from Lowell, Boston, Lawrence and Manchester, and after circling about the island for a short time they took different directions for their respective homes, and all were subsequently heard from at their destination. The American brass band furnished music for the occasion.

There was great sport at those old time picnics, and a picnic always drew a great crowd. Of the police hall team of quarter of a century ago, Jim Boyle endured the longest on the diamond, for he was a member of the police team up to within a few years. Thanks to Varness, as we have been informed in the newspapers, George Palmer is just as young as he used to be though he has abandoned baseball, as have the others, of whom Edgar Bills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Laframme and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional thimble game has been played away from some of the events. After several years as an enthusiastic pigeon racer, Tom went in for the whippers and it was largely through his efforts that whippet racing received a big boom in this country some few years ago. Through his influence, aided by Michael J. Markham, then a member of the common council, one of the biggest whippet races ever held in America took place on the South common, on July 4th, a number of years ago. Tom is also a great baseball fan though also loyal to his old home game of cricket. Until the rheumatism got to him he used to arrange to have his vacations when the world's baseball series was being held in the fall, in order that he might witness the games. Should you ever get into an argument with Tom on the rules or procedure of any kind of sport, give careful attention to what he says and you won't make any bets for he is a pretty good authority on all sporting matters.

Continuing its report the old Sun says:

"The following training school teachers were elected: Annie M. Buckminster, Gertrude A. Roddick, Mary L. Keith, Margaret E. McCuskey, Mary E. Donahue, Carrie M. Sprague, Mary E. Warren, Minnie C. Gray, Fannie A. Hardy, Margaret J. McCarthy. Mr. Woodley asked to have Miss Lizzie P. Lemere transferred to the Grand street school from the Highland. Mr. Cummings asked if the teacher had been consulted and Mr. Woodley replied negatively. The transfer was made. Mr. Cummings voting negatively. Mr. Howe was elected principal of the Colburn school after six ballots. Misses Susan M. Andrews, Agnes L. Donohue, Elizabeth A. Balch, Annie Slavin, Mrs. Arilla L. Reader and Miss Margie P. Marren of the Colburn school were elected subject to transfer. Mrs. O. N. The election of special teachers was taken up and Thomas M. Graves was elected teacher of penmanship, Walter E. Owen, musical director, Olive E. Underwood, teacher of drawing, Ida J. Flint, teacher of sewing, and George E. Womden, military instructor. The chairman of the committee on teachers recommended that three young ladies examined under age for admission to the training school be admitted thereto. The names are Mamie Kearney, Lillian Sprout and Annie M. Wright. It appeared that a former ruling on a similar matter was to the effect that the rules must be suspended requiring a three-fourths vote, in order to admit such teachers.

After a discussion, during which it was claimed that such young teachers had no control over their pupils, the girls were admitted by a vote of 8 to 3, after the chairman had ruled against the three-fourths vote rule.

Weston, Miss Ellen M. White, Miss Jennie Allen, Miss Lizzie Laneto.

England Justifies U. S. Cargo Seizures — Denies Americans Have Substantial Grievance

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Great Britain, in a memorandum transmitted to the United States and made public here and in London last night, recites at length its efforts to minimize inconvenience to neutral commerce resulting from the order-in-council against trade with Germany, Austria and Turkey, and asserts that American citizens have no just grounds for complaint on account of the treatment accorded their cargoes.

No attempt is made to answer the principles asserted in the American note of March 1 protesting against the order-in-council and insisting upon the right of neutrals to carry on legitimate commerce with each other and to trade in non-contraband with civilians in belligerent countries. In transmitting the memorandum, Ambassador Page said it was "merely an explanation of concrete cases and the regulations under which they are dealt with."

Another Note
Another note to Great Britain is now in course of preparation at the state department and is expected to be despatched as soon as the negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare have been cleared up. While this communication probably will make reference to the latest memorandum, it is understood that the manner of enforcing the order-in-council will not be treated as relevant to the question at issue—whether there is any warrant in international law for the powers that Great Britain and her allies have assumed to exercise over the commerce of the world.

In its memorandum the foreign office emphasizes the "various special concessions made in favor of United States citizens" in setting forth in every case "with the utmost despatch" of showing the object in view, and consistent with the object, namely, to prevent vessels from carrying goods for, or coming from, the enemy's territory.

To Consider Special Cases

Arrangements for buying American cotton detained and for permitting the passage of goods bought in Germany by Americans before the date of the order in council are outlined, and the promise is made that consideration will be given to special cases of this kind in the future.

According to a summary of ships detained there are now 27 vessels which cleared from the United Kingdom. Of these, eight are said to be unloading cotton which Great Britain has agreed to purchase; seven will be allowed to depart as soon as items of their cargo placed in a prize court have been discharged and the other 12—three of them American ships—are the subject of investigations not yet completed.

No Substantial Grievance

"His majesty's government," the memorandum concludes, "is earnestly desirous of removing all cases of unavoidable delay in dealing with American cargoes and vessels, which may be detained and any specific inquiries of representations which may be made by the United States government in regard to particular cases will always receive the most careful consideration, and all the information which can be afforded without prejudice to prize court proceedings will be readily communicated; but it can scarcely admit that on the basis of actual facts, any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained and it, therefore, confidently appeals to the opinion of the United States government as enlightened by this memorandum."

No Claims Remain Unpaid

The note continues: "It has been explicitly acknowledged by the special representatives of the American claimants who have been in constant and direct communication with the board of trade, that all the claims so far submitted under the cotton arrangements have been settled with the utmost promptitude, so soon as the production of the necessary documents by the claimants allowed of this being done. There is, at the present moment, no claim by Mrs. J. B. Casey, in which the government has not been paid, and the sums so paid over are already considerably in excess of the amounts realized by the sale of the goods."

"As regards the more general allegation of delay in dealing with cases

"The total number of vessels which, having cleared from United States ports since the initiation of the retaliatory measures against German trade, are still detained in United Kingdom ports, is 27; of this number, eight are discharging cotton which his majesty's government has agreed to purchase under the above arrangement. Of the remaining 19 vessels, seven are free to depart so soon as the items of their cargo placed in the prize court have been discharged. The other 12, of which three only are American ships, are detained pending inquiries as to suspicious consignments, and particulars as to the dates and approximate cause of detention are furnished in the accompanying list. It will be observed that eight have been detained for a period of less than a week and three for a period of less than a fortnight, while the detention of one is due to the difficulties in regard to transit across Sweden and Russia."

No Arbitrary Interference

"His majesty's government remains convinced that, on an impartial review of the facts, it will be admitted that no arbitrary interference with American interests has, in regard to cotton cargoes, occurred; while it due regard be paid to the enormous volume of American and neutral shipping which is continually engaged in the transatlantic trade, the figures and dates quoted in the preceding paragraph will emphasize the restricted nature of any interference which has taken place, and the close attention with which the officials concerned have adhered to their instructions to act in all cases with expedition and with every possible consideration for neutrals."

The note then cites measures taken to favor American interests which weigh to import goods of German origin. Underlings were given no interference during transit with certain cargoes of dyestuffs, potash and German beet seed. Later, when German exports continued large, the British government decided to fix June 1, or in special June 15, as the date when shipments with immunity from seizure must end. The note says:

Shown Great Consideration

"12 Importers in the United States, having now had three months in which to clear off their purchases in enemy territory, his majesty's government trusts that, in presence of the circumstances enumerated, the United States government will acknowledge the great consideration which has been shown to American interests."

New appeals have been made for an extension of time. The note says that the previous consideration shown American shippers was a friendly concession, in no wise required. Continuing, the note adds:

"It is in deference, however, to the renewed representations of the United States ambassador, his majesty's government has given further consideration to all such cases which may have been specially submitted through the British embassy at Washington or to his majesty's government direct on or before the 15th of June and passed, the goods shall be allowed to proceed without further interference, except from a neutral port on the conditions already laid down, notwithstanding the fact that shipment may not have been made before the 15th of June."

Delay Due to Americans

The government is prepared, the note says, to grant special consideration in certain cases involving particular hardships, where payment can be shown to have been made before March 1. Other cases will be dealt with in prize court. The government says, of delay in prize court proceedings, that one case was delayed six weeks by the American claimants. In many cases, it is said, the delay is due to the Americans. The note concludes that the British government does not consider that on the basis of actual facts any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained.

Continued

Today combined to give Harvard and Yale a perfect regatta day for their annual inter-varsity races. Not a cloud marred the blue of the sky and the Thames course, over which the two and four mile races were to be rowed, showed scarcely a ripple throughout its entire length. Following the wake of the heavy northwest blow of the past few days, it lifted a weight from the minds of oarsmen and coaches and gave promise of a day ideal for boat races.

Cheered by conditions favorable for both spectators and crews, the thousands who form the most picturesque setting seen at any American regatta began to gather along the course soon after sunrise.

Special trains from east and west, motor cars, excursion boats, steamer yachts, the sailing craft all contributed their share to swell the crowds and long before the starting time of the junior eight races the principal streets, railroad stations and water front were scenes of indescribable confusion, color and clamor. Alumni and under classes from the rival universities, guided parties of pretty young matrons and smartly dressed children to points of vantage on shore, observation train and yacht decks from which to watch the struggle of the junior and senior oarsmen in the three races of the day.

The colors of the rival colleges were evident on every hand in form of flags, arm bands, feathers, balloons, confetti and paper streamers. Ticket speculators stood ready to supply observation car seats at prices ranging from $10 to $20 each, and did a bustling business despite the hundreds of per cent profit they charged.

There was little change over night in the actual racing or wagering situation. Even money prevailed on the varsity four mile race, with Harvard a slight favorite in the junior and Yale in the freshman contests. The coaches reported a quiet and uneventful night at both camps and the regatta officials stated that every detail for the holding of races had been completed.

HARVARD GETS JUMP

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—The two preliminary races in the annual Harvard-Yale regatta were rowed just before sunset last evening, and Harvard won them both. The first one was for freshmen fours over a mile course, and Harvard won by two lengths and a half. Time, Harvard 6m. 21s., Yale 6m. 31s.

The second race was for eight-oared crews of graduates, who rowed only half a mile. The Crimson won by one and a half lengths. Time, Harvard 3m.

5 1/8 m. Yale 3m. 12 1/2 s.
In both events the Harvard oarsmen got the jump on their Yale rivals at the crack of Referee William A. McKelham's pistol, and they were never headed for a second until the finish flags were reached.

As the races were scheduled to be rowed up-river with the tide, they had to be delayed beyond the hour, not because a stiff northwest wind, blowing down stream, made the water too rough for shell rowing until it had died down about 6.15.

OAK LEAF CLUB

The Oak Leaf club held its opening social last evening at the home of Jeanette Coleman, 395 Lincoln street and it proved to be a very enjoyable affair. The house was prettily decorated with palms and leaves. Luncheon was served and the following program presented: John E. McCullum, acting as toastmaster; Songs, Oak Leaf quartet, William P. Moynan, Gertrude Dwyer, Kathleenough, Ethel M. Lait, Theresa Vaughn and John Alexander; recitations, John Coleman and Jennie Kennedy; flute solo, Della Barnes; vocal solo, John Murphy. Fred Brown was the accompanist. After the program dancing was enjoyed.

FELL OVER A HORSE

Hugh Callahan, an aged man residing at 17 Saborn street sustained a wrenched ankle shortly before noon today in Merrimack square. The man was running for a car and tripped over a horse which guards the sidewalk, which is being repaired in front of Carter & Sherburne's drug store. The ambulance was hastily summoned and he was taken to St. John's hospital.

YALE WINS THE JUNIOR VARSITY TWO MILE RACE

Blue Crew Captures Opening Event by Three-Fourths of a Length—Time, 10.40—Record Crowd at New London

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—Yale university oarsmen opened the annual inter-varsity regatta today by winning the junior varsity eight-oared two mile race from Harvard by three-fourths of a length, the official time being Yale, 10.40; Harvard, 10.43.

The freshman eight contest, the second event on the program was postponed until late this afternoon, the referee deciding that the water was too rough for the first year crews.

The smart ten-knot sou'wester blew up the Thames racing course this afternoon, kicking up quite a lumpy sea here and there a white cap was seen and racing officials were apprehensive that, with an increase of rough water it might be necessary to wait until near sundown before starting the varsity eight-race and the freshmen eight contest which had been postponed at 11 o'clock because of poor water conditions.

BOY DROWNED

William Bedard Lost His Life in River—Body Recovered

It is feared that William Bedard, 11 years of age and son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustin Bedard of 115 Alken street, lost his life by drowning in that part of the Merrimack river commonly called "Stony," and located between the Alken street bridge and the Moody street bridge. The father of the child as well as Underliaker A. D. Doucette and a number of other young men grappled the river this forenoon, but at 3 o'clock this afternoon the body had not been recovered.

The boy has been missing since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and a search for him was made throughout the city until early this morning. The police were notified of the boy's disappearance and police officials of nearby cities were communicated with in an endeavor to locate him, as it was thought he might have lost his way on his return from Collinsville late yesterday afternoon.

According to Mrs. Bedard, mother of the boy, her son, William was out with a number of his companions yesterday afternoon. The little fellows, so she was told by one of the party this morning, went to Collinsville and returned by way of Pawtucketville. When they reached the Merrimack river, the Bedard boy suggested instead of going over the bridge that the party cross the "Stony."

Shortly after they had started across, Leo Chenelle of 2 Regina place, fell into a large hole, but managed to get out unharmed. Later, so stated one of the boys, Bedard jumped over a hole and that was the last seen of him. The other boys of the party all went home and did not mention a word of their doings until this morning when after an all night search Mr. Bedard located one of them and after inquiring about his son, was told he had disappeared.

The father went to the "Stony" and remained there all forenoon grappling while Underliaker Doucette had some of his men diving for the body. Although the hole is but some 20 feet in length by about seven feet in width and the deepest spot is about nine feet, the efforts of the searchers were fruit-

GIRL ARRIVES HOME EXHAUSTED AFTER 24 HOURS—CLAIMS SHE WAS HELD A PRISONER

MILFORD, N. H., June 25.—Edith, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Souhegan street, appeared after a 24-hour absence, with a story of being carried away by two men and held in a house in the eastern part of the town.

The child disappeared Tuesday afternoon, when she did not return in the evening, the neighborhood was searched and the police notified.

Late Wednesday evening the child came home with her clothes almost torn off and with a story that two men had carried her on a motorcycle to a house, shutting her in.

She escaped, she said, and with the help of some neighbors got away from the men and ran through the fields and across the river, arriving at her home exhausted.

The child was taken to the office of a physician yesterday afternoon to determine whether she had been injured. The police are working on the case.

CITY COUNCIL VOTES TO HIRE MR. DENMAN

At a meeting of the municipal council held this forenoon it was voted to authorize Charles J. Morse, commissioner of streets and highways, to employ the Luten Engineering company of Springfield as consulting and supervising engineers for the preparation of plans, detail and form drawings, to install the steel reinforcements and to supervise the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pawtucket falls.

Commissioner James H. Carmichael was the only one of the five members of the council to vote against the employment of the Luten Engineering company of which Engineer Walter W. Denman is the head, or as it has been put by one who examined into the situation: "The Luten company is Mr.

Denman, and Mr. Denman is the Luten company." It was at first thought that Mr. Luten, the inventor of the Luten patterns, of which so much has been said, was the head of the Luten Engineering company of Springfield, but it seems that Mr. Denman simply named his company after Mr. Luten, whom he refers to as the "whitest man who ever wore shoe leather."

Commissioner Carmichael did not beat about the bush in explaining why he should vote against the engagement of Mr. Denman. "I believe," said the colonel, "that when we have a bridge to build we ought to go to Boston and consult with the men who are recognized as the best bridge engineers in the country. I am not sat-

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

ENTERTAINING A GUEST

"I have asked a girl cousin to visit me next week," announced Marjorie. "She is used to much visiting in nice homes, so I am very much worried on how to prepare for her coming and how to entertain her." "Some very delicate obligations are involved when inviting a friend to partake of your home's hospitality," said Marie. "The hostess must see to it that there are writing materials in the friend's room, stamps excepted. She must consult with her guest concerning the acceptance of any invitations to other homes. When callers come the guest must be asked to go down in the drawing room as a matter of course. The visiting friend must be included in every visit to other friends. At all times and in all places the moral attitude of the hostess must be one of complete confidence and generosity. The Persian saying: 'My house, my heart and my friends are yours' is the proper sentiment to display toward a person one has invited to stay under one's roof. The very spirit of hospitality precludes any of the little tyrannies, the sense of power gives to a small nature. "But the guest must also look to her own bearing. It is inconsiderate of her to receive any friend without letting her hostess understand that the visitor calls upon her as well. It is indelicate and stupid of her to monopolize the telephone and when there is a proposal for the matinee or concert. It would be both kind and proper for her to suggest paying sometimes for the seats. But of course in the case of small amusements and such trifling expenses as carfare, it is the hostess who pays. "The good hostess neglects no guest in favor of another and the good guest is very careful in all matters of her own behavior, helping out all the dragging moments with pleasant talk and staving forever for the bashful and bowed in a more comfortable frame of mind. The guest must not make any breaks in presuming too much, but if she does politeness does not permit the hostess to snub her even with a look. "So here is the situation in brief: If you are the hostess you must give all that is yours to the guest, and if you are guest you must only take as much of these good things as it is decent to take. Indeed your coming situation calls for a sound heart and head rather than any little politenesses of convention. "If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun 'Want' column."

HAPPY WEDDING

Lawyer Frank Goldman
Married to Rose L.
Sydeman

One of the most brilliant weddings seen in this city for a long time was that of Mr. Frank Goldman, the well known young attorney of The Sun building, and Miss Rose L. Sydeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Sydeman, 109 Liberty street, who were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents at 6 p. m. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Elias Wolfson in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the popular young couple, and the guests at the home and the wedding reception that followed included some of the most prominent people of Lowell's professional, business and social life, distinguished visitors from out-of-town and classmates of the bride from Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

The home of the bride's parents had been transformed for the occasion into a bower of summery greenery. Ropes of laurel festooned the doors and gave a festive touch to the various rooms. The marriage took place under a great canopy of palms, through which could be caught glimpses of brilliant cut flowers. As the bride party entered, Elton's full orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and appropriate music was played softly through the impressive ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of ivory duchesse satin, trimmed with real lace and pearls and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Stella M. Sydeman, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of embroidered cream net and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Miss Bertha Doorsteijn

WITH SUIT OR OVERCOAT ORDER, ON FOURTEEN STYLES OF WORSTED SUITINGS WITH WHICH I FIND MYSELF OVERSTOCKED.

Many men are inclined to think at my prices, the goods I sell must be inferior in quality. That this belief is unfounded and unwarranted can be easily proved by investigation. The varied nature of my trade—mechanics, business men, brokers, lawyers and doctors—coming to me year after year. Ninety per cent. of my business is with old customers, that is nine men out of every ten who trade with me are men who have traded with me before—men who know just what they are going to receive in the way of cloth, tailoring, trimmings and fittings.

Long dealings with the average man never fail to prove that the average man only wants a fair run for his money. It is another thing, however, to convince the average man that he ought to give you a chance to prove that you will give him the fair run he demands.

Mr. Reader, you are an average man. When I tell you 90 per cent. of my trade is with men who have bought from me before, is it not pretty good betting that if you trade with me once and you are satisfied, you will also come back to me again?

I have the goods and I have them at your price. I have the cutting talent and I can afford the price of cutting talent. I have the organization and the business to keep up that organization. I have everything at stake to give you a big run for the money and I have the desire to give you a big run as well as the ability.

Drop in my store today or tomorrow and let me show you at low prices even better material than you are wearing that cost you big money. Let me show you my workshop, my organization, garments being made, some ready for first try, others ready for the pressman, and hundreds of finished garments waiting for the owner to call for them, and for FRIDAY AND SATURDAY I will give you a pair of FREE PANTS with Suit order in any of these special numbers.

Tomorrow will be given over to religious observances and on Sunday there will be a joint opening session of all the conventions. The various bodies will hold separate meetings on the succeeding days. A mass meeting Sunday evening and a banquet Monday evening will be open to the public.

PARISIAN SAGE

If you value the appearance of your hair you should treat your scalp as often and well as you brush your teeth and rub into the scalp pores twice daily a little Parisian Sage. This treatment is not a mere "hair tonic." It is bottled nourishment for the hair roots and it is simply wonderful what an improvement its use for even a week will make in the appearance of anyone's hair. It never injures, is delightfully cool and pleasant to the scalp and takes out the dull, lifeless look in the hair, making it soft, fluffy, glossy and beautiful. Two or three applications remove every trace of dandruff, and daily use will prevent its return. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

The principal convention is that of the Federation of American Zionists, representing all the American Zionist organizations. In the call for the convention Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the federation, said:

"This convention will be the most important annual conference ever held by American Zionists. Zionism in Europe has been seriously affected by the war. Our comrades are unable to bear their portion of the burden of Zionist work. We must assume the extraordinary responsibilities thrust upon us. To meet the new problems that have arisen and our larger obligations, unusual sacrifices will be demanded of us."

Among those expected to address the various meetings are Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, Dr. Schmarda Levin, Nathan Straus and Dr. Meyer Berlin, all of New York, and Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago.

PATROLMAN M'MANMON SHOT AT BY PRISONER

Assailant a Youth From Somersworth, N. H.—Held in $5000 for Attempt to Murder Patrolman

Charged with an attempt to murder Officer McManmon, Avilla Baron, hailing from Somersworth, N. H., was sent to jail in default of $5000 bail for his appearance next Tuesday.

Patrolman Peter P. McManmon, who watches in the early morning in the vicinity of Merrimack square, had a miraculous escape from death early this morning when an 18-year-old lad, whom he was arresting for alleged larceny, fired three shots at him from a .32 calibre revolver directly in front of the main entrance to the police station. The policeman was not seriously injured and after a struggle succeeded in forcing the gun from his assailant, who was later hooked up Avilla Baron of Somersworth, N. H., and charged with assault with intent to kill a police officer.

The first bullet fired pierced the officer's trousers, the second went into the third, grazing his left cheek, and the third grazed the skin and leaving marks of the powder. As the officer and prisoner were grappling at the time of the shooting, the patrolman was quite fortunate in not being killed or seriously injured.

The shooting occurred about 1 o'clock, following a chase through Central and Middlesex streets. About 12:30 o'clock Patrolman McManmon saw a young man driving a suspicious looking horse and buggy through Merrimack square, coming from the direction of Centralville. The horse was a spirited looking animal but the harness and buggy were dilapidated and attracted the officer's attention.

Though the driver was proceeding at a fairly good speed, Patrolman McManmon rushed into the street and ordered him to halt. Instead the boy whipped up his horse and disappeared through Prescott street and started up Central at a record breaking clip. William Forsythe, a chauffeur for the French Auto service, happened to be in the square at the time and he volunteered the use of his machine to assist in apprehending the driver of the mysterious buggy.

The fugitive made good headway and was not overtaken until he had passed the Middlesex street grade crossing. At that spot, Mr. Forsythe swung his car in front of the horse which stopped immediately. The young man was not able to answer questions in a way that satisfied the policeman and the latter took a seat beside him in the buggy and started for the station. The journey as far as the entrance to the station was without any special incident but when Patrolman McManmon leaned to one side of the wagon to ascertain that he was stopping directly in front of the stone steps, the boy made a mysterious move and put his hand under the seat. Becoming suspicious, the officer turned quickly and grabbed the prisoner by the wrist but hardly had he done so when he heard the crack of a revolver and felt a bullet piercing through his trousers leg. He got a flimsy hold of his assailant's arm but another shot was fired in front of his throat and as the officer was about to wrench the gun from the lad's hands a third shot grazed the side of his left cheek. The prisoner was then overpowered and Capt. Thomas R. Atkinson rushed from the station and assisted in bringing him inside.

Although but 18 years of age, young Baron is quite tall and wiry. He said he had been woodchopping at Somersworth, N. H., but refused to give any information about his team. Patrolman McManmon returned to his beat and patrolled until roll call this morning.

port of The Sun yesterday said the matter of establishing voting precincts in the town was taken up at the 1914 town meeting and at that time it was voted to establish them. However, there was no appropriation voted and at the last meeting the matter slipped by again. It is said at the present time the residents of the various parts of the town have to go to the Centre village to cast their vote and this means a loss of time and expense. About installing telephones this party said in a case of emergency a police officer of the town cannot be reached without a search. These men do not receive wages high enough to permit them to have telephones installed at their expense and it is about time the town provided its officers with telephones.

CONDITIONS AT LEMBERG

PROMINENT FAMILIES REDUCED TO BEGGING UNDER RUSSIAN REGIME

BERLIN, via London, June 25, 12:10 p. m.—The Berlin Tageblatt has received a despatch from its correspondent at Lemberg descriptive of the situation in that city which reads as follows:

"Reviewing the nine months' rule of the Russians in Lemberg it is found that among the chief sufferers in the Galician capital were former government officials whose salaries could no longer be paid. Prominent families were reduced to begging in the streets and compelled to satisfy their hunger in the kitchens of other people. Well known men of Lemberg, chopped and peddled bread and cakes around the city.

"The prices of food reached exorbitant figures. Butter cost six crowns per kilogram (equivalent to 55 cents a pound).

"In the schools were permitted to stay open only with the express consent of the military governor. At least five hours every week had to be devoted to the study of the Russian language. Only text books approved for use in Russian schools were permitted in Lemberg. The Russian calendar was introduced.

"All men of military age were taken into custody by the Russian authorities as also were all seasoned Austrian and Hungarian officers.

"The Russian municipal officials began leaving the city the latter part of May, and all had disappeared before Lemberg fell. Emperor Nicholas had one visit to the Galician capital while it was under Russian control. Ruthenian books were destroyed by the Russian authorities and the exchange of telegrams and letters in the Ruthenian language was prohibited.

GLAD IN ROBES OF NUN

WOMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF OBTAINING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETEXTS

BOSTON, June 25.—A woman 64 years old, clad in the robes of a Sister of Charity, and claiming to be Sister Mary Frances, was arrested early last evening by Sergt. O'Donnell and Patrolmen Ferrari and Brennan of the Hanover street police station, charged with larceny and taken to police headquarters. In a large black leather bag which she carried was found an order for building materials made out in the name of Adeline Charpentier of 24 Winter street, Laconia, N. Y. On her person was found a sum of money in silver and bills, which she had collected in North End cafes.

The arrest was brought about through notice given in a Catholic paper last week by Cardinal O'Connell to the effect that a woman, claiming to be a nun was going about the city collecting money for an orphanage in So. Carolina, claiming to have the authority of Bishop Northup of South Carolina. The latter had notified Cardinal O'Connell that the orphanage named has been closed for several years.

While the woman was being questioned at headquarters, the police tried to establish her identity by communicating with the authorities at the cathedral, but without success. During the questioning in Pemberton square the prisoner was given opportunity to prove her right to wear the robes of a Sister of Charity. She refused to make any statement, whatever, besides saying that she had been connected with the order 25 years and that the money found on her had been collected in the North End to pay her way to Montreal. She claimed to have come from New York last week, but the police say she has been longer in this city.

Regarding the name of Adeline Charpentier, the prisoner stated that the woman was her sister. Later, however, she changed this story.

The prisoner was taken to the city prison and arraigned in the municipal court today.

NEW NOTE TO ENGLAND

SUFFICIENT FACTS HAVE NOT YET BEEN GATHERED BY STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Sufficient facts on detention and seizure of American ships and cargoes by the British fleet have not yet been gathered by the state department to complete the new note to Great Britain which has been under preparation several weeks.

Secretary Lansing disclosed today that the portion of the note dealing with the principles of the so-called blockade had long ago been outlined, but that officials had been absorbed in getting data on American ships and goods detained or seized. He intimated that the note in its final form would be a presentation of the academic principles involved in the blockade as well as British practice under the order in council.

The British memorandum, reviewing the efforts to minimize inconvenience to neutrals, will be acknowledged in the new note, and some of its points will be discussed, although it is recognized here that the memorandum was not intended as a reply to the American protest against the principles of the order-in-council which Great Britain has not answered.

REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSSES AT THREE POINTS ON DNIESTER RIVER, SAYS RUSSIAN REPORT

PETROGRAD, via London, June 25, 6 a. m.—Austro-German forces were repulsed with heavy losses at three points on the Dniester river by the Russians, according to an official statement under date of June 23, given out today at the headquarters of the general staff. In the Kosmyjline district, the Russians carried by assault a strongly fortified height, "Enormous" losses are said to have been inflicted upon the Germans in the Kosmyjline region.

Referring to operations near Lemberg the statement asserts that Russian counter-attacks were successful. The text of the communication follows:

"There has been no important changes on the Vindava and Dubysa rivers.

"On the front of the Narew and Vistula there have been only small outpost affairs.

"Calm has prevailed on the Taney front.

"In the direction of Zolkiew and Lvov, (Lemberg) the evening of the 22nd and the whole of the 23rd were occupied by the enemy in attempts to renew their ulterior offensive, seeking with particular obstinacy to advance in the direction of the villages of Czifkoff and Dimitrovitz, along the railroad between Lvov and Brzezany. Nevertheless, thanks to our troops' energetic counter-attacks, these attempts failed.

SYMPATHY FOR ALLIES

PARIS, June 25, 8:55 a. m.—A Havas despatch from Lisbon says: "The ministerial declaration read in the chamber yesterday afternoon renews manifestations of sympathy for the allies, discloses the governmental decision to present to parliament documents which throw light on the attitude assumed by Portugal in relation to the European war, and in conclusion affirms the country's reason to seek revenge for damage suffered in Africa."

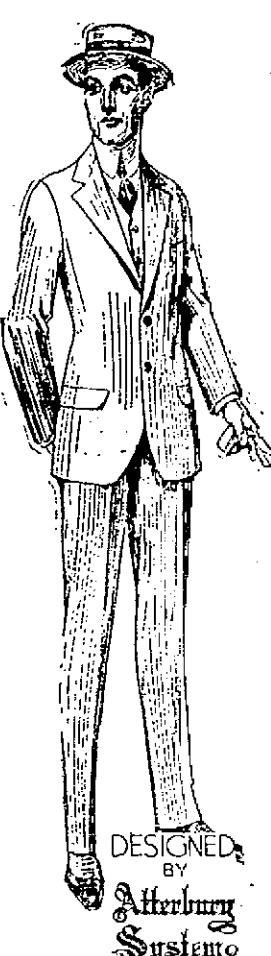

"After the reading of the declaration, Alexandre Braga, leader of the democrats, promised the government the support of his party.

"Antonio Almeida, head of the revolutionists, declared he would fight the new government and would attempt to obtain justice for Pimenta Castro, the former premier. Senhor Almeida's assertion aroused a great demonstration in the galleries reserved for the public. The session of the chamber was suspended while he left the room followed by his friends."

AS PEACE AGENT

House Says President the Man Most Likely to Restore Peace

NEW YORK, June 25.—President Wilson is considered by Col. E. M. House as the man most likely to restore peace to the world. As the president was playing golf at the Piping Rock club on Long Island this afternoon, Col. House, who was sitting on the porch of the clubhouse, turned to a friend and pointed out to the president, saying that there was the man likely to bring about peace.

Col. House told friends that the president knew far more about the European situation than he did, and was handling the problems growing out of the war in a highly intelligent manner and as well as any man could handle them. He is understood to have said that the president displayed remarkable knowledge of the European situation during their long talk.

Col. House informed the president that no peace moves were being carried on in Europe at present. He related this information from officials of the country at war.

In the golf game the president was victorious over Gordon Auchincloss, son-in-law of Col. House. The president was in good form. He made the first hole in five strokes, or one over par. The first drive went 160 feet and cleared a troublesome bunker. Bobbie Boyd, the best caddy at the club, was chosen to accompany the president. "He's a pretty good player," said Bobbie.

A number of well known people, including Gouverneur Morris, the writer, were on the links at the same time as the president and his party.

Just before leaving for the club, the president consented to pose for a small army of New York photographers. With Col. House he sat in a small summer house overlooking upper Hempstead bay, while photographers snapped at him.

Col. House plans to leave here Sunday for Beverly, Mass., but said that he did not expect to go to Cornish to see the president again.

A moonlight lawn party was held last evening at the home of Nelson C. Hill, 510 Varnum avenue, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Unitarian Congregational church. The lawn was prettily decorated and lighted with Japanese lanterns. The amusements and pleasures of the evening included automobile rides up Varnum avenue which were well patronized. There was a good sale for ice cream, candy and soft drinks and in an oriental tent was seated a pianist who and games were played. In the evening a canvas was stretched across the street and selections were played on a Victrola to illustrate the views thrown on the canvas by a reflectoscope.

Mrs. W. E. Hatch entertained members of her Sunday school at her home in Loring street yesterday afternoon and evening. A short business meeting was held in the afternoon at which Mrs. Evans was elected president for the ensuing year. A basket luncheon was served on the lawn and games were played. In the evening a canvas was stretched across the street and selections were played on a Victrola to illustrate the views thrown on the canvas by a reflectoscope.

atorium for consumptives, where he found that there were many more first-born than there should be, if tuberculosis selected its victims at random. On the other hand, the later-born children were fewer in number than was expected. Since then he has applied elaborate statistical analysis to data of many kinds. He finds that first-born children show the highest percentage of still-births, and are most delicate during childhood. Further, they weigh less and are shorter at birth than are later-born children.

Study of the inmates of homes for the feeble-minded and insane asylums shows him that first-born children are there in disproportionate numbers. Criminology appears also to be a prerogative of the eldest members of the family. Statistics of English prisons revealed 717 first-born, where calculation led him to expect only 557. Epilepsy, albinism and congenital catafract are likewise studied, and in each case an abnormally large number of the affected persons are found to be first-born.

This inferiority, as brought to light in statistics, is partly due to the fact that many weak parents die after having only a single child. Such a child, of course, counts as a first-born, and naturally inherits some of the weakness of his parents; but his inferiority is due rather to the bad stock than to the fact that he is first-born.

But aside from this, Prof. Pearson holds that the first-born are, on the whole, actually handicapped. This may be partly due to the youth of their parents, and partly to physiological conditions in the mother. Believing that the eldest children are thus handicapped, Prof. Pearson sees great danger to the race in the present tendency to make families consist of two children. In a normal family of about five, the first-born only make up one-fifth of the population, and their inferiority is swamped. But in many cases of society nowadays, the number of offspring is limited to two. Prof. J. McKen Cattell of Columbia university, has shown this to be particularly true of American men of science.

Under these circumstances, the first-born make up half, instead of one-fifth of the population, and their inferiority must necessarily be a much more serious menace to the efficiency of the race. In the interests of the race, therefore, Prof. Pearson declares that parents of eugenically superior stock ought, if possible, to rear a family of five or more children.

FIRST BORN'S INFERIOR

PROF. PEARSON SAYS AVERAGE LOWER MENTALLY, MORALLY AND PHYSICALLY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—First-born children are on the average inferior physically, mentally and morally to the brothers and sisters who follow them. Such is the conclusion of Prof. Karl Pearson of the University of London. His statistics, covering many thousands of cases, are published in the July number of the Journal of Heredity, organ of the American Genetic association of this city.

Prof. Pearson made his discovery when studying the population of a san-

Western University Wants Former Secretary as Political Economy Professor

CHICAGO, June 25.—William J. Bryan has been offered the chair of political economy in a mid-Western university, according to a story printed in the Evening Post yesterday.

H. H. Harrison, president of a teachers' league with offices in Chicago, is given as authority for the story. Mr. Bryan would be required to live in the university city and devote a reasonable part of his time to his college duties.

Mr. Harrison declined to name the university. The Post says that the University of Indiana is strongly suggested as the school in question.

COUNTRY WEEK

The managers of "Country Week" are planning to do more work than ever before. As is well understood, the work is non-sectarian. The object is to give a vacation in the country to any worthy person, man, woman or child, who would otherwise be unable to take a respite from toil. Notices have been sent out, making an appeal for contributions and it is especially urged that those receiving them will give them careful consideration and that the response to the appeal may be prompt, as the children will be sent out into the country on the 7th of July and we are expecting a great many applications and will need all the money that it is possible to raise. Contributions, large or small, should be sent to the treasurer, Mr. J. S. Hunnewell, 50 Central street. Those who know of any worthy persons to whom "Country Week" privileges would be a benefit may communicate with Mrs. Harriet W. Sturtevant, 34 Nesmith street.

INHERITED NERVOUSNESS

The causes of nervous disorders are of two kinds, predisposing and exciting. Heredity is a predisposing cause. A nervous parent is very liable to have a nervous child. But even with this predisposition the child will not necessarily develop any form of nervous disease without an exciting cause. It may not develop during childhood at all but throughout life a person with an inherited predisposition to nervousness is an easier victim of all forms of nervous disorders than one without it.

Worry, overwork, overstudy and excesses of all kinds are exciting causes and should be avoided by those who know themselves to have inherited a nervous disposition. Thin blood and a general run-down condition of the system are also to be avoided by such people. Be moderate in everything, avoid worry, keep the blood rich and red and the general health built up with a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and avoid a nervous breakdown.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a general tonic with a special action on the nerves and relieve and correct many forms of nervous trouble. Your own druggist sells them. Write today to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet, "Nervous Disorders, A Method of Home Treatment."

CREWS ARE UNSELFISH

ATHLETES AND RECEIVE FAR LESS GLORY

"A college oarsman touches the heights of unselfishness," someone once remarked. "He is cursed for six months, by the coach, he works like a Trojan during every spare moment during those six months, is cheered by the crowd for 20 minutes and then is forgotten forever."

How true it is above. College football gladiators, track and field athletes and diamond stars have their names written large in the college hall of fame. Their names are lauded in song and story. Their pictures peer out from every newspaper in the country and their prowess is heralded from one end of the land to the other.

But who ever heard of a college oarsman being dragged into the focus of the sporting spotlight so that the public could lionize him a bit for what he has done.

The chances are about 100 to 1 that you never heard of a chap named C. C. Lund of Boston, other than to hear him mentioned as a member of the Harvard varsity crew. Yet Lund has brought as much fame to Harvard on the water as Charles Brinkley ever brought through his football skill.

Lund is the chap who has stroked Harvard to nine aquatic victories in a row. He smashed all precedents last year when he stroked the second Harvard crew to three victories in the big Henley regatta. He was the first time that an American crew ever captured the historic eight-oared race, yet Lund's achievement hardly was mentioned in any of the papers.

Lund was at stroke when the second Harvard team beat the Annapolis variety and Yale juniors in the two 1914 regattas. Harvard, with Lund at stroke, won two races in the 1914 American Henley at Philadelphia. It was Lund who stroked Harvard to victory this year over the navy crew at Annapolis and Cornell crew at Ithaca, N. Y., on May 22.

For the best reason, Lund is not mentioned in the papers. It can be explained that the stroke oarsman on a crew is the chap who sets the pace.

He is the man who must not falter; the man with the iron nerve and the iron will. He is the man who must respond first to every call for higher stroking and it is upon his perfection of stroke that victory depends. A crew without a good stroke oarsman is like a football team with a blind quarterback, like a baseball team with a clumsy pitcher.

Columbia won the big Poughkeepsie variety race last June because its stroke oarsman, a little Irishman with a mighty arm and a stout heart, rose up like a Titan in that final heart-breaking half mile and by his marvelous generalship and his wonderful stroking enabled Columbia to maintain to the finish line the slight lead that it had over Pennsylvania.

It was the grit and the never-say-die spirit of that little Irishman that stiffened the backbones of his weary fellows; that filled them with a new fighting spirit. The little Irishman pushed that Columbia stroke well above the 16 notch during the last half mile, although weary and tired almost to the point of exhaustion, his fellows followed him—and Columbia won.

It's a safe bet that today there aren't 100 persons of the 75,000 who saw Columbia win that race that can recall that little Irishman's name. And we daresay that there aren't 50 of Columbia's immense alumni that can recall the name of the chap who stroked a Columbia crew to victory in 1914 for the first time in something like 30 years.

The name of that little Irishman was McCarthy.

Two chaps nearly gave their lives for the sake of Yale in 1912. They rowed in the boat that was beaten so decisively by Harvard. Those chaps stuck to their oars until the finish line was crossed and then they collapsed in their seats. Their magnificent young strength had been broken by that terrific four mile race. The agony they suffered during the last two miles nearly reached the crest of human endurance. Yet they suffered and stuck to their posts with a stoicism that even the Spartans couldn't expect.

And for this they got a brief sympathetic mention in the papers the next day—and since have been forgotten.

There are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States today who can tell you the name of every man who played on the 1914 Yale and Harvard eleven, but we daresay that there aren't a thousand who can tell you, offhand, the names of even half of the men who rowed in the 1914 Yale and Harvard variety races.

And the pity of it is that those oarsmen work harder and suffer more than the footballers, the baseballers and the trackmen put together.

"Cheered for 20 minutes and then forgotten forever."

TRADING OF ARCHER-GREATEST RAINY DAY BASEBALL YARN EVER CONCEIVED

CHICAGO, June 25.—An amusing

baseball yarn, conceived in the fertile brain of some enterprising baseball "expert," recently startled the baseball world and caused the officials of the Chicago Cubs no little annoyance. This little story had for its theme the trading of one James Archer, backstop extraordinaire of the Windy City brigade, for Jack Murray, Ed Brainerd and another player of the New York Giants. Incidentally the Cubs were to throw in Pitcher Larry Cheney to assure McGraw of at least an even break on the deal. It is said that when approached on the subject Johnny McGraw burst into loud guffaws. If McGraw could put such a deal through he would be hailed as the most wonderful manager that baseball has ever known and Roger Bresnahan the easiest. The man who "engineered" the deal evidently overlooked the fact that Archer is the ranking catcher of the National league and is a very potent factor in the success of the Chicago club, while the men who were to be given to the Cubs for Archer's services are either war worn veterans or unskilled youngsters. While no doubt the balance of the league deprecates the poor condition of the 1915 Giants and would, no doubt, strain a point to aid the team, it is ridiculous to assume that any team would deliberately throw away its pennant chances to help the New York team cop the flag, which would be the case if the "experts" deal went through. Roger Bresnahan wouldn't sell Archer for all the money in the league.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

These two decisions which occasioned the greatest amount of criticism yesterday looked all right from the press box. Fahey left third in the first inning, a trifling error. Briggs caught Dea's fly to left. If the blow had been to any other portion of the outfield the umpire could not have detected the differences in the time when the ball was caught, and when Fahey scooted toward the plate. It also looked as though Ahearn had the ball on Fish before he reached the plate in the eighth.

Fish was certainly "there" in the pinch when he was sent in to drive a run across and tie up the score. It was good judgment on the part of Manager Kiernan to send Fish to the plate for Reid did not swing his stick with any degree of certainty and had struck out on his previous appearance.

Torphy played a good game in the field and Dea accepted several rather hard chances. Kilhullen's pegging to the bases was very good although he did leave the bases into center field on one occasion thereby allowing Greenhalge an uninterrupted swipe of second.

Greenhalge hasn't had a chance in the outfield yet. Snubber is right there with his warble though, in every epicure. He is the same old reliable bit of old and opposing pitchers experience a qualm whenever he steps up to the plate.

Pretty soft for the White Sox, winning five games in three days from the Cleveland.

It is reported that Bert Maxwell's arm has played out and that the bone is in such condition that the Brooklyn Fed pitcher is done.

Only one ball was used in Wednesday's Giant-Phillie game up to the eleventh inning. A foul was raised into the stand in the seventh and was the first time the ball had been knocked out of the playing field.

George Witte, for many years a star southpaw of the Giants, resigned from the management of the Jersey City International league club Wednesday. Joe Yeager was appointed temporary leader of the club.

Witte stated that his resignation was voluntary. He felt keenly the fact that his club had proved such a disappointment in the race to date. Witte effected a satisfactory settlement with the owners of the International league club. He is now free to dispose of his services wherever they may be demanded.

Witte has no immediate prospect of occupation in his chosen profession. He had a talk with Fiddler Jones, who is not believed, however, that the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals could make room for Witte. Jones has two fine southpaws, Eddie Plank and Yarnall. Both have shown winning consistency. Lee Magee's pitching staff is pretty well shodded at the present time and it is possible that George will receive a trial with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I do not believe I am through as a pitcher," said Witte. "It has taken me longer than I expected to get into shape this year on account of the bad weather, but now my arm is beginning to feel right again and I think I would be able to deliver a victory a week in almost any company."

Friends of Witte are hopeful that Manager Bill Donovan of the Yankees may be able to employ the veteran southpaw. They argue that Witte would be invaluable to Donovan as a pitcher for batting practice, even if he were unable to do heavy work in the scheduled games. The Yankees have only one left handed pitcher, Ensign Cottrell, whose principal usefulness with the club so far had been practice pitching. Cottrell has kept Bill's left handed hitters in such good practice that opposing southpaws have found them hard to down.

Witte might prove of service to Donovan, remarked Ed Barrow. "He is not an old man by any means, and always has taken the best of care of himself. Certainly on account of his experience he should be able to get by with a game every week or so. He would be better for batting practice than most young fellows."

It is said that Joe Maguire is not likely to remain long in charge of the Skeeters unless he should happen to effect a miracle with the trailers. The new owners of the trailers have been negotiating with a well known minor league manager. They refuse, however, to disclose his name until he has returned a definite answer to their offer.

Manager Lee Magee of the Tip Tops has suspended Pitcher Tom Seaton for five days. He alleges that Seaton had not taken the best care of himself. Seaton declares he will not allow the Brooklyn club to deduct salary during his suspension. He is looking for a former star of the Phillies is much chagrined with the mode of discipline. It was said that Seaton had threatened to leave the club.

Maguire, however, is confident that he can bring Seaton to time for his shortcoming, because of the fact that Tom will have to behave or quit the club. He could not return to organized baseball. From his recent performances there is reason to believe that Seaton has not been fair with his employers. His work the last several weeks has been very poor. He seems to have degenerated from one of the greatest pitchers of the outlaws to one of the poorest.

Manager Magee disposed of infielder Fredrick to the Chicago Cubs. The boss of the Tip Tops intimates that he is prepared for a general shakeup unless the team pulls itself together.

President James A. Gilmore of the Federal league, declares that he will include Boston and Manhattan in his circuit in 1916. This announcement no doubt will not be received with cheers in the cities of the western section of the circuit, but Fighting Jim doesn't care a rap for the feelings of the cities. He has the gumption to show that it appreciates our baseball.

"I intend to throw out of the Federal league the bums and inerts," Gilmore continued. "I do not care what sort of a contract a player may hold; he will have to observe conscientiously his moral obligations to his employers or get out. That goes for those who hold old-fashioned ironclad contracts. I shall insist upon wholesale loyalty and effort. In justice to my colleagues, I am determined to protect them and the game as well."

MANCHESTER WINS FAST 2-1 GAME

Visitors Were Luckier and Could Run Bases Better Than Locals

Houser and King Pitch
Very Good Ball—
Both Wild at Times

After holding the lead for seven innings by scoring a lone tally in the first round of yesterday's game at Snelling Park, Lowell, went down to defeat when Manchester tied up the score in the eighth and then put over the winner counter in the tenth.

Score: 2-1.

It was a pitchers' battle between Houser and King with the latter in the lead. Lowell's King, who had got the tough breaks in the game and was forced to accept the same sort of baseball luck that has followed the club all season.

Of course the base running of the local club was not what we would like to have it. Of the nine base runners who died in the game and three should never have been caught and with better than ordinary base running four of the nine would have been safe.

Houser struck out eleven Manchester batters during the ten innings but was wild at times as was King also. All things considered both southpaws pitched fine ball.

In the first session Swayne opened with a small fly to center which netted him one base and the swift footed outfielder stole second. Kilhullen was completely crooked on Swayne's steal as he was looking for Fahey to sacrifice. The latter finally did lay down a bunt and beat out the throw. King Greenhalge, cf., passed Barrows, choosing the stopping spots.

After Bowcock fouled to Kilhullen King suffered another spasm of wildness and walked Greenhalge and the first run of the game was forced across. That run loomed large up to the eighth inning.

Not a semblance of a hit was gotten off Houser until two men had fallen down in the eighth. Then he seemed to get a little better. Fish, who was pinch hitting for Fred, drove out a double down the left field foul lines scoring the hit batsman and Fish came back to scoring himself when Briggs singled to center. Aubrey called him out at the plate, however, in spite of a long winded protest by Manager Kiernan and his players.

As not a run could be squeezed over in the ninth inning the game went into extra session. Only one of those was needed, however, which proved to be a scratch hit. Houser belted it and made the play at third but to no purpose.

Fahey's ball throw to Ahearn on Kane's grounder allowed Kilhullen to score the winning run.

Lowell looked dangerous in the latter part of the tenth but two singles were sacrificed by poor base running. The score:

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Middleman," based on Henry
Arthur Jones' great play of the same
name, was presented twice yesterday at the B. F. Keith's theatre, and proved most satisfying. Albert Chevalier, the most satisfying English character artist, and noted English actor, and Jane Gail, an attractive young actress,
hold the principal roles, those of the pottery worker and his daughter. It is a play which makes a most direct appeal to the heart. "Cyrus Blenkarn,
the aged potter, suddenly sees his formless stolen, and his daughter ruined by the son of the owner of the plant. Meek and mild of nature, the old man is transformed through hatred and a desire for revenge. But the drama shows him subsiding in his hatred,
and, in the end, all turns out for the best. It is a photo-play with scarcely an equal, in that it conveys a lesson in a powerful, albeit a perfectly legiti-mate manner. In addition are several shorter pictures, including "The Neighborhood Pest," and the Edison educational picture, "The Manufacture of
week Annette Kellermann in "Nep-

"THE MIDDLEMAN,"
America's Most Beloved Drama, with Albert Chevalier and All Star Cast, at B. F. Keith's Today and Tomorrow.

tune's Daughter," will be presented.

JEWEL THEATRE

Did you know that Col. W. F. Cody,
the famous "Buffalo Bill," was a producer? He is, for the Universal company. His first production, "A Great Girl's Romance," will be shown today
and tomorrow at the Jewel theatre
alongside of many other new and interesting plays. Marie Walcamp and
Mr. Player are featured in this circus play. Charles Chaplin, the idol of the kiddies, is also booked to appear. "A Modern Enchanted Arden," a three-part production is the real feature on the program, however, and will tell a story that will be shown every week from start to finish. "Mr. Little Fox-er" and "When Her Idol Fell" are
two comedies also to be shown in connection with other dramas and comedies. It is high time you should take
in a Jewel performance—they're always great!

ROYAL THEATRE

And still they come. The serial is very popular in Lowell. Among the many shown none have made a better
impression than "The Exploits of Elaine," which were shown exclusively at the Royal theatre. "The Romance of Elaine" the sequel to all the past exploits, will be shown every week
in two reel installments for the next fifteen weeks. The stars are Pearl
White, Lionel Barrymore, Creighton
Hale and the mysterious Mr. X. Who is X? That's the big mystery of the series, and it will prove a big one
when the whole story is unfolded.
Scenarios have been written by Chas.
W. Goddard, and that alone insures many wonderful stories indeed. The first episode called "The Lost Torpedo" will be shown at the Royal theatre Friday and Saturday. Besides this,
"The Quarry" a three-part serial play will be shown at the Royal theatre alongside of the big feature, and all showing this famous serial, and that fact alone should crowd the house every Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening when it is shown.
With "The Goddess" on Wednesdays and Thursdays, and "The Romance of Elaine" on Fridays and Saturdays the Royal management is in a position
that would create envy among any exhibitor, for these two serials are easily the best of the season. And they will be shown besides a big feature,
and a regular five-reel performance.
Remember the days "The Romance"
decade.

STANLEY'S-ON-THE-MERRIMACK

Dancing—one of the most popular of summer pastimes—is enjoyed at Stanley's-on-the-Merrimack by more Lowell people than at any of the other nearby pleasure spots. The reason for it is that this delightful resort, lo-

beautiful of electric car rides in the state, provides more attractive features than the others. Try it once and
be convinced. The largest and best

the Boston opera singers will present the solo girls from the Boston
opera ballet in an entirely new repertoire of dances associated with grand opera. The ladies presenting these dancing numbers are adepts in the terpichorean art.
In forming the ballet in the large opera houses, this country, as well as European centres, are carefully
searched for the best available talent.
No mediocre dancers will suffice for the taxing work of the ballet; in the sequence some of the world's best, most beautiful and graceful women are associated with the Metropolitan and Boston opera companies. The dancers
with the opera singers have been carefully selected from the Boston opera

ballet and audiences wherever they have appeared have been delighted with the work of these dainty young ladies who "talk with their feet."
Next Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock the theatre will be open and
a free musical program will be rendered by the Haverhill military band
of 25 pieces. The band concerts have always proven big drawing cards at

TRUTH ABOUT THE WAR

London Times Admits German Successes Everywhere — Demands People be Told the Truth

LONDON, June 24. 4.55 a. m.—A demand that the nation be "told the truth about the war" is voiced by the Times in an editorial. The paper declares there is no immediate prospect of being able to compel the Germans to withdraw within their own frontiers and that it will take months to provide the British forces with the big guns, high explosives and machine guns, that are necessary.

"The country has got to set its teeth," says the Times, "disregard confusing bulletins and face the probability of a prolonged and unprogressive campaign in the west, while General Maekensen's successful march probably has postponed a resumption of the Russian offensive for several months, until they also are provided with guns and shells.

"To put it briefly, the allies on both fronts are being held with no prospect of an early change. Moreover, the outlook in the Danubian theater, which the less said the better, long ago ceased to offer prospects of a swift and easy diversion in the middle east."

Heated Debate

MARION, June 25.—The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs today adopted a resolution endorsing woman's suffrage by a vote of 203 to 99. The debate occupied nearly three hours and was at times bitter, several anti-suffragists hinting that the organization would be disrupted if the political issue of suffrage was made the subject of action by the federation.

CHARMING LAWN FETE

With Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
LL. D., as Speaker, Held by St.
Margaret's Parish Last Night

An exquisitely attractive event in the open was the annual lawn fete of the members of St. Margaret's parish held at the Kasino, yesterday afternoon and evening, with a record-breaking crowd in attendance. Practically every family in the parish was represented while there were non-residents to the number of over 500. During the afternoon a special program was given for the children and a throng of little ones made merry in and about the dance hall until evening when they gave way to their elders.

The children of St. Peter's orphanage were the guests of Thomas J. O'Donnell in the afternoon and they had a merry time indeed. The occasion, in the evening, was made notable by the genial and magnetic presence of Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston and now an LL. D. from Notre Dame university. Dr. Fitzgerald, with that happy faculty that has made him famous wherever he has gone, made himself "right at home" with the highlanders and after making an informal address, led the grand march, escorting Miss Catherine V. Hennessy, at the head of a long line of charmingly costumed children.

The former mayor arrived shortly after 5 o'clock and the exercises were interrupted to permit him to speak in order that he might take a late train back to Boston. He was introduced in well chosen remarks by Former Mayor James B. Casey, one of St. Margaret's most active workers. In opening Dr. Fitzgerald told a few stories at the expense of the parish, the people in Massachusetts. Incidentally he quoted figures to show the immense amount of money saved to the cities and towns of the state by the parochial schools supported by the Catholic people. At the conclusion of his remarks the former mayor was requested to sing "Sweet Adeline" and he responded gracefully, and sang in good voice. In response to an encore he asked all to join in, and "The Lord of My Heart" received voluminous homage from a mighty chorus, in which several excellent voices were distinctly noticeable.

The principal part of the evening's program consisted of feature dances and a juvenile pageant entitled "Night Time in Fairy-Land," a charming terpsichorean novelty designed and directed by Miss Blanche Perrin, the well known dancing teacher, in which over 125 children participated, all bewitchingly gowned, and decidedly fairy-like in appearance. The pageant opened with the entrance of the "Queen of Night," impersonated in a captivating manner by Miss Dorothy McDermott. Then followed the solo and chorus dances of the fairies, all gracefully executed. Those who gave solo dances were Miss Evelyn Whitaker, Miss Kathleen Murphy, Miss Catherine Carey, Master John O'Neill, Miss Etzel Howard and others. The grand march made a gorgeous climax for the spectacle. The only couple in it, not directly connected with the pageant were Former Mayor Fitzgerald and Miss Hennessy, the latter charmingly gowned. The costumes of the little folks were most artistic, and it is doubtful if Miss Perrin ever presented a more pleasing attraction. After the march general dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the floor crowded at all times. Broderick's orchestra furnishing a most acceptable musical program. Those who didn't dance enjoyed a promenade of the spacious veranda of the Kasino. The refreshment booths and the candy wheel were liberally patronized, while the ice cream table did a land office business and was in charge of a lively committee headed by those two eminent parish hustlers, Mrs. Margaret Hennessy and Mrs. Margaret Bagshaw, both of whom worked untiringly until the very close of the event.

Among those who greatly enjoyed the affair were Rev. C. J. Galligan and Rev. H. C. Reardon of St. Margaret's and Rev. James Lyne of St. Michael's, a former curate of the parish.

Those who took part in the various features in the fairland were as follows:

VAHEY ON ARBITRATION

While one may understand and excuse the disappointment of Mr. Vahey at the outcome of the carmen's efforts for wage concessions, his opposition to the principle of arbitration is astonishing. In Massachusetts and in all parts of the country arbitration is being regarded more and more as the most satisfactory medium of settling labor disputes, and it has been the means of averting strikes that would have proved a national calamity. Arbitration as a means of industrial peace is now too well established to be endangered by the attacks of a man even as prominent as Mr. Vahey, but nevertheless such attacks are to be unreservedly condemned as tending to foment labor troubles and deal a blow at one of the greatest remedies for the equitable settlement of industrial disputes.

One year ago the country stood aghast at the prospect of a great strike on the eastern railroads, which, had it materialized, would have crippled business and caused widespread misery and depression. The railroad officials were unbending and the employees were not less so. The members of the various railroad unions were ready to a man to abide by the commands of their leaders, and for some anxious days it looked as though we should have one of the greatest strikes in the history of the country. In this crisis public opinion, backed by the federal government, advised arbitration, and at the eleventh hour arbitration was resorted to. In a few weeks the controversy was settled, and though there was some degree of dissatisfaction, the railroads soon got down to a normal basis. It was a great victory for arbitration.

A few days ago it looked as though New England would see a strike of considerable magnitude on the New Haven railroad. Eighteen hundred freight clerks felt that they had a grievance, and they were firm in the demand that it should be righted. Things seemed near breaking point when a federal conciliator succeeded in bringing about a conference between the railroad officials and representatives of the railway clerks' union. An agreement was speedily reached and all the points at issue amicably settled. Another victory has been scored for arbitration, and this at the time when Mr. Vahey was declaring that he would use his influence to have arbitration discarded as a medium of settling labor troubles.

In Massachusetts there is a properly constituted Board of Conciliation and Arbitration which has been of inestimable service in preventing labor dissensions and class friction. It is at all times ready and willing to intervene where labor troubles exist, and for the past three or four years it has prevented strikes that would have brought much hardship and perhaps little good. This board has not only actually settled many labor troubles satisfactorily but it has left nothing undone to educate the public as to the value of arbitration at times of industrial controversy. Moreover its services are given gratis. It seems too bad that any individual would now oppose a public body which has achieved so many good things and kept Massachusetts out of the Colorado class.

Arbitration is unquestionably the most just and satisfactory system of settling labor disputes, Mr. Vahey to the contrary. What is the usual outcome of a strike? Have we not seen many times that after weeks or possibly months of friction and stubborn resistance, both employer and employee will finally agree to have their differences arbitrated? The conferences by which strikes are generally settled are nothing but the exercise of arbitration, only in such a case it is used as a cure instead of a preventive. Would it not be better in every instance to have arbitration in the first place so that strikes would be unknown?

Suppose that all labor unions should take Mr. Vahey seriously and throw aside the principle of arbitration! What would be the result? Every time any group of employees in any industry had a grievance they would immediately strike. Instead of the prosperity and peace of our New England situation for the past few years, we should have perpetual strife and resultant suffering. The workers of Massachusetts are too sensible to make this choice. We venture to say that Mr. Vahey does not yet realize the seriousness of the advice he has given the carmen.

Undoubtedly the Bay State carmen are not quite satisfied, but they should not blame the principle of arbitration. They put up a stiff fight for concessions which they failed to receive, and they will have to pay high for the failure. Had they availed of the services of the state board the result might have been different. At any rate, the expense bills would not have been so high. Even though there is general dissatisfaction at the amount of the increase, the carmen would make a very grave error if they should follow the advice of those who so foolishly condemn a principle that the people of the entire country have learned to respect and to approve as the great conservator of industrial peace.

TO BRITISH WORKERS

England has seen the folly of letting her labor unions, consciously or unconsciously, play into the hands of Germany and now the issue is clearly drawn. Lloyd George has given British labor seven days in which to prove that it is with the government in reality and if the labor unions fail to come up to expectations and the promises of their leaders, the government will know the reason why. English organized labor has been a great power in the political life of that country for many years, but apparently the power has been misused of late, and the line has been drawn beyond which labor may not go with impunity.

For the next seven days every effort will be made by the English government and by the labor leaders to get men to the munition factories in sufficient numbers to supply a maximum amount of munitions of war. If the unions do not respond, the government will take a hand in the situation, and what the men refused to do voluntarily, they will have to do under compulsion. What is now merely indifference or lack of patriotism may then be made to look like treason. It goes without question that the English government would not contemplate this drastic step without knowing that it was backed by the support of the British masses. In seven days it will be seen if the unions view the question in the same light.

Under the terms of the new munitions bill introduced by Mr. Lloyd George, the English government will control the munition factories and the men who work there. Strikes and lockouts will be illegal, and nothing will be tolerated that would interfere with efficiency or endanger the chance of England's winning. Under its terms England and France hope to cope with Germany on equal or superior bases, in munitions of war, thus making the ultimate success of the allies a certainty. If British labor does not respond to the appeals of the government at this momentous crisis, the world will find it hard to understand the strange and unpatriotic attitude of English unions.

PATCHING UP STREETS

It will be of immense interest to Lowell to learn that Acting Commissioner O'Hearn of the Boston department of public works boasts of his system of street patching as among his greatest achievements. Like Lowell, Boston in the past has not been over-wise in the matter of street construction and maintenance, and as a result the asphalt streets there have developed cradle holes and miniature hills, until Boston streets became a byword. To wait for general street construction would have been ruinous; to adopt a general policy of renewal would be extravagant and so the policy of patching up the bad places was adopted. During the past five weeks, Commissioner O'Hearn has put more than 1600 patches on the porous streets of Boston, and he declares that he will fill 2000 more holes before he quits the job. The cost is estimated at about a dollar a patch.

In this city we are doing better in the matter of street repair than we did formerly, and it looks as though in a short time repairs will be attended to scientifically and consistently. We may not have three thousand very bad holes in our main streets, but we have several hundreds and these should be filled up even though it should cost the Boston figure of a dollar a patch. Even the smallest hole in the asphalt streets, if neglected, will grow and develop until it ruins the thoroughfare, and the ultimate cost is far more proportionately than what would have remedied the defect in the first place.

With the advent of so many heavy motor trucks, streets that are not block paved do not offer a strong resistance, and there will always be a call for patches. The only way to keep such streets in good repair is by having a permanent repair gang occupied solely with filling up depressions and leveling elevations. Commissioner O'Hearn has reason to boast of his record as a patcher of streets, and his example might be advantageously emulated by street commissioners everywhere.

MEXICAN PROMISES

General Felipe Angeles, one of Villa's right hand men who is now in this country on a special mission to our government, was in Boston a day or so ago, and in the course of an interview to the press outlined the Mexican future in words so fair and colors so rosy that one wonders if the Mexican trouble is not all a dream. His most important announcement was that General Francisco Villa will accept the arbitration offer of this country through President Wilson, provided General Carranza will do the same and allow a free public election. Should this come about, Villa declares he will give up his ambition to rule or to become president of Mexico, if only Carranza will do the same. But Carranza says he won't. Both leaders were declared to have about an equal following.

Should both sides really arbitrate as suggested, and agree to abide by the decision, would they surely eliminate themselves from Mexican public life? Mexican presidents generally find it advisable to go into exile. Perhaps it might also work with aspirants to that office. The one weak factor about the situation is that Mexican promises are made to be broken. After the arbitration of this country, Villa and Carranza might be externally friendly, but they would hardly be as friendly as when two years ago they made such an impression on Washington by their great ideals. Both were then leagued against Huerta whom they successfully routed, only to disagree and start revolution afresh. While Mexico is swayed by leaders with personal ambitions, and while the sorry populace is stripped of every right in the name of might, there will be no peace. The promises of Angeles or Carranza or the unspeakable Villa are worthless.

SECRETARY LANSING

It is doubtful if President Wilson could name to the cabinet as secretary of state, at this time, a man who has the confidence of the country to a greater degree than Robert Lansing, who has just been elevated to that high office. Ever since Mr. Bryan flew out of the official life of Washington on the wings of peace, Mr. Lansing has been persistently named for the place in the press, and the commendation that flows in upon President Wilson is bounded by neither party nor partisanship. The American public rejoices at the elevation of a man who has been proved capable of handling our most delicate international problems, and who seems in full sympathy with the aims of the administration. In the chair of the secretary of state we now have an expert in international law, a trained diplomat and a loyal official, and there is no uncertainty as to his future course. He will be with President Wilson and working faithfully and with dignity for the best interests of the American people. In all the recent notes that have attracted to Washington the admiration of the diplomats of the world, Robert Lansing has been the critic by which the graceful rhetoric and exalted idealism of the chief executive was finally approved.

OUR GRADUATES

The Sun offers the 265 graduates of the high school its heartiest congratulations. They have achieved something noteworthy and their efforts have been rewarded. From the school of theory most of them will pass to the wider and larger school of everyday life, and their success or failure will be in proportion to how they remember and apply the lessons learned in the years of their school experience. Hon. Robert E. Luce reminded them very pertinently that they owe an obligation to the community which has paid for their education and given them so many advantages, and this obligation they may repay by becoming good citizens in all that the term implies. Not all the graduates have like ability, but all may have ambition in the same degree, and the greatest success is for the pupil who is determined to make the most of the opportunities that come to each. It is no slight task to choose the groove in life to which one is best fitted, but if the choice be made with the sincere desire to succeed, and if honest effort is shown in the years to come, there is no fear that our graduates will make as great a reputation as those who have preceded them. May their lessons in the school of experience be as pleasant as those learned in the Lowell high school.

Called by his lawyers to prove that he is sane and called by the state to prove that he is insane, Harry K. Thaw is in some quandary. If he is not really insane when the courts get through with him, he is mentally and physically O. K.

In that bridge matter the municipal council seems bound to keep as far as possible from the clear businesslike way of doing things and to adopt a policy that, if it became general, would make the city charter a scrap of paper. Why don't our commissioners take the responsibility from their shoulders and put it on the charter or on the engineers' department?

The law ought to put the lid on the effervescent youngster who explodes these Fourth of July contraptions prematurely. Safety first, and let us have peace.

ified to leave this matter in the hands of Mr. Denman. I have talked with 15 or 20 engineers and while I have not heard anything derogatory of him, I have not heard any great praise of him. One engineer told me that Mr. Denman was a bridge seller. I do not think we should proceed in this matter until we know just exactly where we are at."

Mr. Denman was right in on the meeting today, constituting the sixth member, as it were, and he allowed no point to get by without having a word to say about it, and the most remarkable feature of the meeting, perhaps, was the fact that the vote taken by the council was amended by Mr. Denman. The motion, after being once amended, read that permission to construct the bridge be obtained from the war department, and on suggestion of Mr. Denman, it was made to read "harbor and land commissioners." He said the war department might not make answer for six months and the mayor allowed that the doughty engineer had the right dope.

It was a funny meeting throughout. At one stage of the game Commissioner Morse, an ardent champion of Mr. Denman, asked him if any of his bridges had collapsed and Mr. Denman made the very astonishing reply that he had heard about bridges built by him collapsing, but this he had never been able to prove. That was a little deep for Charlie, but he didn't say anything.

Story of the Meeting

The meeting was scheduled for 10 o'clock but was not called until 11 o'clock or after. The first business before the meeting had to do with a petition by the Bay State Street railway for permission to decorate the main streets for the big celebration on July 4, using about the same decorations as on Lowell day. The petition was granted.

The mayor read a communication for the license commission asking that the council create an ordinance covering jitney busses. The city solicitor in an opinion rendered the license commission had stated that the present ordinance does not include jitneys. The matter was referred to the solicitor with instructions that he draw up an ordinance and present it to the municipal council.

The mayor was authorized to sign an agreement with the Lawrence Mfg. Co. to pay that company $200 for the use of the playground in Allen street, the same amount as was paid last year.

Another communication read by the mayor was from the harbor and lands commissioner in which it was stated that the commission would give a hearing on the Fasttrack bridge question at the state house on Tuesday, June 29, at 11 a. m. It was voted to have the city solicitor and the city engineer appear at the hearing.

A communication from the city engineer relative to the petition of Alfred G. Swanson for the abatement of sewer assessment in Lawrence street was accepted and placed on file.

The mayor read a communication from the Industrial Accident board asking that the council appoint someone as agent to represent the city in case of accidents coming under the workmen's compensation act and it was voted to make City Solicitor Hennessy the city's agent.

The mayor received a communication from Mr. Gow, the man who is building the filtration plant at the boulevard, a few days ago, relative to a statement made by the mayor to the effect that a man in the employ of the Gow Co. had been looking up data against Mr. Denman. Mr. Gow stated in his letter that no man in his employ has been so employed, that he thought a great deal of Mr. Denman and his ability as an engineer and he hoped the mayor would make known the fact that he, Mr. Gow, was attending strictly to his own business, that he didn't want anything to do with the building of the bridge. The mayor said he felt that in justice to both Mr. Gow and Mr. Denman he should read the letter, and he read it. He remarked by the way, that the man who was looking up Mr. Denman is in the employ of the water department.

The Bridge Question

When the Fasttrack bridge question was broached the mayor stated that he had tried to have a meeting with President P. P. Sullivan of the Bay State Street Railway company for the purpose of finding out how much the street railway would do toward the building of the bridge. When the bridge question was up for discussion some seven ago, that street railway company offered to subscribe $5000. The mayor said he had talked with Mr. Sullivan on the telephone; that he had had a meeting planned for Thursday morning but that Mr. Sullivan had to go away and that he would not be able to see him until he returned.

Commissioner Morse then read the order for the employment of the Luten Engineering company, and it was afterwards read by the mayor. The instrument as amended by Commissioner Duncan, and later by Engineer Denman, reads as follows:

Voted that the commissioner of streets and highways is authorized to employ the Luten Engineering company, incorporated of Springfield, Mass., as consulting and supervising engineers for the preparation of plans, detail and form drawings, to install the steel reinforcements and to supervise the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pawtucket falls.

The city of Lowell is to purchase and supply all materials and labor required and all labor used on the bridge to be citizens of Lowell with the exception of two foremen who shall be recommended by the consulting engineer.

The commissioner of streets and highways is authorized to pay unto the Luten Engineering company, Inc., for the services mentioned the sum of $7500, in the following manner:—the sum of $2500 upon the delivery of all necessary working plans to the commissioner of streets and highways and the balance when the bridge has been completed and accepted by the municipal council, provided, however, that permission to construct said bridge be obtained from the board of harbor and land commissioners, and that the plans be approved by the proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river, the public service commission of Massachusetts and by George F. Swain, consulting engineer.

Mr. Carmichael Objects

Commissioner Carmichael said he thought that the 5 1/2 per cent. was a high price for supervising the construction of the bridge and he thought the council ought not to pass a vote until the mayor had talked with President Sullivan of the street railway company. He called attention to the fact that the street railway company would want a double track across the bridge and the company, he believed, would be willing to pay for it.

Commissioner Morse gave as his opinion that the company would have to pay for it. "If the bridge is going to be built this summer," said Mr. Morse, "we will have to get at it right away. We have been dilly-dallying long enough."

Mr. Morse spoke about the ledge that the Locks & Canals company had said would have to be removed under the eastern arch of the bridge and Mr. Duncan wanted to know if the cost of removing the ledge was included in the $50,000 estimate. Mr. Morse said he didn't know and the mayor asked Mr. Denman about it. Mr. Denman said it was not included originally, but he thought the $50,000 would cover it all right.

William E. Badger of the Locks & Canals company was present and was asked what he thought it would cost to displace the ledge. Mr. Badger said he was not prepared to give an estimate. He thought, however, that the expense might be considerably offset if the stone could be used by Mr. Denman and Mr. Denman thought the stone could be used all right.

In reply to Mr. Carmichael's objection to the 5 1/2 per cent. for supervision, Mr. Denman said that included the placing of the steel.

"Is the steel such that any manufacturer can bid?" asked Mr. Carmichael, and Mr. Denman answered in the negative.

"Some particular steel that only one company, the Luten company, for instance, can bid on?" queried Mr. Carmichael.

Mr. Denman replied that there were at least four companies who made the kind of steel necessary and there was nothing to prevent them from submitting bids.

"We will call for steel of a certain form and quality," said the mayor. "And the steel will have to be placed under the Luten patents," put in Mr. Carmichael, "and that means," he continued, "that about one-half the amount of steel will be used."

"I don't agree with you," said Mr. Denman, "and the question to the amount of steel to be used is not pertinent."

Mr. Carmichael: "When the $50,000 has been expended there is no person whom the city can look to?"

Mr. Denman: "The Luten Engineering company."

Mr. Carmichael: "The Luten Engineering company doesn't give a hoot?"

Mr. Denman: "No."

Mr. Morse: "Are you expecting that we will have to look to anybody for anything?"

Mr. Carmichael: "We don't know what to expect. We have never built bridges and we don't know much about it."

Mr. Putnam: "I understand that I understand from Prof. Moore, and I

President Answered Request of Springfield People—Arrived at Cornish, N. H., Today

CORNISH, N. H., June 25.—President Wilson, accompanied by his daughter Margaret and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician, arrived at this summer home here soon after 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was met at the railroad station at Windsor, Vt., by his cousin, Miss Helen Woodworth Bones and motored to Cornish.

FIRST VACATION

GREENFIELD, June 25.—President Wilson today began to enjoy in earnest his first vacation since last fall. En route for Cornish, N. H., he slept late this morning and so did not see the crowds which gathered at several stations to greet him until his train arrived in this state. At Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton and Greenfield he responded to cheers from crowds, stepping out upon the observation platform of his private car and shaking hands with as many persons as time permitted.

At Northampton a large group of students from Toronto university, on their way to a Y. M. C. A. conference at Northfield, gathered about Mr. Wilson's car and gave their college yell amidst wild calls for a speech. The president smiled his acknowledgments.

"We are for peace with honor," called out one man at Holyoke; "we are for you all the time." The crowd applauded and the president smiled at the same time accepting a bunch of flowers from a little girl.

Since leaving Washington Mr. Wilson has received only a few messages and those examined by him conveyed expressions of approval of his appointment of Robert Lansing as secretary of state. The party should arrive at Cornish at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

AT SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, June 25.—"Keep us out of war, Mr. President."

"I will if I can,"

President Wilson was in Springfield for five minutes at 9 o'clock this morning while on his way to his summer home in Cornish, N. H. Mr. Wilson did not speak to the crowd at the station, but when his car had been taken to the railroad yards he waved his hand and smiled at a group of railroad men. They called to him and he came out and shook hands with them and gave them the assurance quoted.

Mr. Wilson will be met by an automobile at Windsor and taken to Cornish.

COURT RECESS TO SEE WILSON

BATTLEBORO, Vt., June 25.—The judges of the state court, in session today took a recess in order that those present might go to the station and see President Wilson whose train arrived at Battleboro shortly after 11 a. m. today.

The president shook hands with about 300 persons and waved his hand to a man on a box car and to a man referred to as "the man in the gallery."

Three cheers were given the president as the train pulled out.

Mayor Murphy—"I don't care a rap about the Bay State Street railway company. It is up to the municipal council to do something. If the street railway company refuses to come across we can refuse them a franchise."

Mr. Morse—"That's so. This thing has been delayed long enough."

Mr. Carmichael—"If the Bay State Street Railway company should give us $5000 we would have to borrow only $25,000. We should find out about it. What is the amount usually paid by public service corporations?"

Mr. Duncan—"From 6 to 10 per cent. There is some legal question as to whether we can go ahead with the bridge until the money has been actually borrowed and it is very essential that we should know how much the bridge is going to cost. The charter says we cannot make a contract until the appropriation has been made."

Mr. Morse—"This thing is being held up right and left, because there seems to be something against Denman and the bridge."

Mr. Duncan—"There is nothing against Mr. Denman and we all want the bridge. We ought to go about this matter in a businesslike way and we are obliged to do it in a legal way."

Mr. Denman then made a statement in which he said that unless the job was let by contract the city would have to accept its estimate. Mr. Denman thought it would not be necessary to borrow all the money at once, but Mr. Duncan told him that it would be necessary to borrow it all at once in order to get a good rate of interest.

Are we obliged to take your plans if we make the vote submitted here by Mr. Morse?" queried Mr. Carmichael, addressing Mr. Denman.

"If approved by the public service commission," replied Mr. Denman.

Mr. Putnam—"I do not want to vote on this matter today the way it stands. It was understood last Tuesday that the plans would be presented to an engineer for approval and that they would be ready for action today. That was understood and agreed to by everybody concerned."

Mr. Carmichael—"I think we ought to submit the plans to Mr. Worcester or Mr. Spofford & Thorndike. These are engineers that we know are all right."

Mayor Murphy—"Fay, Spofford & Thorndike are to meet the contract. I have had a letter from them and they think they can do the job better than Mr. Denman."

Mr. Carmichael—"It isn't at all strange that they should be after the job."

Mr. Denman—"I will not submit to a competing engineer."

Mr. Morse—"Has Prof. Swain ever approved any of your plans?"

Mr. Denman—"Yes, fifty or more, perhaps. He has approved every plan of mine that has ever gone up to him."

The mayor said again that Mr. Swain would probably charge the city between $500 and $1000 to go over the plans and Mr. Carmichael thought his approval would be worth the money.

Mr. Morse—"I have heard that some of them collapsed, but I have never been able to prove it."

Mr. Carmichael then stated that he would vote against the proposition for the reason that the manner of procedure was irregular. He said that the city should have come to Boston and consulted a competent engineer. That, he said, would have been the satisfactory way of doing it.

Mayor Murphy: "Have you heard anything against Mr. Denman?"

Mr. Carmichael: "I talked with 15 or 20 engineers and I did not hear much praise of him, except from Mr. Morse."

Mayor Murphy: "Did you hear him condemn?"

Mr. Carmichael: "No, not exactly. One engineer told me that Denman was a bridge seller. You men may be all right in your opinion and I may be all wrong, but I have my opinion and I will have to hold to it as there is nothing to convince me otherwise."

The mayor then read the vote again and, after the changes suggested by Mr. Denman had been made, the result was four yeas and one nay, Mr. Carmichael voting against.

It was then voted to have City Engineer Kearney take the plans to Boston for Prof. Swain's approval.

VIEW OF THE SCOW "SANDBIRD" CARRYING TWO DOUBLE-LOADS OF SAND ACROSS THE RIVER

The Sand Scow Crossing Merrimack River Attracts Much Attention—Other Notes

"The win' she blo' lak hurricane, himbly she blo' lak no mo'. But you can't get down on de Merrimack river, so long you stay on shore."

So quoth Capt. A. Bouchard of the good scow Sandbird, which is being used to haul sand from North Chelmsford across the Merrimack river to the boulevard shore for the filtration plant and First Mate Arthur Drapeau, son of Contractor Drapeau, who has the contract to team the sand, opted the same as the big flat boat teams into the pontoon bridge on the North Chelmsford side of the river yesterday afternoon, just as a Sun representative made his appearance on the scene.

The scow is 41 feet long and 14 feet wide and is built of stout planks and logs. It took Contractor Drapeau and his men over a week to build it and some difficulty was experienced in getting it into the river, owing to its great size. It is pulled across the river by means of a cable hitched to trees on either side of the river and is capable of transporting in the utmost safety, two big heavy teams loaded with sand, four horses, which are used to pull the teams down to the filtration plant, their drivers and the crew consisting of Messrs. Bouchard and Drapeau.

The big scow, which resembles a small dance pavilion when standing in the middle of the river, will be the means of saving hundreds of dollars for Contractor Drapeau, and he plans to carry 60 loads across the river every day. Before the scow was put into operation, the sand was hauled from the sandbank in the village around by way of the Pawtucket falls and thence up the boulevard to the filtration plant. In this way it was impossible for one team to make over two trips a day, but now the scow carries two teams across the river in four minutes, and it is only a few more minutes' drive from the landing point on the boulevard shore to the job. The scow made its first voyage yesterday, and everything worked wonderfully. No. 1, a thing happened to obstruct its trend across the expanse, and Capt. Bouchard said that not even a submarine was sighted to relieve the monotony. He added, however, that as a precaution against all kinds of belligerent under water craft, he will have both sides of the scow painted red, white and blue, and when this is accomplished he will feel more contented. The horses don't seem to mind the water in the least, and there is no need of attendants to look after them while they are aboard. The drivers block their wheels up so as to prevent the heavy loads from sliding backwards, and then they help the crew in pulling on the cable. Everything is done very systematically, and the scow is docked with the same ease and grace as a big ocean liner.

Barring choppy weather, the scow will operate from bank to bank every day while sand is wanted. The transporting of the sand in this way, although not a hardship, emphasizes the need of some kind of a bridge in North Chelmsford, but then—bridges cost around $50,000.

High School Graduation

The high school graduation will be held in the town hall tonight, and according to reports, representatives of about every family in the village will be in attendance when the invocation is offered by Rev. Franklin H. Reeves. The exercises will start at 8 o'clock with selections by Marinels Crescent orchestra, after which the invocation will be given. The presentation of diplomas will be by Supt. B. E. Martin and benediction will be given by Rev. E. T. Schofield. Dancing will follow the exercises.

The members of this year's class, which is the highest class to graduate in the history of the school, are all working hard to make the event one long to be remembered by the residents of the village. The decorations, which would do credit to an experienced decorator, are of a very elaborate nature, and are done by the students themselves. The class colors, green and gold, are used effectively in the decorative scheme. The lower hall, which will be used as a reception hall, is also beautifully decorated for the occasion, and following the presentation of the diplomas, music and refreshments will be enjoyed there. The members of the class are in direct charge of everything, and many

HOT WEATHER BAD FOR WOMEN'S NERVES

Season When They Most Need Their Strength to Withstand the Heat

Hot weather has a decidedly weakening effect on most women. They become too languid to exercise, and as a result have appetite only for light, tasty foods, like salads and other cold concoctions, which do not digest readily and increase the natural tendency to constipation.

At this season women should maintain the highest possible standard of health, to counteract the enervating effect of the weather. Good digestion and regularity of the bowels are essential. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended as a laxative and digestant by many physicians, as well as by thousands of women who depend upon it as a remedy for many of those ills to which women seem more especially susceptible.

Get a fifty cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist and have it in the house. Take hours of overtime work have been put in by every one of them in completing the arrangements. The class song was written by John H. Valentine, who made an enviable reputation for himself during the past few years in school dramatics, and the class poem was composed by Leroy Lakin. Every member of the graduation class will attend some school or college next year. The students to graduate tonight are as follows: May Jessie Brown, president; Warren Fletcher Prince, vice president; Willis Leonard McComb, secretary; Herbert Carl Reis, treasurer; Clara Anderson, Josephine Margaret Higgins, Betty Annette Nelson, Pauline Willoughby Worden, Harold Bradley Hedger, Leroy Taylor Lakin, Arthur Robert Nyström and John Henry Valentine.

Mill's Busy

The mills of the village are still busy and the operatives are steadily employed. The Silesia mills it is reported will be running on their old prosperous stride again within a short time, and then everything will hum. At the present time, the G. C. Moore mills are running full time days; the Lowell Textile company has all it can handle and the machine plant in the village is running night and day. Workmen are busily engaged on the G. C. Moore mills strengthening up the old tower which was badly damaged by the fire, and excavation has been made for the erection of a new mill building in back of one of the old wooden structures.

Streets

The streets of the village are in excellent condition, and workmen are now putting the Princeton boulevard in the finest possible shape. Like the other streets, the boulevard roadbed has been treated with a coat of oil, and all that remains to be done is to give it a coat of fine sand and gravel. When this is done, the road will look far and near better riding over better streets than North Chelmsford can boast of.

St. John's Field Day

On Saturday afternoon the annual field day of the St. John's T. A. Society will be held at McComb's field. A long program of sports will start at 2 o'clock and a number of prominent athletes are entered in the various events. One of the features of the afternoon will be a relay race, in which Michael Scollan, old time sprinter and Eddie Flanagan, the latter a dinkkeeper at the G. C. Moore mills, will run against a picked team of members of the society. Admission to the grounds will be free. In the evening dancing will be enjoyed in John's hall and refreshments will be served.

Court Wanaualauit, M. C. U. O. F.

The members of Court Wanaualauit met in regular session in Forester's hall at 10 o'clock last night. A long program of sports will start at 2 o'clock and a number of prominent athletes are entered in the various events. One of the features of the afternoon will be a relay race, in which Michael Scollan, old time sprinter and Eddie Flanagan, the latter a dinkkeeper at the G. C. Moore mills, will run against a picked team of members of the society. Admission to the grounds will be free. In the evening dancing will be enjoyed in John's hall and refreshments will be served.

Farewell Reception

A farewell reception was tendered Benjamin E. Martin, superintendent of schools of North Chelmsford this week by the teachers of the North and Highland schools. The reception was held in the Highland school hall. A beautiful silver cup was presented to Martin, Miss Grace McComb making the presentation speech. Mr. Martin, although taken by surprise responded feelingly. The cup was beautifully decorated with roses and daisies.

Theft of Cypres

The chief of police of the staid little town of Milford, N. H., was in the village this week, and in conversation with a Sun representative he said he came down to try to locate a band of gypsies, who he alleged robbed a woman in the New Hampshire hamlet of $50. He said he searched all over the village for them, but no trace of the party could be found and he wended his way slowly homeward.

WAS SO THIN "HER BONES RATTLED"

Said Her Friends, Miss Hildebrandt Put on Twelve Pounds. Friends No Longer Laugh

Plump, Healthy, Athletic Womanhood

"I am very glad that at last I have found something that can put flesh on my bones," writes Miss Anna Hildebrandt. "My friends always said 'we need not see your face so long as we hear bones rattle around the corner we know it's you,' but now they say 'how good you look.' I weighed 123½ pounds, took Sargol and from Monday till following Saturday gained 6 pounds and am gaining every day since. Today I weigh 135½ pounds."

"An taking Sargol regularly and have gained twelve pounds already," says Miss Pearl Miller and Geo. Johnson adds "Sargol is certainly all right. My weight at present is 178 pounds. When I started I weighed 151 pounds. A 27 pound gain."

Would you, too, like to quickly put from 10 to 30 pounds of solid "stay-ther" flesh and fat and muscular tissue between your skin and bones? More than half a million thin men and women have gladly made this test, and have gained twelve pounds already, says Miss Pearl Miller and Geo. Johnson adds "Sargol is certainly all right. My weight at present is 178 pounds. When I started I weighed 151 pounds. A 27 pound gain."

SARGOL is sold by Louis K. Liggett Co., Carter & Sherburne Co., Falls & Burdickshaw, C. P. George & Co., F. H. Butler & Co., Fred Howard Lowell Pharmacy, Phelps's Pharmacy, Thos. C. Walker, Roy E. Webster, A. L. Fields and all other leading druggists of Lowell and vicinity who will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

ers of St. John's church will be held at Nabunase grove, as customary on Saturday, July 3, and a committee headed by the chairman, James Walker is busily engaged at the present time making arrangements for the affair. Paul Constantineau and Irving Shields have been appointed a committee on sports for the affair and Joseph Bryan will look after the refreshments and transportation.

Water Commissioners' Report

At a meeting of the North Chelmsford fire district held in the town hall this week, D. Frank Small was elected moderator, and James F. Leary, water commissioner for a term of three years. Preston L. Piggett was elected auditor and William J. Quigley, clerk. They will serve in their respective positions for one year.

Persons

John Corrigan and John Hogan, two highly esteemed residents of the village will leave July 3 for Los Angeles, California.

John Riney is home on a short visit to his relatives in Highland avenue. He has been doing construction work in Galveston, Texas.

John and Marlon Varney, children of Doctor Varney, the prominent physician, are both home from school.

Edward Tucke, Sr. and Eddie Jr., went on a fishing excursion to Salem Willows last Sunday, and they brought back quite a catch.

IN POLICE COURT

A brief session of juvenile court was held in the court of second sessions with Judge Enright presiding, prior to the opening of the regular court session this forenoon. Several youngsters were arraigned as delinquents and placed on probation. Andrew F. Foye was found guilty of unlawfully throwing a lighted firecracker on a public street and ordered to pay a fine of ten dollars.

Patrolman Alfred Cooney made a visit to a house on his route last evening which resulted in the arrest of Mary McCune, Elizabeth McDermott and Joseph J. McDermott, all charged with drunkenness. After the arresting officer had told of the alleged disorder in the house, each was sentenced to three months in jail. J. J. McDermott appeared and was held in $200 surety.

Three other arrests were made in a house on Moody street by Patrolman Consett, Napoleon Boister, Joseph Corcoran and Gertrude Hughes were brought before the court and each pleaded guilty. The girl told his Honor that the two men met her on the street and took her into a house where she became intoxicated. The maximum fine of $15 for first offenders was imposed in the case of both men while the case of the woman was continued for disposal later.

Mixed Embroidement

The case of Jess B. Perella, accused of larceny of $150 from a local benefit association with which he was connected, had his case continued for one week. J. Joseph O'Connor represented the government.

William F. Bezan, who was on probation after being convicted of assault and battery upon his wife, Catherine, was arrested last night on a capias. Mrs. Bezan testified that her husband continued to abuse her and recently took some of her clothing and sold it to buy drink. Judge Enright ordered the probation revoked and imposed a three months sentence in the house of correction.

Two second offenders were fined six dollars each and one other drunkenness case was disposed of with a short sentence.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR
BY GWEN SEARS
FOR TOO STOUT SHOULDERS
If your shoulders are too fat vis- together, toes and chest out, shoulders drooped, chin up. Now raise them but special exercises are even the left arm above the head and more necessary. An exercise which stretch the right arm down, as if will pull the flesh off the shoulders; both were attempting to touch some- in a most satisfactory manner is thing just out of reach. Keep palms as follows: Stand with the heels out and little finger of right hand touching the leg. Now bring up the right arm in a semi-circle above the head and at the same time swing the left arm down in a semi-circle, until the little finger touches the leg, stretching both arms as far as possible, alternating and continue for five minutes twice a day.
Another exercise which will dispose of fatty deposits on the shoulders and back is as follows: Stand with heels together, hands clenched at sides, begin to draw in a deep breath while bringing arms to shoulders with a quick vigorous motion. Without pausing stretch them to full length above the head. Now begin to exhale while bringing the arms down to the shoulders; next at full length to the sides. Each movement of the arms should be as intended for a blow.
If your shoulders are beautifully rounded soft chignon, crepe or lace, gowns which slip carelessly off the shoulders, are extremely fetching; but beware of this method of gowning, for there is the slightest square-ness of line of your shoulders. In most cases the drapery must come well with the line of the angle, to soften it.

An entertainment program and dancing were enjoyed in the upper hall, while pool and other games were played in the amusement hall. Refreshments were served and the guests departed at a seasonable hour. The directors of the club were in charge of the arrangements.

A delightful entertainment and strawberry festival was given last night at the Notre Dame de Lourdes parochial school hall under the auspices of the members of Laval council, U. S. J. B. d'Amérique. The hall was filled to its capacity and the affair was very successful.

The entertainment program consisted of the following numbers: Overture, Misses Regina, Rose, Lucille and Blanche Roussel; comic songs, Paul Bastien; violin selections, William Blodgett, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Blodgett; remarks, Rev. ZAPATA FORCES AND CARRANZA ARMY ENGAGED IN ARTILLERY DUELS

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Zapata forces defending Mexico City have engaged the attacking Carranza army in a series of artillery duels and delayed its advance. No details were contained in the advices reaching here today which were the first indications that the Carranza advance would be resisted.

Communication with Mexico City has been cut off since June 18, when Gen. Gonzalez, the Carranza commander, cut the wires to Vera Cruz at Orizaba, 25 miles east from the capital. Consular advices from Vera Cruz today said the wires were still down and it was improbable that communication would be restored before the Carranza forces entered the city. Vera Cruz dispatches to the Carranza agency here have insisted Gonzalez was delaying his occupation of the city from the horrors of attack and had been ordered to exhaust every means to induce the Villa-Zapata troops to withdraw without resistance.

OBSERVED ST. JOHN'S DAY

LARGE GATHERING AT ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE IN MERRIMACK STREET LAST EVENING

The members of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Joseph's parish observed St. John's day with a whist and entertainment last evening. The affair was given in the college hall in Merrimack street and was attended by nearly 300 people.

Joseph L. Lamoureux acted as presiding officer and under his direction ten duels of whist were played, valuable prizes being distributed to the winners at the close of the card contest. The entertainment program consisted of acrobatic feats by Rodolphe, Charles Auguste and Charles Edouard Roudeau, and a comedy sketch, entitled "Les Américains Gaudisseurs," which was well interpreted by the following: Armand Dupont, Hildegarde Trudel, Louis Theriault and J. P. Baribault. A comic monologue was given by Armand Dupont, and the A. G. Gaudisseurs' brass band supplied music during the evening.

STILL HELD BY AUSTRIANS
WASHINGTON, June 25.—Foreign official dispatches to the Austro-Hungarian embassy here today say that still is held by the Austrians and deny the claim that Italian troops have broken through. They say successful field attacks left at least 3000 dead before the Austrian positions.

WHIST PARTY HELD
Branch St. Marie, A. C. F., conducted a successful whist party at its quarters in Carmine street, South Lowell, last evening. The affair was largely attended and a pleasant evening was spent by all present. An entertainment program was given by the principal talent of the society and valuable prizes were awarded the winners of the card game.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

FORMER LOWELL YOUNG MAN TO WED YOUNG LADY FROM COSTA RICA

A Boston paper has the following: There is a bit of romance in the recent announcement of the engagement of Senorita Maria Heredia Calvo, the charming and accomplished daughter of Don Joaquin Bernardo Calvo, former minister of the United States from Costa Rica, to Thomas Dempsey Harrington, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Harrington of 319 Commonwealth avenue.

Young Harrington met Senorita Calvo in Washington a few years ago, when he was a student at Georgetown university. The young people saw much of each other in the social life of the capital, and to Washington people the announcement of their engagement did not come as a great surprise.

But it is a coincidence that when young Harrington entered the business world he should have picked employment which soon afterward took him permanently to Senorita Calvo's native country. For nearly two years Mr. Harrington has been stationed at Port Limon, Costa Rica, in the employ of the United Fruit company.

Miss Calvo is almost a citizen of the United States by adoption, for she has been in this country for nearly 18 years, during which her father has been stationed at Washington. All of Don Calvo's five children were educated in American schools.

Two years ago Senorita Calvo made her debut in Washington, and since then has been active in the social affairs of the capital. Her mother, Senora Calvo, is a gentle, rather quiet woman, with a winning personality. One of Miss Calvo's brothers was at one time a student at West Point. A special act of congress was passed to allow his admittance.

No date has been set for the wedding. It is believed that Mr. Harrington is coming home for a short visit this summer or early in the fall.

WAGON IS IDENTIFIED

BARON'S OUTFIT STOLEN FROM BERWICK, ME.—SHERIFF COFFIN OF MAINE HERE

Sheriff Frank A. Coffin of Berwick, Me., came to Lowell early this afternoon and identified the horse and wagon taken from Avilla Baron early this morning as the outfit stolen last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning from the livery stable of William M. Tower of Berwick, Me. He also had in his possession a warrant charging Baron with breaking and entering the night time and stealing the horse and wagon which were valued at $250. The prisoner, who will be held on the more serious charge of attempting to kill an officer, resided with his father in Somersworth, N. H., just across the state line from Berwick. Sheriff Coffin said he had lived there for over a year and had never been arrested before. He was suspected of stealing the outfit, however, and the up-state sheriff and other officers searched for him all day yesterday.

Mr. Coffin estimated the distance between Lowell and Berwick, Me., at about 65 miles and accordingly, young Baron must have driven the horse at a good speed in order to reach Lowell last night.

MATRIMONIAL

John E. Kennedy and Miss Helen McAnaney were married last evening at the Sacred Heart church by the pastor, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. L. They will be at home to their friends after July 5 at 21 Potter street.

TOOMEY—QUINN
William Toomey and Miss Mary Quinn were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed Wednesday at St. Columba's church by Rev. Thomas A. Buckley. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Quinn, while the best man was Matthew Fahey. The bride wore Irish lace over white crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, John Toomey, and the bridesmaids were in white satin with Irish point lace trimmings and she carried pink roses. At the close of the ceremony the bride and groom were taken to the home of the bride's parents, 15 Carter street. After a honeymoon trip through New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Toomey will make their home at 15 Carter street.

WOOD—RODDY
W. Howard Wood, overseer at the Saco-Lowell shoe, and Miss Katherine S. Roddy of Draught, were married Wednesday, the ceremony being performed at St. Michael's rectory by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Roddy, while the best man was Elliot Wood, brother of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Catherine Roddy, 167 Hampden street. The couple will make their home at 42 Draught street.

BOARD OF TRADE

Campaign to Purchase Supplies in Lowell for Summer Homes Elsewhere

The officers of the Lowell board of trade have started a novel campaign to induce the residents of this city who spend the summer out of town to purchase their goods in Lowell.

It is stated that there is a large number of local residents who leave their summer homes at the seashore or other places out of Lowell, and they do all their shopping during the summer season out of town. The officials of the board of trade have made arrangements with the local merchants, particularly with the grocers, butchers and provision dealers, to have them fill out orders and send them all charges prepaid to their customers who are spending the summer at the seashore or elsewhere.

People who have occasion to go through Winthrop, Marblehead, Salem, Weymouth, and other summer resorts can notice that a large number of Lowell people are stopping there during the hot season, and of course they purchase their food where they stop. According to arrangements Lowell people can send their orders to their regular grocer or butcher, and the latter will send the goods ordered by parcel post or express, all transportation charges prepaid. A large advertisement concerning this campaign will appear in tomorrow's newspapers.

POLICE COURT CASES

WORCESTER MAN IN FOR ALLEGED LARCENY—TROUBLE ON MIDDLESEX STREET

Robert E. McNabb, who claims Worcester as his home town, was found guilty in police court this forenoon of stealing a pay envelope containing $23 from William Smith of North Billerica and sentenced to two months in jail.

Both men were employed in the spinning department of the Tabbot mill, the defendant having started to work there only this week. Yesterday Smith placed his envelope in the pocket of his trousers which hung in a closet. About 3:30 o'clock Smith went to the dining room of the mill wearing his overalls and did not think to take the money from his trousers.

When he returned he learned that McNabb, who was supposed to be at work, had disappeared and suspecting him of larceny, went to his closet and discovered that the money had been taken. Police Officer W. Henry O'Brien of Billerica was notified and he set out in search of McNabb. The latter was apprehended in a local barroom and after a severe grilling admitted that he took the money and turned over $7.15 to Officer O'Brien. The defendant this forenoon said he had been drinking and did not realize what he was doing. "This is a mean, contemptible case of larceny," said the court, "and only a direct sentence can be given."

On Middlesex Street

A row near Middlesex street late last night resulted in the appearance of John Murphy and John L. Smith, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace. Patrolman John H. Kelley testified that he arrested the two men rolling in the street with Smith getting the better of his companion. Each was fined $20 and refused time to make the payment.

The case of James A. Hayden and Robert J. Myron, charged with malicious injury to a fence, was continued until next Tuesday for trial, while Leroy S. Draper was found guilty of failing to properly support his minor child, and was sentenced to four months in the house of correction. In the meantime, Mrs. Draper will receive three dollars weekly from the county for the support of the child.

Boys Heavily Fined

The five boys arrested Wednesday night on Carter street were in court on continuance charged with disturbing the peace by fighting, swearing, etc. Two were fined, and the others, and the others were making loud noises. One was discharged, Edward L. McMahon, George H. Hanley and William D. Broderick were fined $25 each and John Lantieri $20. The four appeared and were held in $20 for the superior court.

OVERCOME BY GAS

He was discovered by the landlady and rushed in the ambulance to St. John's hospital, where it is reported his condition is not serious. It is understood that Bolton did not turn the gas off before lying down.

RAFAEL JO

GERMAN ANSWER

Will Yield to U. S. Demands—Agreement in Sight

BERLIN, via London, June 25.—There are good prospects that the forthcoming German note to the United States will go a long way toward meeting the American government's wishes regarding Germany's conduct of submarine warfare, and making passenger traffic on the high seas safe.

While it is stated that submarine action against hostile merchantmen will not and cannot be abandoned entirely, it is increasingly probable that the German note will embody some proposals to exempt ships employed wholly or principally in passenger traffic from submarine attack.

Such ships, it is said, would of course be subject to stoppage and examination by submarines in accordance with the practice in vogue prior to the present war, and to capture if carrying contraband, but the regular rules of the prize law, particularly regarding the safety of passengers and crews, would be observed.

It is hoped here that such a solution will satisfy the requirements of President Wilson's note. It is hoped and expected here among those who are working for a friendly settlement of the situation between Germany and the United States that the United States would not be so foolish as to use such passenger ships as not used to transport ammunition or guns or lend themselves to attacks upon submarines.

CANADIANS KILLED IN LA BASSEE BATTLE—BUT THREE OFFICERS UNSCATHED AFTER ASSAULT

TORONTO, June 25.—The First Western Ontario Battalion was all but annihilated in the action near La Bassee in North France on June 15 last, says a semi-official account received here yesterday. Out of between 600 and 700 men, the battalion lost in killed and wounded nearly 500, including 20 officers. Twelve officers were killed, leaving only three officers of the battalion unscathed.

The First Western Ontario Battalion, the account says, was selected to act in co-operation with British troops in attacking a German position. Three trenches were their object.

The first enemy trench was only 40 yards from that occupied by the 1st Western Ontario Battalion. The mine had been laid and its explosion was the signal for a forward movement on the part of the Canadians. The mine itself killed many Germans.

A member of the battalion who took part in the subsequent charge declared that the battalion rushed forward under a terrific fire from machine guns and bursting high explosives.

"Conditions grew more terrible as the fight progressed," said the writer. "The Germans brought up reinforcements from troops that were fighting the British, with whom we were linked. The second trench was about 80 yards beyond the first, which we captured, or about 100 yards from our starting point. "The cost to ourselves in taking the first trench was very great. We took the second trench and it proved a hot position. We then went for the third trench, but the Germans with reinforcements, concentrated a tremendous volume of fire upon us. I should think, by this time, considerably more than half our officers and men had been killed or wounded. "Gradually the position became untenable and it was necessary to relinquish the ground already won. We could not, with our depleted force, remain there, so we moved back. The Germans then tried hard to shift us from our original position, but to no purpose.

HARTFORD LAWYER SAYS DEAD WOULD MAKE PILE AS HIGH AS WASHINGTON MONUMENT

HARTFORD, Conn., June 25.—George B. Thayer, a lawyer of this city, who has just returned from a walking tour in France, said yesterday that men are being killed at the rate of 1000 an hour in the war. He described his experiences as follows: "The hotel in France where I was stopping was closed, the proprietor being called to the colors, and I was obliged to move on. I decided to cross into Switzerland. This did not prove very difficult for me, though I saw one man, who I thought was in an automobile, carefully give up his beautiful machine to soldiers stationed at the boundary and continue his journey on foot.

"A few days later I stood at a small railway station, which had been converted into a hospital, and saw the wounded brought in. Here I got my first real idea of the awfulness of the war. Young men in the first flush of manhood were literally shot to pieces, and others maimed for life. It was appalling. Men are being killed at the rate of 1000 an hour and the dead, if piled in the heap, would make a pile as high as the Washington monument."

Collapse of River Pier at Kazen, 400 Miles From Moscow

PETROGRAD, June 25, via London, 1:17 p. m.—A despatch received here from Kazen in European Russia, some 400 miles east of Moscow, sets forth that upwards of 100 lives have been lost in the collapse of a river pier at one of the local pleasure gardens. The pier, last summer returning to the city was to leave the island at midnight. A crowd of holiday makers, men, women and children were forcing their way in the darkness to the boat over the flimsy pier. The structure collapsed under their weight and usually everybody was thrown into the water. The crew of the steamer did their best at rescue, but only a few persons were saved.

SIX WERE KILLED

Trains in Head-on Collision on Bridge 100 Feet High

THURMONT, Md., June 25.—Six persons, four of them Baltimoreans, were killed and a dozen more or less seriously injured, when the Blue Mountain express and the fast mail of the Western Maryland railroad crashed together on a bridge, one hundred feet high, over Owens creek, a few miles west of here last night. The passengers killed were:

Mrs. W. Edwin Chipchase and Walter N. Chipchase, her son, 27 years of age, of Baltimore.

The other fatalities were among the trainmen. "The Blue Mountain express, west bound, known as train No. 11, was late. If on time, it would have passed the fast mail, No. 10, east bound, not far from the point at which the wreck occurred. The change in the schedule, in the course of which a mix-up of the orders given the conductors of the two trains is said to have occurred, resulted in bringing the two trains together, both running at high speed, on the bridge, which spans a mountain ravine.

The two engines were almost completely separated. The baggage car of the Blue Mountain express, in which Chipchase and his mother, who was an invalid, was riding, lying in a reclining chair, was torn from its trucks and thrown to the bottom of the ravine. The Pullman parlor car, immediately back of the baggage car, veered perilously near the edge of the bridge but did not leave the rails.

PLANS FOR LAWN PARTY

COMMITTEE ORGANIZED AND ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR ST. COLUMBA'S PARISH FETE

Many new and novel features will be run off in connection with the annual garden party to be held under the auspices of St. Columba's parish on July 14 and 15. A meeting was held last evening and plans were discussed and committees appointed. Several of the committees reported considerable progress and the indications are that this year's event will be the most successful ever had by the parish. The party will be held at the new tuckerville parish. Some of the innovations to be held are a baby show, a cabaret entertainment and an athletic meet.

Cornelius Cronin, chairman of the entertainment committee, took a very active part in the meeting and made many valuable suggestions that were later adopted by the meeting. Mr. Cronin announced that he had organized a team of war team and that a challenge will be sent to the Broadway Social and Athletic club to meet his tuckerville warriors on July 15. He expects that his team will be accepted and made many valuable suggestions that were later adopted by the meeting.

Joseph L. Cunningham is chairman of the Holy Name committee, with Joseph McAvinnis secretary. Mrs. John Monahan was chosen chairman of the refreshment committee, and Miss McAvinnis was chosen chair of the baby show and cabaret entertainment. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening of next week.

The graduation exercises of the Chelmsford Centre high school took place last evening in the town hall before a very large attendance of admiring parents and friends. The hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the class colors, old rose and silver being used most effectively in the color scheme. Seats were reserved for the alumni, scholars and invited guests, and upon the platform were the graduates and others having a part in the program. The class motto, "Vincens et Victorius" (Conquering and still to conquer) was hung in silver letters above the stage. Six young women and four young men comprised this year's class and each contributed an interesting part to the pleasing program. The ushers were Alvin H. Fletcher, Hosmer W. Sweetser, Fred Russell and Harold B. Stewart. The following program was given:

Menders and Burlers at Uswoco Mills in Lawrence Quit Work

LAWRENCE, June 25.—About 200 menders and burlers struck at the Uswoco mills of the U. S. Worsted Co. today because of dissatisfaction over working conditions. They claim that they have been required of late to do work at times for which they received no pay. No statement could be secured here as to the mill side of the controversy, inquirers being referred to the Boston office.

CENTRAL AND WARREN STREETS

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

The current year will go down into history as a year of parades in Lowell. For we have had an unusually large number of them, despite the fact that two big parades of olden days, that, in observance of St. Patrick's day, in March, held under the auspices of the Irish societies, and later in the year, the parade of the French societies in honor of St. Jean Baptiste, of June 24, were not held this year. Both were abandoned as annual events many years ago. St. Patrick's day falling so early in the year, there were frequent disappointments on account of unpropitious weather conditions. In the case of St. Jean's day, as the day was not a holiday, and as a great majority of the members of the French societies were employed in the various industries and places of business a celebration of this kind was inconvenient. Hence in the case of the St. Patrick's day celebration whether or not a parade is to be held is determined annually by a convention of delegates from the different Irish societies, who for a number of years have consistently crowned upon the idea of an outdoor celebration, while relative to the St. Jean's parade, years ago it was decided that a general celebration with a parade feature would be held but once in ten years. As the last celebration of this kind took place in 1905 the next will occur one year hence.

St. Jean's Day Quarter Century Ago
Yesterday was the feast of St. Jean Baptiste, patronal feast of the French on this side of the ocean and its observance 25 years ago was reported in the old Sun as follows:

"The observance of St. John's day is not as formal as has been the case in former years in this city. There was solemn high mass at St. Jean Baptiste church on Merrimack street at 8 o'clock, celebrated by Rev. Fr. Constantineau, O. M. I., of Ottawa college, with Rev. Fr. Pelletier, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. The mass was sung by the children of the school. At the offertory a duet was sung by Messrs. Cossette and Lafontaine. At the close of the service a hymn to St. Jean Baptiste was sung by the congregation.

"In the evening a festival of cherries and roses was celebrated on a very large scale in Huntington hall. At 7 o'clock the Association Catholique headed by the City band left its hall in Middle street and marched through Shattuck, Market and Dutton streets to the building of L'Union St. Joseph where the ranks were enlarged by Corporation St. Andre. The procession then passed up Dutton to Thordike, to Middlesex streets, where St. Jean Baptiste society fell in. All three organizations with banners and regalia marched down Middlesex to Central, to Merrimack, to Huntington hall where the banners of the societies were gracefully arranged on the stage. Around the hall were many gaily decorated booths at which refreshments, etc. were dispensed. At the entrance to the hall was a table devoted to light drinks which was presided over by Miss Malvina Cote and Mr. Samuel Marchand. In the center of the hall was the flower table in charge of Miss L. and Miss A. Raymond. The other tables were arranged around the sides of the hall. They were in charge of the following: Candy table, A. Bernier and Miss Victoria Leclaire; fruit table, P. Bosquet and Miss Grace Duberges; ice cream table, Joseph Roy and Miss Georgianna Vigeant; telegraph and post office, Miss A. Lemaitre and Miss E. Traversy. In Jackson hall supper was served. Those in charge of the refreshment tables were Mr. and Mrs. A. Gadois, Mr. and Mrs. N. Lussier, Mr. and Mrs. W. Parthenais and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Vigeant.

"The hall was crowded and during the evening tableaux were presented and selections given by the City band. Henri J. Mailloux manufactured candy in the hall and distributed it among the merry-makers. The fun was kept up until midnight.

"The voting contest closed at 10 o'clock. The silver service on the flower table was awarded Mrs. Joseph A. Mailloux who brought in $292.70 against $175.90 by her competitor. Mrs. Delina Faneuf received the lady's gold watch on the same table, collecting $125 against $102 and $64 by her competitors. Also on this table was a gentleman's gold watch which was won by Frank Lanoie who brought in $57 against $32 by his competitor. The gold watch on the candy table was won by Miss Nellie Joshi who turned in $107.10 against $11.02 by her competitor. Rev. Fr. Lancelon, O. M. I., presented the gifts."

Police Had a Picnic
Perhaps you may say they have a continuous picnic, which, of course, is unkind, but as a matter of fact just quarter of a century ago the police held a "regular" picnic, just like other organizations, and had a bully time. In these days of discipline and brotherly love, the police department a picnic might not be a tremendous success but that of quarter of a century ago certainly was, and the old Sun reported it as follows:

"The policemen's picnic was held at Triggs Island on Saturday last and was attended by a very large number of pleasure seekers and friends of the "cops." Eight officers were present from Manchester and a larger number from Haverhill. A feature of the sports was a ball game between the Lowell and Haverhill police. Ex-Alderman Peter H. Donohoe and Officer Ben Lake of Manchester umpired the game. But four innings were played and the result was a victory for Lowell by a score of 11 to 9. The members of the Lowell team were: Jim Boyle, P. L. Ingalls, C. J. Walsh, B. Edgar Bills, Jr., Peter Crowley, B. Jack Leighton, J. George Palmer, ss.

"A long list of miscellaneous sports was run off, affording much amusement. A carriage race and whip for the best looking team on the island was awarded to Alderman Putnam. A novel and interesting feature of the occasion was the liberation of about 100 young pigeons by Officer Tom Whitaker, who is a member of the Homing club. There were birds from Lowell, Boston, Lawrence and Manchester, and after circling about the island for a short time they took different directions for their respective homes, and were eventually subsequently found at their destination. The American brass band furnished music for dancing."

"There was great sport at these old time picnics, and a picnic always drew a great crowd. Of the police ball team of quarter of a century ago, Jim Ingalls, who is now in the diamond, for he was a member of the police team up to within a few years. Thanks to the newspapers, George Palmer is just as young as he used to be though he has abandoned baseball, as have the others of whom Edgar Bills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Lafontaine and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional rheumatic kick keeps him away from some of the events. After several years as an enthusiastic pigeon racer, Tom went in for the whippers and it was largely through his efforts that whippet racing received a big boom in this country some few years ago. Through his influence, aided by Michael J. Markham, then a member of the common council, one of the biggest whippet races ever held in America took place on the South common, on July 4th, a number of years ago. Tom is also a great baseball fan though also loyal to his old home game of cricket. Until the rheumatics got to him he used to arrange to have his vacations when the world's baseball series was being held in the fall, in order that he might witness the games. Should you ever get into an argument with Tom on the rules or procedure of any line of sport, give careful attention to what he may say and don't make any bets for he is a pretty good authority on all sporting matters.

Julian Keyes a Fast Youth
Now don't misinterpret that headline, for the genial bankman was a model youth, but fast on his feet, and quarter of a century ago he won the 100 yards dash at the high school picnic. In order to win such a race he had to be some sprinter. The old Sun reported the high school's picnic of that time as follows:

"The annual picnic of the high school boys and girls was held at Willow Dale on Tuesday. They left in barges and had an all day outing, returning home at 10 o'clock. Great interest was manifested in the sports. The 100 yards dash was won by Julian Keyes, who will receive a box of stationery from Merril's. P. H. Carr won the walking match, open to ladies and gentlemen, and received a walking stick as a prize. Donald C. Campbell won the boys' single boat race and received a box of stationery for his prize. B. C. Campbell and Guy Pierce won the boys' double boat race and received an engraving from G. C. Prince & Son."

The old Sun doesn't state what Messrs. Keyes and Campbell did with the stationery nor whether they used it. The boys' double boat race was held in order to share that engraving, neither does it enlighten us as to the identity of the genius who selected the prizes.

School Board Meeting
In days gone by the last meeting in June of the school board was the most important in the year, excepting the June meeting, 25 years ago most of the salaries were unchanged but some increases were voted. Says the old Sun: "The salary of John A. Smith, supervisor of evening schools and truancy commissioner was increased from $1200 per year to $1350; the salary of Emily H. Baker, assistant teacher at the training school, from $600 to $700; the salary of Katherine T. Keyes, second assistant teacher at the training school from $450 to $700; of Ida Phil, teacher of sewing, from $600 to $650."

Today there is no such position as that held by the late Mr. Smith and there is no training school, and hence no assistants; while instruction in sewing is given at the Girls' vocational school.

Continuing its report the old Sun says: "The following training school teachers were elected: Annie M. Buckminster, Gertrude A. Rodolf, Mary L. Keith, Margaret Y. McCusker, Mary I. Donlon, Carrie M. Sprague, Mary H. Marren, Minnie C. Gray, Fannie A. Hardy, Margaret J. McCarthy. Mr. Woodies asked to have Miss Lizzie F. Lemere transferred to the Grand street school from the Highland. Mr. Cummings asked if the teacher had been consulted and Mr. Woodies replied negatively. The transfer was made. Mr. Cummings voting negatively. Mr. Howe was elected principal of the Colburn school after six ballots. Misses Susan M. Andrews, Agnes L. Douglass, E. Eliza and Miss Glavin. Mrs. Arilla L. Reader and Miss Margie P. Marren of the Colburn school were elected subject to transfer later on. The election of special teachers was taken up and Thomas M. Graves was elected teacher of penmanship, Walter E. Owen, musical director, Olive B. Underwood, teacher of drawing, Ida J. Flint, teacher of sewing, and George E. Worthen, military instructor.

The chairman of the committee on teachers recommended that three young ladies examined under ago for admission to the training school be admitted thereto. The names are: Annie M. Wright. It appeared that a former ruling on a similar matter was to the effect that the rules must be suspended requiring a three-fourths vote, in order to admit such teachers.

After a discussion, during which it was claimed that such young teachers had no control over their pupils, the girls were admitted by a vote of 8 to 2, after the chairman had ruled against the three-fourths vote rule.

Teachers at National Convention
Says the Sun of a quarter of a century ago:

"The following Lowell school teachers attended the convention of the National Educational association to be held at St. Paul, Minn., opening July 3 and continuing for three days: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Haworth and son; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bean, Miss Nellie Bean, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Whitney, Mr. J. F. Westen, Miss L. Weston, Miss Ellen M. White, Miss Jennie Allen, Miss Lizzie Lamere, he has abandoned baseball, as have the others of whom Edgar Bills resigned from the police force many years ago, while Messrs. Lafontaine and Leighton have since passed away. Tom Whitaker is still an ardent enthusiast on all kinds of clean sport, although an occasional rheumatic kick keeps him away from some of the events. After several years as an enthusiastic pigeon racer, Tom went in for the whippers and it was largely through his efforts that whippet racing received a big boom in this country some few years ago. Through his influence, aided by Michael J. Markham, then a member of the common council, one of the biggest whippet races ever held in America took place on the South common, on July 4th, a number of years ago. Tom is also a great baseball fan though also loyal to his old home game of cricket. Until the rheumatics got to him he used to arrange to have his vacations when the world's baseball series was being held in the fall, in order that he might witness the games. Should you ever get into an argument with Tom on the rules or procedure of any line of sport, give careful attention to what he may say and don't make any bets for he is a pretty good authority on all sporting matters.

England Justifies U. S. Cargo Seizures — Denies Americans Have Substantial Grievance

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Great Britain, in a memorandum transmitted to the United States and made public here and in London last night, recites at length its efforts to minimize inconvenience to neutral commerce resulting from the order-in-council against trade with Germany, Austria and Turkey, and asserts that American citizens have no just grounds for complaint on account of the treatment accorded their cargoes.

No attempt is made to answer the principles asserted in the American note of March 1 protesting against the order-in-council and insisting upon the right of neutrals to carry on legitimate commerce with each other and to trade in non-contraband with civilians in belligerent countries. In transmitting the memorandum, Ambassador Page said it was "merely an explanation of concrete cases and the regulations under which they are dealt with."

Another note to Great Britain is now in course of preparation at the state department and is expected to be despatched as soon as the negotiations with Germany over submarine warfare have been cleared up. While this communication probably will make reference to the latest memorandum, it is understood that the manner of enforcing the order-in-council will not be treated as relevant to the question at issue—whether there is any warrant in international law for the powers that Great Britain and her allies have assumed to exercise over the commerce of the world.

In its memorandum the foreign office emphasizes the "various special concessions made in favor of United States citizens" in settling forth that all British officials have acted in every case "with the utmost despatch consistent with the object in view, and showing in every case such consideration for neutrals as might be compatible with the object, namely, to prevent vessels from carrying goods for, or coming from, the enemy's territory."

To Consider Special Cases
Arrangements for buying American cotton detained and for permitting the passage of goods bought in Germany by Americans before the date of the order in council are outlined, and the promise is made that consideration will be given to special cases of this kind in the future.

According to a summary of ships detained there are now 27 vessels which cleared from the United States now held in ports of the United Kingdom. Of these, eight are said to be unloading cotton which Great Britain has agreed to purchase soon and will be allowed to depart as soon as items of their cargo placed in a prize court have been discharged and the other 12—three of them American ships—are the subject of investigations not yet completed.

No Substantial Grievance
"His majesty's government," the memorandum concludes, "is earnestly desirous of removing all cases of unavoidable delay in dealing with American cargoes and vessels which may be detained and any specific inquiries of representations which may be made by the United States government in regard to particular cases will always receive the most careful consideration, and all the information which can be afforded without prejudice to prize court proceedings will be readily communicated; but it can scarcely admit that on the basis of actual facts, any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained and it, therefore, confidently appeals to the opinion of the United States government as enlightened by this memorandum."

No Claims Remain Unpaid
The note continues: "It has been explicitly acknowledged by the special representatives of the American claimants who have been in constant and direct communication with the board of trade, that all the claims so far submitted under the cotton arrangements have been settled with the utmost promptitude, so soon as the production of the necessary documents by the claimants allowed of this being done. There is, at the present moment, no claim for his majesty's government that has not been paid, and the sums so paid over are already considerably in excess of the amounts realized by the sale of the goods."

"As regards the more general allegation of delay in dealing with cases

"The total number of vessels which, having cleared from United States ports since the initiation of the retaliatory measures against German trade, are still detained in United Kingdom ports, is 27 of this number, eight are discharging cotton which his majesty's government has agreed to purchase under the above arrangement. Of the remaining 19 vessels, seven are free to depart so soon as the items of their cargo placed in the prize court have been discharged. The other 12, of which three only American ships are, are detained pending inquiries as to suspicious consignments, and particulars as to the dates and approximate cause of detention are furnished in the accompanying list. It will be observed that eight have been detained for a period of less than a week, and three for a period of less than a fortnight, while the detention of one is due to the difficulties in regard to transit across Sweden and Russia."

No Arbitrary Interference
"His majesty's government remains convinced that, on an impartial review of the facts, it will be admitted that no arbitrary interference with American interests has, in regard to cotton cargoes, occurred; while if due regard be paid to the enormous volume of American and neutral shipping which is continually engaged in the transatlantic trade, the figures and dates quoted in the preceding paragraph will emphasize the restricted nature of any interference which has taken place, and the close attention with which the officials concerned have discharged their strict duty in all cases with expedition and with every possible consideration for neutrals."

The note then cites measures taken to favor American interests which wish to import goods of German origin. Arrangements were made for the interference during transit with certain cargoes of dyestuffs, potash and German beet seed. Later, when German exports continued large, the British government decided to fix June 1, or in special June 15, as the dates when shipments with immunity from seizure must end. The note says:

Shown Great Consideration
"12—Importers in the United States, having now had three months in which to clear off their purchases in enemy territory, his majesty's government trusts that the presence of the circumstances enumerated, the United States government will acknowledge the great consideration which has been shown to American interests."

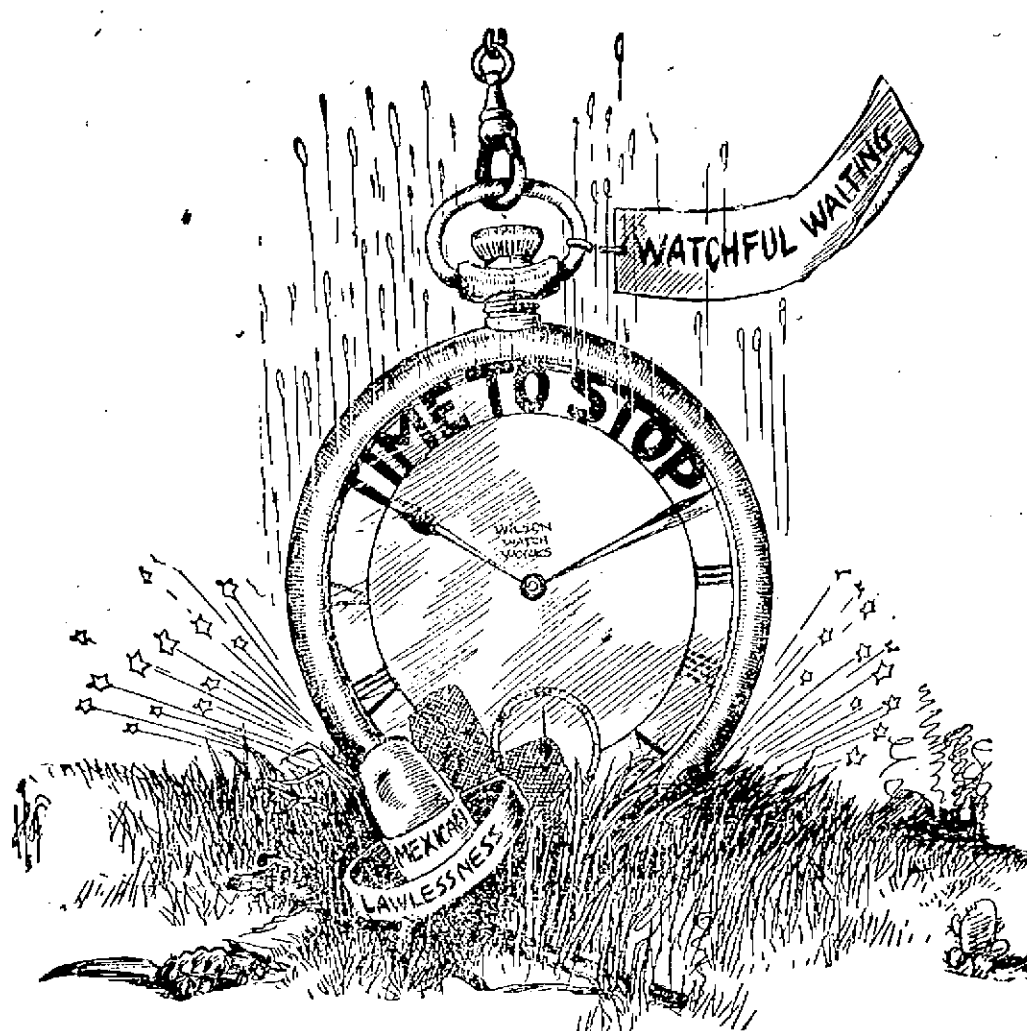

New appeals have been made for an extension of time. The note says that the government considers the American shippers was a friendly concession, in no wise required. Continuing, the note adds:

"15—In deference, however, to the renewed representations of the United States ambassador, his majesty's government has given further consideration to the cases which have been specially submitted through the British embassy at Washington or to his majesty's government direct on or before the 15th of June and passed, the goods shall be allowed to proceed without further interference, if shipped from a neutral port on the conditions already laid down, notwithstanding the fact that shipment may not have been made before the 15th of June."

Delay Due to Americans
The government is prepared, the note says, to grant special consideration in certain cases involving particular hardships, where payment can be shown to have been made before March 1. Other cases will be dealt with in prize court. The government says, of delay in prize court proceedings, that one case was delayed six weeks by the American claimants. In many cases, it is said, the delay is due to the Americans. The note concludes that the British government does not consider that on the basis of actual facts any substantial grievance on the part of American citizens is justified or can be sustained.

Today completed to give Harvard and Yale a perfect regatta day for their annual inter-varsity races. Not a cloud marred the blue of the sky and the Thames course, over which the two and four mile races were to be rowed, showed scarcely a ripple throughout its entire length. Following in the wake of the heavy northwest breeze of the past few days, it lifted a weight from the minds of oarsmen and coaches and gave promise of a day ideal for boat races.
Cheered by conditions favorable for both spectators and crews, the thousands who form the most picturesque setting seen at any American regatta began to gather along the course soon after sunrise.
Special trains from east and west, motor cars, excursion boats, steam yachts and sailing craft all contributed their share to swell the crowds and long before the starting time of the junior eight races the principal streets, railroad stations and waterfront were scenes of indescribable confusion, color and clamor. Alumni and underclassmen from the rival universities guided parties of pretty girls, matrons and smartly dressed chauffeurs to points of vantage on shore, observation train and yacht decks from which to watch the struggle of the junior and senior oarsmen in the three races of the day.
The colors of the rival colleges were evident on every hand in the form of flags, arm bands, feathers, balloons, confetti and paper streamers. Ticket speculators stood ready to supply observation car seats at prices ranging from $10 to $20 each, and did a bustling business despite the hundreds of per cent profit they charged.
There was little chance over night in the actual racing or wagering situation. Even money prevailed on the variety four mile race, with Harvard a slight favorite in the junior and Yale in the freshman contests. The coaches reported a quiet and uneventful night at both camps and the regatta officials stated that every detail for the holding of races had been completed.

HARVARD GETS JUMP

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—The two preliminary races in the annual Harvard-Yale regatta were rowed just before sunset last evening, and Harvard won them both. The first out was for freshmen fours over a mile course, and Harvard won by two lengths and a half. Time, Harvard 6m. 21s, Yale 6m. 31s.
The second race was for eight-oar crews of graduates, who rowed only half a mile. The Crimson won by one and a half lengths. Time, Harvard 3m.

5½s. Yale 3m. 12½s.
In both events the Harvard oarsmen got the jump on their Yale rivals at the crack of the starting gun. William A. Melkham's pistol, and they were never headed for a second until the finish flags were reached.
As the races were scheduled to be rowed up-river with the tide, they had to be delayed beyond the hour set because a stiff northwest wind, blowing down stream, made the water too rough for shell rowing until it had died down about 6.15.
